'NON-VIOLENT' SCUFFLE

Students Blocked By Demonstration

NEW YORK (UPI) — Graduate students trying to attend classes at Columbia University clashed today with a militant protest group laying siege to university buildings for a third day.

The student demonstrators permitted two professors to enter Fayerweather Hall, one of four university buildings taken over in the protest involving the Vietnam war and racial issues. The protesters had voted to allow students and faculty to enter the hall.

But when two graduate students in economics attempted to force their way through the demonstrators, a scuffle broke out and the students gave up and left.

Prof. Stanislaw Wellicz and a colleague were the first to arrive at the hall for 9 a.m. classes. After some discussion with the student demonstrators sitting across the entrance, both climbed over the demonstrators and entered the building.

"I don't think a dispute between the administration and the community should disrupt classes," Wellicz said.

Moments later, two students arrived to attend Wellicz's class in economic growth and development and found their way barred.

Robert Baker, 24, and Arthur Ganzolsi, 23, tried to push through the demonstrators but several of the protesters pushed back and both students gave up.

"You're interrupting my money," the red-haired Baker shouted angrily at the seated students and 10 pickets. "I'm not here to attend a . . . meeting. I want to attend class."

The demonstrators then took a new vote on allowing access to Fayerweather Hall and again decided not to block the way.

"They voted to let people in," David Epstein, 25, a graduate student in anthropology reported, "but they're keeping their bodies in the way. Anyone who wants to enter will have to climb over them."

NON-VIOLENT

Epstein, one of the demonstrators, said they were determined to keep their protest nonviolent.

University administrators and faculty members met most of the night or remained on call hoping for a break in the protest.

About 250 students spent most of the night in four of the university's building, including administration buildings for the graduate university and undergraduate college.

The students freed the acting dean of Columbia College, Henry S. Coleman, and two aids Wednesday after holding them captive in Coleman's office for 26 hours. They also temporarily barricaded themselves inside the office of university president Grayson Kirk Wednesday and wrecked it.

At issue in the Columbia protest—which involved only a few hundred of the 27,500 students enrolled — were the school's plans for a new gym in a nearby Harlem park and its work with the Institute for Defence Analysis.

Michener Tour Cut

OTTAWA (CP) — Governor-General Michener has cancelled official visits to six provinces because of the June 25 general election.

A Government House announcement today said the Governor-General "has regretfully decided . . . that it would be inadvisable to make official visits and accept public engagements while a general election is taking place."

Mr. Michener had planned visits to Manitoba, Saskatchewan and British Columbia in May and to New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia in June.

VETS ATTACK PROTESTERS AT CENOTAPH

LONDON (AP)—Australian and New Zealand war veterans clashed with anti-Vietnam war demonstrators today at a wreath-placing ceremony at London's Cenotaph, the national war memorial.

The veterans were commemorating Anzac Day, honoring the Australian and New Zealand dead in the two world wars.

The veterans surged up the steps of the Cenotaph and tried to destroy the anti-war group's wreath.

The veterans also grabbed the demonstrators' banners, ripping them and trampling on them.

Police arrested eight demonstrators.

Foreign Policy Key Issue

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau said Tuesday foreign policy will be an issue in the June 25 election campaign.

Just 26 hours later, Conservative Leader Stanfield took up the challenge in his opening shot of the campaign at London, Ont.

In the foreign policy field at least, the campaign may be the liveliest since acceptance of American nuclear weapons was an issue in the 1963 contest.

The external affairs issue really began April 7, the day after Mr. Trudeau was chosen Liberal leader, with Mr. Trudeau's call for a complete re-assessment of foreign policy.

He was replying to a question about the possibility of bringing Canadian troops home from Europe.

Mr. Stanfield termed this a casual and incomplete statement on foreign policy which Mr. Trudeau had made "off the top of his head."

On Wednesday night in a speech at London he went further.

"Rhetoric," he said of Mr. Trudeau's statement.

SUGGEST REVIEW

The prime minister had suggested a review of Canada's commitments. But the renewal of the North American Air Defence agreement with the U.S. for five years—signed before Mr. Trudeau became Liberal leader—suggested a foreign policy which would retain Canadian commitments.

Mr. Stanfield said NATO would deteriorate if Canada withdrew from the alliance.

Mr. Stanfield demanded an early and explicit statement by Mr. Trudeau on foreign policy.

The freshman prime minister said Wednesday that reshaping foreign policy is very important to him and that he will have ideas to present during the campaign. However, it would not be wise to introduce fundamental changes before the election.

He said he has a basic objection to the proliferation of nuclear weapons. The more countries which had such arms, the greater the danger of some trigger-happy nation starting a war.

The implication was that he may rid Canada of American nuclear weapons. In 1963, he called then Prime Minister Pearson the "unfrocked prince of peace" for accepting these weapons.

Defence Minister Cadieux returns today from a meeting of the NATO nuclear planning group, of which Canada is a permanent member. The group deals with how best to employ tactical nuclear weapons in the defence of Europe.

There are some 7,000 American tactical nuclear warheads in Europe, hundreds of which

SODOMY, RAPE, HOMOSEXUALITY

Wider Divorce Law Explained At Annual Panel Discussion

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

Under Canada's new divorce legislation, sodomy, bestiality, rape or homosexuality will be grounds for divorce.

Victoria lawyer, Kenneth Murphy, gave this answer at the legal forum in the McPherson Playhouse Wednesday night, sponsored by the Victoria Daily Times, Radio Station CJVI and Victoria Bar Association.

More than 700 men and women, most of them in the middle-age group, attended the forum—the third of its kind since 1966.

A leading question addressed to the panel of four Victoria lawyers was: "When will the new divorce laws be in effect and what will be the grounds for divorce?"

QUESTIONS, ANSWERS ON PAGES 18, 19

Mr. Murphy replied:

"The basic ground for divorce for many years has been adultery and that still exists in the new divorce legislation, which has not yet been proclaimed.

"It was thought the new legislation would come into effect in May 1 of this year, but that is not so. It may not come in until perhaps June or July or even in the fall, because certain rules have to be made up in order to deal with this new legislation."

Mr. Murphy said the new divorce legislation provides that adultery will still be a ground for divorce. Other grounds will be sodomy, bestiality, rape or homosexuality.

There is also, he added, a new proviso that, where the petitioner has been treated with physical or mental cruelty of such kind as to make it impossible for the marriage to continue, a divorce may be granted.

BOUMEDIENNE
. . . cut lip

Assassins Miss Mark In Algeria

ALGIERS (UPI) — Two men today machine gunned a car carrying Algerian President Houari Boumedienne but he escaped with a cut lip from flying glass. An official announcement said the two suspected assailants were killed.

The assassination attempt came minutes after a cabinet meeting presided over by Boumedienne who five months ago crushed an attempted military coup against his regime.

Police promptly surrounded the hilly, sun-baked area overlooking Algiers and announced an hour later the two suspected assailants had been killled. One of Boumedienne's body guards was reported killed in the shooting affray.

The government-controlled Algerian news agency APS reported the assassination attempt, the first since Boumedienne seized power on June 19, 1965.

FEDERAL fisheries minister Hedard Robichaud announced today he will not seek re-election because of "personal reasons." Mr. Robichaud, 56, has represented the New Brunswick riding of Gloucester since 1953 and was named fisheries minister in 1963.

Mystery Surrounds Russian Satellite

MOSCOW (Reuters) — The Soviet Union today launched an unmanned satellite of the kind that prompted former U.S. defence secretary Robert McNamara to say Russia was testing an orbiting bomb system.

The new craft was put into a low, partial orbit and was apparently returned to earth before making a complete rotation. The evidence for this is the lack in the official announcement of an orbiting time, normally given when conventional satellites are launched.

McNamara said Nov. 3 last year that a series of nine similar Soviet satellites appeared to be tests of a Fractional Orbital Bombardment System, in which bombs would be placed into a low orbit and then brought down over their targets.

Today's satellite, Cosmos 218, was the first of this type since McNamara made his announcement. Like the previous nine satellites, its minimum altitude was about 90 miles.

The Soviet Union also announced today that another unmanned satellite, Cosmos 217, had been launched Wednesday. The official announcement did not give precise details of its mission.

Saigon Warned Of Attack

SAIGON (AP) — The national police directorate warned the 3,000,000 residents of Saigon today that the Viet Cong plans another attack on the capital.

A communique was the first official warning, although the army was placed on full alert in Saigon and 11 outlying provinces earlier this week.

"The Viet Cong now is employing all means to transport arms, ammunition and explosives into Saigon, this with the goal of provoking trouble and outbursts of violence among the population and to assure the North Vietnamese Communists a favorable position in forthcoming negotiations," the communique said.

Hanoi Reply Secret

(Times News Services)

North Vietnam replied today to the latest United States proposals on the site for preliminary peace talks but the nature of the reply was not disclosed.

U.S. Ambassador William H. Sullivan was called to the North Vietnamese embassy in Vientiane, capital of Laos, to receive a formal note from the Hanoi government.

There were widespread rumors that both sides are approaching a compromise on Paris as the site for talks.

U.S. officials in Washington said however that North Vietnam appears to be mounting a major campaign aimed at getting the United States to accept Warsaw.

That was their assessment of Poland's reported appeal to six embassies in Warsaw to exert influence in bringing preliminary peace talks on ending the Vietnam war to the Communist nation's capital. In Ottawa, the Canadian government confirmed its embassy received the appeal.

President Johnson meanwhile was reported prepared to carry on prolonged, hard-nosed negotiations with North Vietnam over the site.

U.S. officials say North Vietnam believes that by manipulating public opinion pressures against the Johnson administration it can force the U.S. to agree to a place agreeable to Hanoi and painful to Washington.

SITE AS WEDGE

U.S. officiials also believe if the site is unfavorable enough to U.S. interest and disliked enough by South Vietnam the issue may be used to drive a wedge between the Washington and Saigon governments—which is one reason why the White House and state department have been nervous about the site selection process from the beginning.

A third motivation suggested by American officials is that North Vietnam feels it is important to determine at the outset how much power it can wield.

Reliable sources in Warsaw said Wednesday that the Polish government called in envoys of Canada, the Soviet Union, Japan, Britain, France and India and asked them to approach Washington about agreeing to Warsaw for initial U.S.-North Vietnamese talks.

Diplomatic sources in London said the Soviet Union has thrown its full weight behind Hanoi's demand that Warsaw be chosen.

Moscow's influence is strong in the Polish capital and the Kremlin would be able to keep a closer watch on Washington-Hanoi talks there than in any of the other sites suggested so far.

Johnson administration leaders stuck to their position that the city had to be a neutral place in respect to the war and a site which provided access for U.S. allies in the war, particularly the Saigon government, South Korea and Thailand.

Among foreign diplomats speculation continued to centre on Paris as a compromise city.

TAJ MAHAL SLOWLY SINKING IN THE EAST

Cracks Are Growing in Monument to Love

AGRA, India (AP) — The magnificent Taj Mahal, the peerless monument to love which is India's major tourist attraction, may be sinking ever so slowly into the sacred Jumna River.

Mogul Emperor Shah Jahan's memorial to his second wife is in no immediate danger of crumbling, but some experts in the department of archeology say prompt remedial action is needed.

The Taj first developed cracks in portions of its massive underground foundation several years after its completion, about 1654.

An Englishman, Capt. Joseph Taylor, made repairs in 1810. Additional repairs were logged in 1874.

A recent check showed the tilt of the Taj's four minarets has increased, with one leaning nearly nine inches. Cracks in upper reaches of the huge marble dome are reported enlarging as well.

BEAUTY WORLD-KNOWN

Whatever cracks there may be in the 300-year-old monument, it is still a work of art. Whether viewed at the break of dawn, in the glaring sun of mid-day or in the sheen of a full moon, the Taj lives up to every expectation of the tourist.

A good portion of the $33,600,000 in foreign exchange which India earned from tourists last year must be credited to the Taj.

Special air, rail and bus service is provided from New Delhi to Agra, a distance of 120 miles, and efficient guide service is readily available.

Shah Jahan had the Taj built as a sepulchre for his second—and favorite—wife, Mumtaz Mahal, Exalted of the Palace. She bore 14 of the emporor's children, dying while giving birth to his eighth son, in 1630 while the shah was waging a battle campaign nearby.

The shah invited designs for the monument and finally selected one by Ustad Isa, a Persian.

The emperor brought in skilled craftsmen from France, Italy, Persia and Turkey, and threw 20,000 laborers into the construction. It took about 22 years. One Indian government publication estimates the original cost at $70,000,000.

Hughes Launches Bid For Gambling Control

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — Howard Hughes has cleared his first hurdle toward becoming Nevada's biggest gambling casino operator.

The state gaming control board unanimously recommended Wednesday that two new gambling licences for the industrialist be approved.

The applications for Hughes to buy the Stardust Hotel-Casino for $30,700,000 and the lease of the gaming operation at the Silver Slipper for $5,300,000 will come before the state gaming commission for final action April 30.

One member of the board, Keith Campbell, said it would be a near monopoly of casinos.

If the commission approves the licences, Hughes will own six casinos which account for 14.3 per cent of Nevada's gross gambling revenue—the amount lost by casino patrons at slot machines and gambling tables.

STRIKE POSSIBLE

Postal Workers Break Off Talks

OTTAWA (CP) — Negotiations between Canada's postal workers and the federal government broke down Wednesday, it has been reliably learned.

An informant said negotiators for the Council of Postal Unions, representing some 22,000 union members, walked out of a bargaining session with treasury board representatives late in the afternoon.

Further bargaining sessions towards a first contract made possible under new legislation had been scheduled for later in the week. These have been cancelled, the source said.

It was also learned the talks ended before negotiations had begun on wage demands.

Under the Public Service Staff Relations Act, the council now may elect to have a conciliator or a full conciliation board appointed to review the situation.

NO COMMENT

Rick Otto, acting co-chairman of the council, declined to comment on the report negotiations had ceased. A government spokesman issued a terse "no comment" when asked to confirm the breakdown.

Earlier in the week the council announced it would break off negotiations Wednesday if progress had not been made. The announcement said study would then be given to the conciliation procedure.

Otto said negotiations and contract demands remain confidential. However, he indicated a council statement may be forthcoming Friday.

UNDER PRESSURE

Union negotiators have been under increasing pressure from locals of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers and Letter Carriers Union of Canada—who comprise the council—in Montreal, Hamilton, Ottawa and other points to move to conciliation and strike action if progress was not immediately forthcoming.

There have been rumors, denied by union officials here, that a May strike date is being considered.

William Houle, president of the postal workers' Montreal local, said Tuesday his union is considering the possibility of a June strike in the home stretch of the general election campaign. Maurice Briere, Montreal letter carriers president, said the same.

. . . DIVORCE LAW

"Formerly this was only ground for a juhicial separation," Mr. Murphy said. "Under the new legisltaion, where you could formerly get only a judicial separation, which would not permit you to re-marry, you will now be free to re-marry, because a divorce will be granted.

"However, the basic change has occurred in the new concept of divorce—the concept that the marriage has broken down."

Another leading question addressed to the panel was:

"My wife and I have no children. She made a will leaving everything to me. And I made a will leaving everything to her. If we are both killed at the same time—as in a plane crash—who gets our estate?"

John C. Scott-Harston, QC, replied:

"My answer to this fly now, pay later, type of question is that the B.C. government will grab a good deal of the estates of both yourself and your wife.

"Our survivorship or presumption of death act says that, where two people died at the same time—or even in circumstances which make it uncertain which of them survives the other—the older of the two is deemed to have died first."

"In either case, the government will get most of both estates."

To the question: "Is my landlord entitled to enter my apartment without my consent?" Mrs. Constance Isherwood replied:

"You are entitled to the quiet enjoyment and uninterrupted use of your apartment. But the landlord does have the right to enter the premises at reasonable times. He should, however, ask your consent first."

Judge Montague Tyrwhitt-Drake was moderator and other questions were answered by Victoria lawyer Dermod Owen-Flood.

The whole forum—from 8:30 p.m. to 10:30 p.m.—was broadcast live over Radio Station CJVI.

Early comers were entertained with an organ recital by Reg Stone.

. . . POLICY

would be delivered by Canadian forces in a war.

Mr. Trudeau has said that he thinks Canada ssould concentrate more on North American air defence. But he has not spelled out what this might mean in acquisition of more jet interceptors or missiles.

He has also said, in regard to peacekeeping, that Canada cannot be the policeman for the entire globe.

This statement may undermine the policy of the Pearson administration which geared defence re-organization to peacekeeping.

Liberals, Conservatives and NDP are agreed on one aspect of foreign policy: foreign aid must be increased.

Mr. Trudeau has suggested that Canadian aid be more selective to have more impact. It should be more bilateral than multilateral.

On Vietnam, the new prime minister has stuck to the policy line adopted by Mr. Pearson: the U.S. should stop the bombing of North Vietnam.

He has rejected the proposal, advanced by the NDP, that Canada should stop selling arms to the U.S.

Mr. Stanfield warned Wednesday that Canada's withdrawal from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization might force the United States toward isolationist tendencies.

"Vietnam has already taken a heavy toll on public opinion in the U.S. and I think it is generally agreed that there could be an increase in isolationist sentiment among both the so-called hawks and doves there if the war is not concluded satisfactorily.

"More real is the danger that the deterioration of NATO would greatly increase the risk of unilateral confrontation among the great powers, by leaving the U.S. to act virtually as a unilateral power in the defence of Europe."

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Cloud persisted over all forecast regions overnight as a weather disturbance moved through southern areas of the province. Showers occurred along the coast and parts of the central interior. Some clearing will occur behind the system through the day in all regions with the clearing becoming more extensive tonight. Another disturbance from the Pacific will spread rain into the north coast tonight with the cloud extending to the south coast region by noon Friday. Temperatures will continue much the same.

Computer's Blind Dates Blinding

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (Reuters) — Engineer Eric Treaster has lost a court battle against a dating computer which he claimed saddled him either with chain-smoking fat girls who drank or inaccessible women.

Treaster, 22, told a judge Wednesday that 10 "compatible" girls introduced by the computer dating firm Compatibility Testing International lived an average of 230 miles from Sacramento.

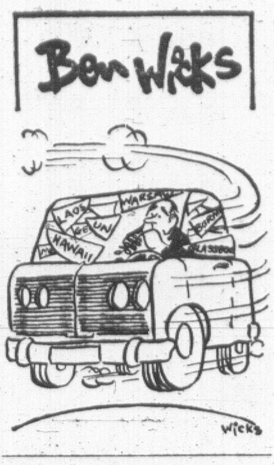
About one introduction, he complained: "She smoked continually, drank, had just been divorced, had not completed any college and weighed 15 pounds more than I weigh."

The firm's owner called the girls "very fine referrals." The judge sympathized with Treaster but said he failed to prove breach of contract and was not entitled to repayment of $175 dating fee.

Bill Approved

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. senate banking committee today approved an administration housing bill authorizing $5.7 billion over three years to attack urban decay and encourage ghetto residents to rebuild and buy their own homes.

Passed unanimously was a 300-page measure which would create new programs to help attack a central cause of racial violence—slum housing.



Hot Debate Splits Board

CALGARY (CP) — The public school board, in a split decision Tuesday night, decided that its 69,000 students should recite a pledge of allegiance to the Canadian flag at all school assemblies.

In approving by a 3-to-2 vote a resolution introduced by trustee Harald Gunderson, trustees hotly debated the choice of words.

The pledge reads: "To my flag and to the country it represents, I pledge respect and loyalty. Wave with pride from sea to sea and within your folds, keep us ever united. Be for all a symbol of freedom and justice. God Save our Queen. God protect our Canada."

Mr. Gunderson's motion contains a clause allowing a student to refuse to recite the pledge for political or religious reasons.

The strongest objection to the pledge came from trustee Mary-Ellen Johnson, who said it represents a "my country right or wrong" approach.

"I don't think we lack a sense of national unity," she said. "But we don't wear our heart or our flag on our sleeve."

Bus Drivers In Hull Strike

HULL, Que. (CP)—This city of 60,000 was without public transportation today after about 60 bus drivers went on strike for higher wages.

The Amalgamated Transit Union is asking an increase of 80 cents an hour. The company, Hull City and Metropolitan Transport, has offered half that.

The drivers now are paid $1.94 an hour for a 40-hour work week.

both the United States and North Vietnam expressed willingness to talk, Washington has made some costly blunders.

Johnson's March 31 announcement of a limited bombing halt was overshadowed two days later by the worldwide realization that the U.S. was continuing to bomb up to the 20th parallel, 225 miles north of the demilitarized zone dividing the two Vietnams.

Johnson's announctment had been interpreted by most people as meaning bombing would be continued only in an area immediately north of the DMZ.

And in the March 31 speech and a follow-up statement three days later the president reiterated his readiness to send representatives "to any forum at any time."

He was not willing, however, to send his representative to either Warsaw or Phnom Penh, Cambodia, the cities proposed by North Vietnam for preliminary talks.

Thus he had reminded war policy critics of his claim of readiness to go anywhere, anytime at the very moment that he was unwilling to do just that.

School Building Ceiling Hiked

Peterson Announces Increase; Defends Education Formula

BURNABY (CP) — Education Minister Leslie Peterson Wednesday announced the province's ceiling on elementary school building costs has been increased to $16,000 a classroom from $15,000.

He made the announcement, and a defence of new school financing policies, at the annual convention of the B.C. Parent-Teacher Federation. The secondary school ceiling of $22,500 is unchanged.

"Our experience has indicated architects are having difficulty in designing elementary classrooms at $15,000, so I am pleased to announce a modest increase to $16,000," he said.

Robert Buzza, president of the B.C. Teachers Federation, later told the convention the new school financing formula places too much reliance on having costs approved by the minister.

The federation earlier this month decided to mount a $57,-00 campaign of opposition to the legislation. Mr. Buzza reiterated the campaign will be educational, rather than political.

"But teachers have a responsibility to take a position when they think something threatens better education," he added. The federation has more than 19,000 members.

"NO APOLOGIES"

Mr. Peterson conceded he felt like "an Israeli at a Jordanian village festival" after hearing criticism of the legislation. But, he added: "I make no apologies."

He said ceilings on construction costs are only temporary. They were necessary because of tight money, climbing costs and danger of piling upheavy debts at high interest rates.

"Yesterday (Tuesday) I announced the grants to school districts for 1968 under the new formula. The net result . . . is that the province-wide average mill rate for 1968 will only increase by 1.19 mills."

If the old formula had been used, the increase would have been higher by 1.45 mills. Budgeting for teacher salaries rose by $21,500,000, or 15.2 per cent, from the 1967 level.

Mr. Buzza, who sat through Mr. Peterson's address, later told delegates a major complaint is that there was little or no consultation with teachers before the new formula came in.

"It's all subject to ministerial discretion and no one knows what will be approved," Mr. Buzza complained. "We're concerned with so much power vested in one man. . .

MRS. THOMPSON
. . . new president

"We keep hearing the province is in an enviable financial position. We are told we could raise $23,000,000 in three minutes for a new superport. So why should schools be lagging behind?"

Mrs. A. B. Thompson of Victoria, former Greater Victoria school trustee, was elected president of the BCPTF. She succeeds Marion Redgrave of Trail.

At one stage a delegate rose to complain membership had declined to 352 groups with 21,000 members in 1967 from 650 groups with 52,000 members eight years ago.

He called for a 15-minute break "to talk and think about this" but was defeated.

INVITED to lecture at three institutes in Europe this spring is C. O. Brawner. Vice-President of Golder, Brawner and Associates in Vancouver, Mr. Brawner was formerly senior materials engineer with B.C. Highways Department. Lectures will deal with stability of rock slopes in open pit mining, design and construction of tailings, dams and the influence and control of groundwater in mining.

Pair Fined For Fighting On Street Corner

Two youths were fined Wednesday and a third was remanded for sentence after a fight on a downtown street corner March 8.

Donald Johnson, 20, of 703 Esquimalt, Peter Holicza, 19, of the same address, and William Bell, 18, of 3950 Cedar Hill Cross Road, pleaded guilty.

Court was told an unidentified man and a juvenile were also involved in the fight at Yates and Broad.

Two of the participants required hospital treatment and a store's plate glass door was smashed.

Magistrate Ostler fined Johnson and Holicza, both sailors, $50 and told them "the navy should stick together and confine their engagements to the enemy."

He remanded Bell, a high school student, to May 1 for presentence report.

Quebec Defies Ottawa

MONTREAL (CP) — Quebec's reported offer of aid to Gabon means a new clash with the federal government's authority in external affairs, an expert in constitutional law said Wednesday.

He referred to reports that Jean Guy Cardinal, Quebec education minister, made such an offer to the tiny West African country at a current conference of French-speaking education ministers in Paris.

The Canadian government, which is responsible for foreign affairs, has suspended relations with Gabon, recalled the expert, who declined use of his name. Thus the Quebec minister's decision "definitely clashes" with federal authority.

Informed sources said in Paris that Cardinal met Tuesday with President Albert-Bernard Bongo to discuss education assistance to Gabon, whose population is less than one-half that of Montreal.

DIRECT AID

Cardinal was asked by a reporter at the outset of the Paris conference what was Ottawa's feeling about Quebec's Union Nationale government giving direct aid to Africa, bypassing existing federal programs. He replied:

"Ottawa has nothing to do with it. Quebec has complete jurisdiction over education matters."

Quebec's Liberal opposition also believes the province should be allowed to have direct diplomatic relations with any foreign government in education.

But Paul Gerin-Lajoie, the party's constitutional expert who made the first provincial initiative in foreign affairs as education minister when the Liberals were in power, said in a recent interview:

"This should not be done in a way that might jeopardize Canadian foreign policy. That is, Quebec should not be able to sign agreements with countries with which the central government has no diplomatic relations."

Major Push Launched On N. Viet Stronghold

SAIGON (CP) — South Vietnamese paratroops have moved close to the A Shau Valley in a new operation to cut off North Vietnamese supply and infiltration routes, military spokesmen said today.

The move could be the start of a major push against the North Vietnamese valley stronghold stretching 25 miles along the border of Laos in the northwest part of South Vietnam.

U.S. and South Vietnamese forces have not ventured into the valley in force in two years—since North Vietnamese troops overran the U.S. Special Forces camp at A Shau and turned the valley into their biggest supply base in South Vietnam.

Amid round-the-clock pounding of the valley by B-52 bombers, nearly 2,000 South Vietnamese paratroops launched Operation Lam Son 216 last Friday, but it was not announced until today for security reasons.

A government communique, giving the first report of significant action, said the paratroops destroyed 10 North Vietnamese trucks 16 miles southwest of Hue on Highway 547.

SUPPLIES HUE-BOUND

North Vietnamese war material and troops moved down the Ho Chi Minh Trail through Laos into the A Shau Valley, and from there are funnelled along Highway 547 eastward to the Hue area.

Intelligence sources report 20 North Vietnamese battalions within striking distance of Hue. Leading U.S. officers believe a new enemy offensive against Hue may be building up.

Socred-Creditiste Union Scorned by Thompson

OTTAWA (CP) — Robert Thompson, former national leader of the Social Credit party, today discounted a prediction by the party's national president of a reunion with the Ralliement des Creditistes.

Mr. Thompson said Social Credit President Herb Brunch bypassed the national executive and the party's four MPs in making his announcement Wednesday in Victoria.

"There have been no consultations that I have been aware of with either Mr. Caouette (Creditiste leader) or Mr. Bruch," Mr. Thompson said in a prepared statement.

"Such procedure is not only unilateral but also unconstitutional and unauthorized."

Mr. Bruch, a Social Credit member of the British Columbia legislature, was quoted as saying he is optimistic that the Social Credit—Creditiste split can be healed in the next few days.

VOICED SIMILAR HOPES

Mr. Caouette, who leads an eight-man Creditiste group in the Commons, voiced similar hopes last week. But A. B. Patterson, acting Social Credit leader, says he has heard nothing from Mr. Caouette.

After the announcement Tuesday of the June 25 general election, Mr. Caouette made no mention of a unified party for the campaign.

He said the Creditistes would run 74 candidates in Quebec, a full slate, as well as three in New Brunswick, four or five in Ontario, two or three in Manitoba and one in Alberta. The party's name in English outside Quebec would be the Social Credit Rally, he said.

Mr. Bruch's count for the campaign included 10 Maritimes candidates, 74 in Quebec, 40 in Ontario, 12 in Manitoba, 10 in Saskatchewan and full slates in Alberta and B.C. All would run under a single party banner.

Mr. Thompson, who will seek the Social Credit nomination in Red Deer, Alta., said today he will not run "with either the Creditistes or Mr. Bruch's version of national Social Credit."

"Mr. Caouette is trying to get outside recognition to shore up his faltering hopes in Quebec," Mr. Thompson said.

Black to Talk Medicare May 9

Provincial Secretary Wesley Black Wednesday said he will meet federal Health Minister MacEachen in Ottawa, May 9, to discuss the national medicare plan. He said "things look rosy" for B.C. participation when the program begins July 1.

Cameron Seeking Re-Election

Rumors that Nanaimo and The Islands MP Colin Cameron might retire to give provincial NDP leader Robert Strachan a federal nomination were denied today.

Although Mr. Cameron could not be contacted, a source close to the veteran Commons member said Mr. Cameron had informed the party caucus, he is not retiring.

Mr. Cameron, who is 71 and makes his home at Lantzville, near Nanaimo, had considered retirement some months ago then rejected the idea. He has already been re-nominated.

Mr. Strachan told a press conference he would not be leaving the provincial field.

"I expect to continue to lead this party and I'll lead it in the next provincial general election, and I expect to win that election," Mr. Strachan said.

He also predicted that the NDP will increase the number of federal seats it holds in B.C. in the June 25 election. The party now holds nine and he believes it could win six more of the 23 B.C. ridings.

U.K. Poll Gives Tories Wide Margin

LONDON (Reuters) — An opinion poll today gave the Conservative party a massive popularity lead of 28 per cent over the governing Labor party.

The London Evening Standard, which published the independently-conducted poll, said this was the biggest such gap since polling began in Britain.

If it was reflected in a general election, the Labor party's present 351 seats in the House of Commons would be slashed to fewer than 100, The Standard said.

The Conservative lead has more than doubled in the last month, the poll said. Tough budget measures were undoubtedly a big factor.

Only 28 per cent of those questioned said they would vote Labor now, and 56 per cent said they would vote Conservative. In the general election two years ago Labor polled 48.7 per cent and Conservative 41.4 per cent of the vote.

Springboard

ALTHOUGH THE OFFICIAL report of economic experts on the proposed urban renewal program for the city's Wharf Street waterfront area will not be available until the end of the month, there is good reason to expect that it will recommend a full-scale development of the district from the Causeway to Johnson Street. This will afford great encouragement to those who have viewed the project in the light of Mayor Stephen's description as perhaps the most important single development plan in the city's history.

It will bring one step nearer the possibility of a major rejuvenation of the 12-block area which in early days was the main business district of the young community. The prospect now is that the area could become a choice residential zone of high-rise dwellings, malls and pedestrian thoroughfares which would provide a vital population base for the support of the whole downtown district.

An inherent part of the plan would, of course, include development of the waterfront, and one proposal has been for a large hotel to rise at the harbor edge. A later concept has included a large convention centre which might be situated on the shore and provide an answer to long-standing requests for the city to put itself into a position to cater to the many large conventions which are a lucrative feature of the visitor industry on this continent. It is in conjunction with such a proposal that recent urgings to establish a special convention bureau financed by an increased business tax could lead to a greatly expanded future for Victoria as a resort for visitors.

A basic feature of the Wharf Street program would be that while encouragement and services would be provided by the city, the chief development would be under private financing, and there is reason to believe that investors would find the whole concept an attractive one. There can be no doubt that the creation of a high-density residential area adjacent to the business sector could have a very important effect on the city's core—and protection of the central core of cities has become a vital consideration in this era of shopping plazas on the periphery of a community.

Many communities which have neglected the significance of the trend have found their main tax base eroded, with consequently heavier demands on homeowners for the revenues required to keep up the dwindling centre.

Victoria is approaching an important decision, if advance suggestions of the renewal report are authentic. The large-scale program will be a matter for development over a number of years, of course, but the tentative experiments which Victoria has made in its Centennial Square and Bastion Square projects indicate that given a lead, private investment will follow to the betterment of a whole neighborhood. The Wharf Street area in question is a dwindling asset now. It could, with imagination and inspired planning, become a major factor in the great future which this city has before it.

Under the Lid

IT WAS A SOMBRE BRITISH House of Commons which met this week to debate second reading of the government's race relations bill. The violent outburst at the weekend by a Conservative frontbencher, Enoch Powell, against nonwhites in Britain, and the widespread support he received from almost every level of society, had brought home the fact that the country does have a color problem now, probably more serious than most Britons like to admit.

Even though the non-white population is only one million out of a total of 55 millions—less than 2 per cent—public opinion seems to be strongly inflamed. In a poll last month, for example, 79 per cent of those questioned felt the government was right in denying admission to Indian refugees from Kenya, even though they held British passports and had been told, in effect, that they would have free entry.

Concerning non-white immigrants already in Britain, the same poll found 59 per cent of those questioned in favor of a policy which would encourage them to leave. All the country's major newspapers deplored Mr. Powell's extremist language but the mass circulation Daily Telegraph, Daily Express and Daily Mail criticized Conservative leader Mr. Edward Heath for dismissing him from his "shadow cabinet." They opposed the government's civil rights bill as too strong.

In this situation it was Mr. Quintin Hogg, Conservative spokesman on home affairs in the House, and a former minister, along with Home Secretary James Callaghan, who made the best effort to restore calm and take the matter out of politics.

Although he has been a close friend of Mr. Powell's, Mr. Hogg did not hesitate to say that his weekend speech with its reference to "streets flowing with much blood," and made without advising his leader or colleagues, had been an act of disloyalty. "If one is going to say streets might run with blood," he said, "then one ought to think if one's words in the immediate future are more likely to make this happen." After a reasoned criticism of the defects in the bill, Mr. Hogg offered the co-operation of the Conservatives in the committee stage in writing better legislation.

Mr. Callaghan, after noting that the measure was an attempt to legislate for non-white British citizens what the whites had long ago won for themselves, said he was ready to discuss the formation of the all-party group to oversee the bill which now goes into committee. For the time being, at the political level at least, some of the ugliness has been taken out of the situation. But there is no doubt that the lid has been opened on a Pandora's box and that a distressingly high portion of the British public has been revealed as increasingly racist.

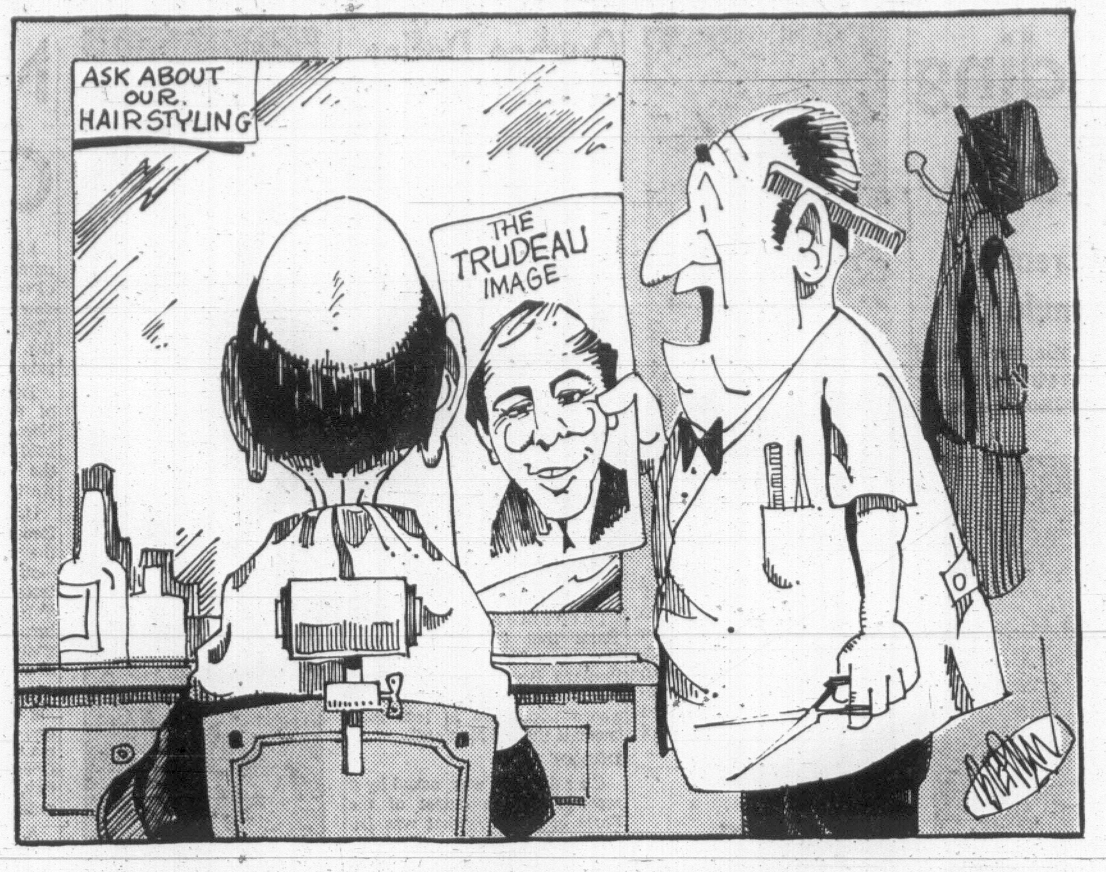
To the Bench

WHILE IT WILL BE A matter of regret to his many friends in this community that Mr. Alan Macfarlane will no longer be serving as Oak Bay's Liberal member in the legislature, his appointment to the British Columbia Supreme Court should be warmly applauded by those familiar with his talents.

He brings to the bench experience in various fields unusual in a man of 43. Native-born, he has been well acquainted with the people and the forces which have created the Victoria we know today and has contributed generously to the development of many of the district's worthwhile agencies.

An RCAF veteran, he has served in a leading capacity in such youth organizations as the Victoria YM-YWCA and the Boys Club, held senior office in the bar association, been active on the directorate of the Sara Spencer Foundation and the Victorian Order of Nurses executive, and has been a valued member of numerous other organizations and clubs.

His elevation to the Supreme Court, from which his father retired after honored service, reflects an official confidence in his capacities that will be endorsed by countless friends and acquaintances here and farther afield.



"... much as I appreciate your fight-fire-with-fire attiude, Mr. Stanfield ... our profession has its limitations ..."

FROM WASHINGTON

By RICHARD PURSER

Revulsion Against the Death Penalty

CANADA is far from alone among countries that have developed a civilized revulsion against the belief that the state has the right to take human life. Britain has already eliminated the death penalty in almost all cases, and its total elimination will inevitably follow. Even the Sade-inspired killers of the "moors" murders case got away with life imprisonment. But the Anglo-Saxon countries are behind the times, despite the progress they are making. Most of continental Europe has long since abandoned the death penalty. This includes Germany, which not so long ago used the death penalty very freely indeed.

Purser

A few years ago, when this correspondent was in London, Britain held one of its last executions. Numbers of Scandinavian journalists descended upon the execution site to report to their countrymen upon what they regarded as this remnant of savage primitivism in an otherwise civilized country.

Aside from backward, authoritarian and Communist countries, however, it is the United States where the death penalty has been most prominent. During the 1930s there were 150 to 200 executions a year in the U.S.

Inherent Violence

The use here of the scaffold, the gas chamber, the electric chair and (in Utah) the firing squad, has been but an extension to government level of the violence inherent in American society. This country was born and brought up in violence. Dislikable as black extremist leader H. Rap Brown is, his declaration last year that "violence is as American as cherry (he meant to say apple) pie" sent a chill of recognition through the country.

The first white settlers here used violence to keep the land they had seized on the eastern seaboard from reclamation by the Indians; the nation formed itself by revolution against established authority; it took the west by mass violence against Indians, which was followed by the law of the fastest draw among the adventurer-settlers themselves; and above all it has kept blacks down by violence, both during and since their period of slavery.

Along with the culture of violence went the fundamentalist version of Protestantism, with its eye-for-an-eye, tooth-for-a-tooth doctrine derived from a few words of the Scriptures. Violence and counter-violence formed a cohesive whole.

Easy Gun Acquisition

All this is more than just history. It sets the pattern for the present state of affairs. Anybody in this country can buy and own a firearm, despite the fact that 17,000 people are killed by firearms annually; police sport their weapons with the utmost conspicuousness; in Texas many people regularly carry handguns in their pockets; and Detroit is a virtual armed camp.

In Arkansas, where a number of horrifying revelations about the prison system have come to light, reform is resisted by most of the people, who believe that prisoners ought to suffer. Furthermore, the Arkansas prisons provide a supply of cheap (for which read black) labor for surrounding entrepreneurs.

The concept of prison as a place preferably for reforming, failing that, of safekeeping various persons unable to conduct themselves in society, grows hard in a society whose formal laws still tailor the punishment to fit the crime rather than the criminal.

But change is taking place, and its beginnings are most evident in new attitudes toward the death penalty. The fact is that even in the United States the death penalty is on the way out. There were only two executions in the entire country last year, and only one in 1966.

Thirteen states have abolished executions altogether. (Criminal law is a state rather than a federal responsibility. There is no national Criminal Code as in Canada). In states retaining the death penalty, the tendency of authorities is to allow the condemned already on death row every benefit of every doubt in their efforts of legal appeal.

For former Governor Pat Brown of California, the execution of Caryl Chessman under his regime was a traumatic experience; and the most recent governor of Maryland not long ago admitted tearfully that as governor he had let some men go to execution due to fear of public opinion, and begged God's forgiveness for his failure to exercise executive clemency.

The constitution prohibits "cruel and unusual punishment." It is quite possible that some civil liberties organization will in due course seek the judicial outlawing of execution as the ultimate in the "cruel and unusual."

Strangely enough, this field of constitutional law has hitherto been sidestepped by the courts. This is partly because of the traditional hesitation of the judiciary to enter into fields of emotional controversy, partly due to fears of accusations of "judicial legislation," and partly because it is quite clear that the founding fathers, when they drew up the constitution, did not view killing as "cruel and unusual". In its widespread form, this is a relatively contemporary belief.

And it is becoming widespread. Opinion polls show that half the people of the Unted States oppose capital punishment. This fact leads to the current controversy that may effectively end the practice altogether, even without the passage of legislation by additional states; lawyers are appealing against the exclusion from jury duty in capital cases of prospective jurors who admit that they have scruples against capital punishment. This, they say, denies defendants a representative jury and faces them with one biased toward the prosecution.

It is an interesting point, and it went to the Supreme Court this week.

Maritime Museum Grant

As a substantial taxpayer in Victoria for very many decades I am all in favor of the city making a substantial grant to our most interesting Maritime Museum.

The museum must be fascinating to very many people who come here as visitors, and they in turn will tell their friends about the very fine Maritime Museum we have here.

After all, ours is very largely a maritime city.—H. C. Holmes, 1002 Government.

Motorized Ski-Cowboys

To the city dweller and outdoor loving person, Green Mountain near Nanaimo is a winter paradise. They come on weekends after many miles of driving, to that beautiful mountain, to get away from the everyday hustle, to relax and enjoy some of the best skiing on this island.

But only lately this serene spot has been invaded by some of these noisy Skidoos that ride the lovely ski slopes, and a steady drone of these machines is heard all over the whole area.

Soon, the ski enthusiast will shy away from that lovely spot and it will be left to those noisy motorized cowboys who are unable or too lazy to ski the way it should be done.—"Green Mountaineer."

School Hovercraft

I have recently learned of the problem faced by two communities in the northern part of Vancouver Island with regard to the difficulties encountered by pupils attending certain schools.

According to a lady interviewed, the state of the roads or the lack of proper roads, creates a practically impossible situation both for the school-age children and the parents. The government in Victoria states that it would cost $4 million to build a satisfactory highway in one instance and many years would pass ere it would be possible to do so.

While I agree with the powers that be that the construction of first class highways in remote regions is not economically feasible at present, may I suggest a solution? Have the education department purchase a hovercraft. This vehicle does not require roads on which to travel nor airports for terminals. It is speedy, attaining as much as 60 miles an hour, and travelling on it is a comfortable, non-jolting ride. Considering the short distances between the points in question the whole operation of transporting the school children should not take more than one and a half hours.

Another point—a hovercraft could be used, when not being used by the department of education, to carry passengers and freight, the proceeds from which would liquidate the original debt.

It might be profitable to investigate the possibilities of this idea.—The Critic.

FROM LONDON

By TIM TRAYNOR

Fleet Street Back to 'I Spy'

TAKING up where it left off last fall, Britain's "serious" Sunday press had waded, with knives flashing, into the deep waters of international espionage, there to explore the possibility that Soviet agents close to General de Gaulle have been responsible for his anti-Americanism. The first plunge, in which The Observer and The Sunday Times competed furiously, was the detailed disclosure of spy Kim Philby's free-wheeling betrayal of the British secret intelligence services. The sequel, in which the competition is no less intense, has predictably been styled "The Case of the French Philby."

Traynor

Disclosure is not the only preoccupation in this round, however. A highly significant deepening of the rivalry has resulted in a thorough exploration of undercurrents: The propaganda windfall to the Soviet Union and the somewhat incompatible possibility that the story has been planted by the American Central Intelligence Agency to discredit Gen. de Gaulle and his intelligence service.

The Observer set the pace by recounting allegations that one of Gen. de Gaulle's advisers was a Soviet spy. But it has since cited evidence that the story is being blown out of proportion; the paper has treated sympathetically French and American protests that the affair unjustifiably embarrasses the West and plays into the hands of Soviet intelligence, the KGB.

The suggestion is that an explosive hypothesis has been built on disclosures about events of the early '60s, when extensive Soviet spy operations came to light. The hypothesis, in this reading of the situation, is that there was a cover-up in France which left Gen. de Gualle under Soviet influence.

The evidence adduced against the hypothesis is that since 1962 there has been a purge of French officials sufficient to heal the rift that had opened up between the French and American agencies. They are said to have closed ranks over the current affair.

Undercut

As was no doubt intended, this has somewhat undercut the would-be blockbuster set out in The Sunday Times, cornerstone of the British publishing empire of Canadian-born Lord Thompson of Fleet. It has published the story in the words of the original source, former French intelligence officer, Philippe Thyraud de Vosjoly.

Harking back to the era of the Cuba crisis, he has detailed the climax of his posting in Washington: his alienation from his superiors in Paris. The reason for it was his reaction against what he took to be an increasingly anti-American and pro-Soviet bias in the French government and intelligence services.

A key element was the French reaction to the Soviet defector known as Anatoly Dolnytsin, a senior officer of the KGB. Mr. de Vosjoly has claimed that Mr. Dolytsin exposed, though often not by name, numerous French officials who were spying for the Soviets from high positions in the government and NATO.

Intensive interrogation of Mr. Dolnytsin by the French is said to have implicated one of Gen. de Gaulle's closest advisers setting the stage for a purge which never came. At least it did not come during the few months prior to Mr. de Vosjoly's resignation and resettlement in the United States. Mr. de Vosjoly has said he departed from the service in the conviction that there had been a cover-up for the infiltrators, and particularly the Gaullist advisor accused by Mr. Dolnytsin.

Mr. de Vosjoly himself has refrained from writing of the present, but the paper has followed through separately on the matter of the unpurged advisor: it is he who is supposed to be the French Philby and exert subversive influence on Gen. de Gaulle.

Support Missing

Backup evidence beyond the de Vosjoly story has not so far appeared, and no light has been cast on the identity of the individual in question. (The editors brushed aside the name of a prominent Gaullist advisor put forward elsewhere.)

The paper predicted the "most explosive espionage scandal since the war," but has displayed some nervousness about possible pitfalls. It has sought to disassociate this version from its "highly colored" semi-fictional counterpart, the novel Topaz by the American author Leon Uris. The latter is a friend of Mr. de Vosjoly. The French satirical journal, Canard Enchaine, has indirectly come under attack for suggesting that the story is a CIA plant to embarrass France. It has been claimed that the Americans made efforts to prevent the publication of the de Vosjoly memoirs.

Pitfalls aside, The Sunday Times articles undoubtedly raise several large questions. The first is simply: What validity is there in the presumption that Mr. de Vosjoly's unpurged advisor was a sinister force who continues even now to subvert French policy? Have reviews since Mr. de Vosjoly's time perhaps put some suspect individuals in a different light?

A second basic question arises from Mr. de Vosjoly's claim that he was told to take up spying against the Americans. Is there truth in the suggestion that French intelligence has become the anti-American tool of the Soviet Union?

Looking Back

From the Times, April 25, 1908.

The whole question of the right of the city to remove trees from boulevards is to come before the courts as Fred W. Jones has taken an interim injunction to prevent civic authorities from removing a tree from opposite his residence on Rockland Avenue.

Mr. Jones said some of the Rockland Avenue trees were 500 years old and should be protected and taken care of by the city. He would seek to protect them from the ravage of city authorities.

Can the Negro Find a Home in His Own Country?

Growing Search For an Identity

By COLIN LEGUM

There are many close parallels between the development of Zionism and the growth of black nationalism, as exemplified by Black Power in the United States.

Both movements have sought to speak to—and for—communities which, after centuries, remained aliens living in dispersion. Both have roots in the pathology of ghetto life.

Just as the great Hebrew poet, Nachman Bialik, once upbraided Russian Jews for crying out after a pogrom "a penny for my wounds," and for appealing to their tormentors for justice, so today, the black poets are telling their people to get up off their knees and to quit asking for any help from those who forced them on to their knees.

Both the Jews and the Negroes have been sustained by visions of a Paradise Lost from which they were forcibly uprooted: The Jews by the great dispersion, the Negroes by slavery. And most recently, both have undergone fierce internal conflicts between nationalists and assimilationists.

This turning away from the paths of assimilation has been accompanied, in both cases, by marked hostility to the persecuting world around them. "Scratch a gentile and you find an anti-Semite," is today "Scratch whitey and you find a racist."

As with the Jews, the Negroes often long passionately for their own soil, their own "homeland," their own identity, their own culture. Both take refuge in the idea of having a special soul: the Negroes call their ghettos "Soulville."

There are, of course, obvious differences between the Jewish and Negro communities, but the striking similarity is that, throughout the black man's diaspora experience in North America, two strands have run through his life: the one demanding "in" to the U.S. society, seeing the rise of the black bourgeoisie as a "hope for the future;" and the other demanding "out"—the black state separatists, the back-to-Africa Garveyites and, now, the advocates of Black Power.

Ultimately, what kind of host will white America prove to be to the Negroes? In certain circumstances, all majority peoples show they are capable of behaving with great brutality, particularly when they feel themselves to be threatened by an "alien" internal presence.

Such feelings are most easily excited when a country feels uncertain about itself: as did Tsarist Russia at the beginning of this century and as did Germany in the 1930s; and as may a United States, faced with frustration in Vietnam and with burning cities at home.

Recall Fate of Indians

U.S. Negroes today—not just the black militants—frequently draw analogies between their own experience and those of the Jews under Hitler: they also compare their possible fate with what happened to the Indians.

"If they (the whites) could commit genocide once in their history, who says they can't do so again?" is a question that was raised by Rev. Martin Luther King Jr.

Many Negroes are asking themselves whether the failure of the integration promises means that the assimilationists have been wrong all the time.

They also fear that the burning of U.S. cities—which is likely to continue despite the rising anxieties about possible revenge—will produce their own pogroms, on a larger scale than what already occurred in the destructive Detroit riots in 1943.

This is the emotional basis of the growing demand for Black Power.

The creation of Israel transformed the outlook for world Jewry. It provided a place for Jews who needed to escape the uncertainties of discriminating societies to lead more normal lives. Above all, it strengthened the morale and standing of Jews throughout the world.

Africa offers no Zion for the 22 million black citizens of the United States. Nevertheless, the rise of more than 40 independent black states in the past decade has greatly strengthened their morale. What deeply divides them now are the goals which they ought to pursue — and the tactics to be used in achieving them.

Black Power as a slogan does not itself divide the Negro militants from the middle class: both accept it as meaning that at present all real power in the United States is in the hands of whites. Both wish to mobilize the protential economic and political power of the nation's 22 million black citizens.

To this, the militants would add that black Americans' potential power should be allied to the forces of the largely colored "Third World."

Riots Came Before Slogan

The slogan Black Power did not bring violence into big U.S. cities: the riots had started two years before Stokeley Carmichael first began to use it.

Its advocates, however, did come out against non-violence as preached by Dr. King; they began to insist on the right of blacks to use guns; they made the language of violence fashionable among black Americans. In this, they resembled the more militant Zionists.

As with the Jews, the idea of using force was new to the downtrodden Negroes. There had been some black violence in U.S. history — the slave risings, the riots after the First World War in Chicago and in the Second World War in Detroit. But it had been only sporadic. Now, the linking of black violence to the demand for Black Power has produced a new situation.

The relevant question in this situation is not whether the black revolutionaries can succeed, but what will be the effect on U.S. society — and on the wider world — of the impending clash. Violence feeding on violence will predictably sharpen the psychopathological elements which are present in both communities.

A feeling of alienation dominates the mood of black anger. It finds expression in withdrawal from white society and culture, in total disbelief in promises of goodwill, in taunts and threats.

The most worrying element in the mood of black anger is its nihilism: "If we can't get justice, we're going to tear this country apart," Carmichael has said.

It is astonishing how often in conversations, even with sober-minded, middle-class Negroes, one comes up against the fear of genocide.

Malcolm X in his autobiography wrote: "Our nation was born in genocide when it embraced the doctrine that the original American, the Indian, was an inferior race. . . . We are perhaps the only nation which tried as a matter of national policy to wipe out its indigenous population."

White U.S. society has assumed that its dilemma over color could be gradually resolved by absorbing more and more black people into its expanding middle class. Success or failure has accordingly been measured by the rate at which the black middle class is expanding. . . .

This "black bourgeoisie" has been expected to act as defenders of U.S. society against the black millions who remain outside. But now the reality of this hope has been brutally questioned by the terrible implacability of Black Power.

While Black Power seeks to raise the morale of Negroes, by teaching them to dare to act like white Americans, there is another more subtle and painful element within this struggle: the struggle for black manhood.

Black militants are fighting not only against white U.S. life; they also offer a radical dose of treatment for what Malcolm X has called the "sickness of the black man in North America": therapy for a community which acquiesces in and collaborates with a system that keeps it apart as the bottom dog in a white man's society.

Ullric Haynes Jr., a former member of the White House staff, said: "The Negro male has become conscious that he is not a true man; too often he has abdicated family responsibilities; too often he doesn't work. .. Black Power invites him to act like a man in displaying feats of strength and daring."

What the black militants are doing is to dramatize the attitudes of the "new Negro." But what are these attitudes?

First, a fierce assertion that the black community must assume responsibility for itself. It is the spirit of the Negro youth in Detroit who says: "We want to do things ourselves. We're going to help ourselves, whether whitey likes it or not. They're willing to share some of the corn and 'taters with us, but when it gets right down to the nitty-gritty of power, they aren't sharing anything."

An End to Collaboration

Along with the demand for ending white paternalism goes the demand for ending "black collaboration"—a repudiation of those elements in the Negro middle class suspected of serving the interests of the status quo.

The new Negro is in revolt against centuries of hypocrisy and promises; the most familiar war chant in the ghetto is: "Tell it to us like it is." He suspects everything he is told by whites: his revolt is against the "nigger mentality" as well as against white supremacy.

The game of "taunting whitey" is a dare game; the Negro is daring himself to stand up to "whitey."

The positive aspect of the destructiveness of rioting is stressed by the noted U.S. sociologist, Dr. Kenneth B. Clark: "Direct observation of the young Negroes reveals that they are not only destructive; but in the process of destroying are seeking to affirm. They are affirming their power to destroy."

In this new mood there is a turning away from demands for integration toward greater separatism. There is now beginning a resistance to dispersal from their ghettos—either because they believe that to hope for integration is unrealistic, or because they fear that dispersal will dilute their chances of mobilizing black voting and economic power.

Their immediate political demand is for political control over their own neighborhoods. They are now much less interested in integrated schools than in "decent schools," controlled by themselves. Their desire for social integration has visibly declined. Robert Maynard, the urban affairs correspondent of The Washington Post, himself a Negro, wrote: "The feeling is for separation. It goes down to the lowest level, and expresses a desire to see the end of the white people around them."

The black militants offer at least four alternatives for restructuring U.S. society:

—Permanent separation into one or several black states.

—Temporary withdrawal from direct participation in the politics of "white America" to concentrate on building strong black communities by mobilizing their spirit of community self-help. In effect, this program amounts to a demand for black local government by devolving power to black-controlled city halls.

—A violent struggle—linked to the tri-continental revolutionary struggle of Asia, Africa and Latin America—as a way of breaking the white monopoly of world power.

—A nihilistic struggle of violence with the object of making conditions so painful for white America as to complete an undefined reconstruction of the U.S. political system.

The first of these courses is advocated by the Nation of Islam (the Black Muslims) led by the aging prophet Elijah Muhammad, whose most famous disciple is Cassius Clay (Muhammed Ali). Their propaganda against "the white devil" is as relentless as H. Rap Brown's; but, unlike him, they are opposed to violence, riots and looting.

Nation Within a Nation

Separate black states are also advocated by the Henry brothers of Detroit—Milton, a lawyer, and Richard, a technical writer. They favor the creation of five black states—possibly in Mississippi, Florida, Alabama, Georgia and Louisiana. Unlike the Muslims, the Henrys provide a theory of violence linked to the establishment of a permanent "nation within a nation."

A 1964 Newsweek poll showed that only 5 per cent of Negroes favored separate statism, while 15 per cent were unsure; the rest were opposed for a variety of reasons. But the separatists believe that support for their cause will surge up—as a young Detroit journalist put it—"after the coming violent conflict finally convinces everybody that whites are just not going to live with blacks."

Another group of separatists favors the idea of autonomous "black lands," while rejecting the creation of separate states. They want blacks to control the ground they now hold—mainly in the large cities.

Is there, it may be asked, no alternative to accepting—in one form or another—the concept of "a nation within a nation"? Can no effective alternative be produced to cool off black militancy?

Many Americans—white as well as black—now accept the need to acknowledge some form of separation as a stage toward integration. But by no means do all Negroes reject integration as the ultimate goal.

What one is witnessing is a sharpening of the centuries-old conflict within the Negro soul (as within the Jewish soul) between nationalism and assimilation.

But because U.S. white society has, so far, proved itself quite unable to assimilate its black citizens, the current black militant demand for separate communities will certainly get a good hearing.

Thinking Americans make no effort to hide their deep anxieties about the depth of the color crisis. The question put to more than 100 leading Americans was whether they believed their political system was flexible enough to adjust to the basic demands of the 22 million Negroes, and, if it wasn't, what they thought might happen.

Senator Robert Kennedy said: "My judgment is that we can make it because any alternative is so unthinkable. I'm going to remain an optimist in believing that we can find a solution within our political system. But there are certainly forces pulling in the opposite direction."

Similarly disturbed but still refusing to be discouraged is Bill Moyers, the publisher of Newsday and formerly President Lyndon Johnson's press secretary.

"A lot of people fallaciously compare the Negro problem with the Irish and the Poles and to some extent the Jews; the fallacy lies in the fact that they were not black. The prejudices and bigotry toward black people is something beyond the rational; it is part of America's 300 years of regarding the Negroes as 'property.'

"The prejudices that greeted the Italians, Poles and Jews was never as formidable a barrier, because white Americans generally realized they were discriminating against those who came from where they themselves had come from; it was a case of discrimination against one's own kind.

"Now, you're dealing with a pathological obsession. The issues involved have thrown America into a turmoil far more dangerous than even acute observers can see."

Herbert Hall, national labor secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said: "I don't believe that white America will respond in a positive way: hence we face a period of the 'stockade society.' All the powerful interests in American society are for not altering the national priorities. Therefore, the only alternative is repression.

"If this is true, then we face a period of terrible authoritarianism, increasing racial disturbances in the cities; growing reaction of white people who will favor more repression, making for a national mood favoring irrational behavior. Thus we face the prospect of increased racial violence and increased racial polarization."

Here are the voices of a troubled nation. The more optimistic have little besides their hopes to justify their optimism. Many in high places confess they do not see how the crisis can be beaten, even while believing that it will. While some fearfully see the approach of a domestic fascism, others believe the nation will not be dragged down so far.

What seems clear is that the next decade is going to be crucial for the United States.

Urge New Research On Aspirin's Effects

By VICTOR COHN
The Washington Post

The drug North Americans use most — common aspirin — profoundly changes the structure of our blood plasma, three California investigators have reported.

They have as yet proved no ill effects of this chemical change, said Drs. R. Neal Pinckard, David Hawkins and Richard S. Farr.

But, in view of aspirin's "widespread and indiscriminate use," they recommend serious investigation of its effects.

Drs. Pinckard and Hawkins are research fellows and Dr. Farr is head of clinical biology at the Scripps Clinic and Research Foundation, San Diego. They made their report to the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology.

"Aspirin is a good drug," said Dr. Farr, a well-known allergist, in an interview. "It is a drug we need. But this situation obviously requires some investigation."

●

To help guide the average aspirin-user, Drs. Pinckard and Hawkins said:

"If you're taking aspirin for good medical reason, we'd say continue. But its main pharmacological properties are that it is an analgesic — it lowers pain. It has valuable anti-inflammatory activity. It lowers temperature.

"Many people indiscriminately use it as a universal remedy for insomnia, upset stomach, anything you can think of. Actually no one should take aspirin or any medicine without a good reason."

What the Californians found, specifically, is that aspirin changes the structure of our serum albumin, one of the major proteins in human blood plasma.

They observed this in plasma specimens from rheumatoid arthritis patients, then in specimens from normal subjects.

●

They also studied aspirin's effect in the test tube, by labeling aspirin molecules with radioactive carbon. Tracing the two parts of the molecule, the acetyl part and the salicylate part — aspirin is acetylsalicylic acid — they found it is the acetyl that combines with albumin.

And the acetyl must combine with albumin not only in the blood plasma but also elsewhere in the body. Albumin is common in many of our tissues.

The California group went on to find — only in the test tube to date — that the acetyl can attach itself to many other body constituents. These include other blood plasma proteins (including disease-fighting antibodies), key enzymes and both DNA and RNA, the cell's genetic guides.

Whether or not any of these constituents are actually altered by aspirin in the body remains to be learned.

However, the group said: "If this proves to be the case, one would expect a wide variety of physiologic and pathologic changes."

B.C. Farmers Question Water Export

A growing resentment among farmers against U.S. authorities assuming that British Columbia is willing to sell its water to the United States, was reported Wednesday by Richard Stocks, manager of the B.C. Federation of Agriculture.

He was mainly alluding to the meeting last week of the Federation of Rocky Mountain States in Boise, Idaho, which proposed a plan for changing the direction of flow of the Liard River in northern British Columbia.

The water would be conveyed south through the entire length of the province and poured into the Columbia River system where it would be available to the United States.

Mr. Stocks said the federation has made strong representations to Water Resources Minister Ray Williston against any move to divert water to the United States until a complete survey has been made to ascertain the future water needs of the province.

"Mr. Williston has assured us that this would be done," he said. "The federation has also made its views known to MPs in Ottawa."

He said the stand of the federation is that B.C. will need most of its water resources in the future.

OTHER PROBLEMS

"There are other problems involved in diverting the course of a major river," he said. "It may effect the ecology of entire regions and may result in enviremental decline."

"But what we are most concerned with is the attitude of some U.S. authorities that we are receptive to plans to divert our water for their benefit," he added. "They don't seem to take into account that the water belongs to the people of the province."

He said this attitude should be of concern to all the people of the province.

Mr. Stocks also said B.C. should move slowly before making any decision on diverting the Shuswap River into Okanagan Lake.

The plan has been proposed to augment the Okanagan Lake inflow in drought years and to make more water available for irrigation and other purposes in the area.

He pointed out that diversion of the Shuswap River would mean that the water would end up in the Columbia River and into the United States.

"It would also mean less water for the Fraser River as the Shuswap water ends up there," he said.

Mr. Stocks questioned the wisdom of changing the courses of the major water systems of the province.

Lesage Elects Silent Role

QUEBEC (CP) — Former premier Jean Lesage said today he will not participate in the campaign for the June 25 federal election.

The leader of the provincial Liberal party emerged from a caucus of Liberal legislature members to tell reporters:

"The custom is that I stay out of it. We are a purely provincial party. But each MLA is absolutely free to do as he wishes."

In 1965, when he was Quebec premier Mr. Lesage declared personal support for the then federal Liberal leader, Lester Pearson.

AFTER FEDERAL CALL

Early Manitoba Election Likely

By ALLEN SACKMANN

WINNIPEG (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau's decision to call a June election will likely have repercussions in the Manitoba legislature that could result in an earlier-than-expected provincial vote.

As many as five members of the 57-seat legislature, including former premier Duff Roblin, are ranked as potential federal candidates and their departure could endanger the thin Progressive Conservative provincial majority.

At the same time, it is generally conceded that Premier Walter Weir, who won the party leadership in a four-way race in November, is not anxious to call a provincial election. The Conservatives lost ground in the 1966 general election and in a byelection in March which was considered a test of strength by the premier.

The party has 31 members against a combined opposition of 26 made up of 14 Liberals, 11 New Democrats and one Social Credit.

Just after the election was announced Tuesday, a survey of some MLAs indicated Mr. Weir is in danger of losing three members of his caucus. Mr. Roblin will run although it is not yet clear which constituency he'll contest. Provincial Secretary Stewart McLean and backbencher Morris McGregor are the other likely prospects.

MOLGAT A POSSIBILITY

Across the chamber, Liberal leader Gil Molgat acknowledged that he is seriously considering moving up to federal ranks and Liberal Rod Clement is assessing his business commitments before making a decision.

There are others toying with the idea but they are awaiting early campaign developments.

Much of the scrambling was stimulated by Conservative Nicholas Mandziuk's announcement Monday that he would not seek re-election in Marquette and by the possible retirement of Conservative Elmer Forbes in Dauphin.

Mr. MacLean, a cabinet minister since 1958 and a Manitoba leadership candidate, acknowledged long-standing federal ambitions. He would seek the nomination should Mr. Forbes retire. Opposition leader Molgat, who said he has had numerous discussions with Ottawa in recent weeks, admitted federal interest and Dauphin would be his present choice as the spot to run.

He has been under pressure from the party before but it is believed he would not run federally without assurances that a major cabinet portfolio would be waiting. Timing of the election poses some problems since the legislature is still in session with little likelihood that it will prorogue until late May.

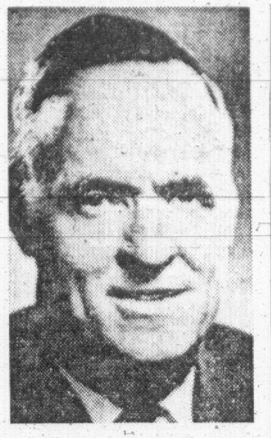
WILL AFFECT PREMIER

The number who seek—and win—nomination will likely have a bearing on Premier Weir's decisions provincially.

He was not available for comment Tuesday but informed sources suggest his course of action would depend largely on the outcome of the federal vote.

Should the Conservatives win the election or display broad support in Manitoba, he would take a hard look at calling a general election this fall. On the other hand, a Conservative loss or a drop in support would make byelections look attractive.

That way, should he lose ground, he's still get another crack at improving his position in a later provincial vote.



OUTSPOKEN MP Ralph Cowan, 65, will have to fight to win renomination as Liberal candidate in Toronto High Park, where association president Walter C. Deakon, 43, has challenged him.

U.S. to Bar Montreal Lottery?

MONTREAL (CP) — The Gazette says Mayor Jean Drapeau's unique plan to balance the Montreal budget with a "voluntary tax" scheme faces a severe setback because United States newspapers will not accept advertisements for it.

The plan offers cash prizes of up to $100,000 to winners of a monthly draw open to persons making voluntary $2 contributions to the city treasury. City officials say its success rests largely on heavy participation by U.S. citizens.

The Gazette quotes U.S. justice department officials as saying the scheme is illegal under U.S. law banning the importatios of lottery tickets, and that U.S. newspapers will not handle the advertisements for fear of prosecution under the law.

The Montreal daily says the advertising campaign across the U.S. was originally to have been launched two weeks ago.

Kidney Machine Program To Be Expanded

Health Minister Wesley Black Wednesday indicated the government will expand its program of providing machines for home treatment of kidney failure as a means of freeing hospital beds.

He said in an interview that the program could cost between $350,000 to $500,000 a year.

It would provide haemo dialysis machines — which purify the blood in place of kidneys — for self-treatment by patients in their homes.

Mr. Black told the last session of the legislature that the government was considering an expansion of its present token program of providing the devices.

Without continual use of the cleansing apparatus, patients would die.

There are fewer than 100 such cases in the province at the moment but the new technique of saving lives probably will result in this group growing at the rate of 40 a year, he said.

"Increasing hospital facilities for dialysis patients is one answer," Mr. Black said.

"But this can be made more effective if home treatment also is provided while releasing beds for other patients."

Treatment at home is calculated as costing only one-third as much as hospital dialysis treatment.

Uranium Agreement

OTTAWA (CP)—Energy Minister Pepin said last week he is confident a compromise can be worked out with the provinces on their demands for jurisdiction over uranium exploration and mining.

He made the statement at the end of a meeting with provincial mines ministers and deputy ministers at which the provincial demands were put.

YOUNG MOTHER TELLS HEARING

'Rely on Your Female Instincts'

EDMONTON (CP) — Two university groups Wednesday said married women want further intellectual enrichment, but a young mother advised them "to rely on their female instincts."

"Does a woman think that just because she puts on a man's pants she is capable of filling them?" 30-year-old Mrs. Trevor Anderson asked the royal commission on the status of women.

Mrs. Anderson, mother of three children, appeared in a bright pink dress with a pink bow holding back long curls, to "remind ladies that they are still women."

"A true woman is behind her man guiding him up the ladder to success," she said to groans of "Oh no" from several women of an audience of about 150 in an Edmonton library. "A true women does not wear jeans or try to beat her husband up that ladder."

Earlier Mrs. Avery Fleming said there is "a significant demand" in Canada for further opportunities for married or older women to get university training.

"They represent untapped resources of personnel who could help fill a critical need for trained persons as teachers, librarians, nurses or doctors," she said.

Mrs. Fleming, who represented a brief on behalf of the University Women's Club of Edmonton, said women need financial assistance, which now is not available for part-time study, and require mature women counsellors to help them pick courses.

Mrs. K. A. McMurchy, another club representative, said she thinks good day-care centres would enable women to leave their children in capable hands while they go back to school.

"A good day-care centre can be a valuable addition to mother's care and I don't think mothers should feel guilty about leaving their youngsters in one," she said.

Mrs. McMurchy, who has a four-year-old daughter, was asked by commissioner Jacques Henripin of Montreal if she felt the man should be asked to stay home with the children if his wife has a more important career.

"That's fine if it doesn't bother him," Mrs. McMurchy laughed. "But I suspect such an arrangement would generally be frowned on."

LEISURE BENEFITS

Amy Elliott, assistant professor of liberal studies in the University of Alberta extension department, said both men and women today are benefitting from increased leisure and have time to give attention "to the quality of life."

Presenting a brief on behalf of the extension department, she recommended the federal government should subsidize schools to teach French and English to adults.

Also needed were "community service training grants" to enable women to take courses that would train them as leaders in voluntary work in their communities.

The seven-member commission will hold public hearings in Edmonton today and Friday, before moving on to Regina and Saskatoon.

Worker at Clinic To Attend Seminar

A long-time worker in the field of mental retardation in Victoria has been honored with an invitation to attend the Fourth International Scientific Symposium on Mental Retardation to be held in Chicago Monday.

Mrs. Winnifred M. Clark, executive director of the Greater Victoria Association for the Retarded, received her invitation from Mrs. Eunice Kennedy Schriver, executive vice-president of the Joseph P. Kennedy Jr. Foundation, sponsors of the symposium.

The program for the symposium will include a series of 12 panel sessions in which some of the world's leading scientists and specialists in mental retardation will participate.

SPECIAL AWARDS

Presentation of the Kennedy International Awards for research, service and leadership in mental retardation will take place during the evening, following the seminar.

Gregor Peck will be master of ceremonies and the entertainment will feature the Chicago Symphony Orchestra and the musical group of Peter, Paul and Mary.

Mrs. Clark, with other Canadians attending the symposium, also received an invitation to a luncheon hosted by Harry E. Foster, chairman of the board of honorary governors, Canadian Association for Retarded Children and Mrs. Foster. Members of the Kennedy family will be present.

In her invitation to Mrs. Clark, Mrs. Shriver made reference to "special emphasis this year in saluting the magnificent efforts of the Canadian Association for Retarded Children."

The Greater Victoria Association for the Retarded operates a centre at 1450 Elford Street which provides day care service to children with special needs, an occupation and activity program for post school-age retarded, a sheltered workshop, a recreation program for all retarded and a parent counselling service.

Saanich Tax Rate Up Less Than 1 Mill

Saanich council approved a record budget of $9.87 million in a marathon meeting which ended early this morning.

This compares with last year's budget of $8.2 million and $6.99 million in 1966.

Most ratepayers will pay only a small increase, if any in taxes, however.

The general purposes mill rate was set at 28.7, up 0.3 on the previous year.

Combined with the education mill rates announced Tuesday, ratepayers in the Greater Victoria School Dictrict in southern Saanich have a combined mill rate of 57.24, a total increase of 0.74.

Ratepayers in the Saanich Peninsula School District, roughly north of Royal Oak, will have a combined mill rate of 58.68, a total increase of 0.18.

Comptroller-treasurer John Tribe said a property owner who paid $400 in taxes last year would have an increase of $5.20, not allowing for the increase in assessment. The provincial homeowner grant went up $10 this year.

In the last minutes of the six hour and 15-minute meeting, council unanimously voted Hugh Curtis a raise of $600 on top of his present pay of $7,500.

His last increase in pay was in 1966 when it was raised to $7,500 from $3,300.

Ald. William Campbell, who moved at first that the raise be 10 per cent, agreed to the lower figure when Mayor Curtis said $50 a month ($600 a year) was the most he would accept.

Ald. Campbell said he opposed a raise last year (to $10,000, which Mayor Curtis refused at that time) but considered an increase appropriate now since the salary was unchanged for two years, more time was being put in and the job was being done well.

CUT 1.2 MILLS

Budget-cutting sessions lasted a total of 11 hours and 30 minutes in three night meetings this week. They produced a total reduction in municipal expenditure of $132,000 or 1.2 mills on the originally-projected increase of 1.5 mills.

The cost of education this year, over which council has no say or control, was $3.23 million.

Most contentious issue during trimming was community grants. They were trimmed to $49,299 from $55,711.

Ald. Edward Lum opposed most of the grants saying it was not council's business to pay for the deficits of other groups which were falling down on their public relations.

BUREAU BLANKED

Other council members didn't share his opinion although they said each item should be carefully examined.

Cut from the list of proposed expenditures was $3,000 for the Victoria Visitors Bureau, Last year council also refused $3,000 to the bureau and declined to reconsider it despite several attempts by the tourist industry.

Also axed was $1,832 from Saanich's $9,332 inter-municipal share of a contribution to the YM-YWCA, $470 for a national urban transportation study and $250 for the Victoria School of Music.

WELFARE COSTS HIKED AGAIN?

Local government in British Columbia can be expected to be saddled with more welfare costs by the provincial government.

This was strongly indicated by Mayor Hugh Curtis at Saanich council Wednesday night during budget consideration.

He asked that an extra $12,000 be added to the $433,000 proposed in the budget but when asked why by one alderman said he could not reply because it was a matter of confidence.

"I expect we will know shortly," he told Ald. Foster Isherwood.

Mayor Curtis said officials of the Union of B.C. Municipalities had an in-camera meeting with Welfare Minister Dan Campbell Tuesday at the minister's request.

Asked by Ald. William Noel if this was not irregular, the mayor replied: "No, I don't think so. I'm trying to assist you in an awkward over-expenditure later."

He said Mr. Campbell requested the meeting and it was on the strict understanding that it be in-camera.

Ald Edith Gunning said she is not surprised and expected since the government jumped the local share of welfare costs to 20 per cent from 10 per cent earlier this year.

This move was largely responsible for Saanich having to budget $433,000 (increased later by $12,000 at Mayor Curtis' suggestion) compared with an actual expenditure of $215,029 last year.

Rocks Feature Large Display Of Hobbies

Hobbies, from radioactive rock collections to archery, went on display today in B.C. largest hobby show.

Running 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. Friday and Saturday, the show includes displays of every sort of hobby. It is open until 11 o'clock tonight.

Collections known for their completeness and for their value will be on show, including rare fish, stamps and drawf trees.

Arts and crafts such as sculpture, weaving and photography will also be on display.

The show is sponsored and arranged by the Victoria Mineral and Lapidary Society.

Pearkes Gets Award From Jaycees

Lieutenant-Governor George R. Pearkes was presented with the governorship award for outstanding service to Canada, British Columbia and Victoria Wednesday night at the Junior Chamber of Commerce reunion night. It was the 27th such award to be presented in Canada.

Mr. Pearkes was honored during the dinner for his service as the chief executive of the province. Among civici and provincial dignitaries present was former Victoria mayor Percy Scurrah. Mr. Pearkes thanked the Jaycees for their work in the community.

The club is sending Miss Victoria, Margaret Vickers, to Palm Springs Friday for the Desert Circus Parade.

Canadian Exports Up Sharply

OTTAWA (CP) — Exports bounded to $1,020,300,000 in March, up 20 per cent from a year earlier. After a March, 1967, trade deficit of $1,200,000, there was a surplus this year of $120,400,000.

A preliminary statement of trade figures from the Dominion Bureau of Statistics showed March imports at $900,000,000, up 5.7 per cent from a year earlier.

In the January-March period exports were up 14.9 per cent to $3,016,400,000 from $2,624,500,000. Imports rose 12 per cent to $2,791,600,000 from $2,491,700,000.

The three-month trade balance was $224,700,000, up from $132,800,000.

Canada's sales to United States customers were 26.8 per cent higher in March and up 24.6 per cent for the three months. Imports from the U.S. were up 12.2 per cent for the three-month period.

Sales to the United Kingdom increased 10.1 per cent in March and 4.7 per cent in the quarter.

Canadians Cashing Savings Bonds

OTTAWA (CP) — Many Canadians are cashing in their Canada Savings Bonds, apparently to get a better return elsewhere on their money.

A record decline of almost $400,000,000 has occurred in public holdings of government savings bonds during the last five months.

From a high point of $6,426,000,000 on Nov. 22, 1967, after the sales campaign last fall on the 1968 issue, holdings dropped to $6,032,000,000 on April 17.

Total holdings on April 17 were only $19,000,000 higher than a year earlier despite the government's vigorous efforts to use savings bonds as an important source for its borrowings.

GET BETTER RATE

Investment experts conclude that bondholders are turning to the attractive yields offered by term deposits with trust companies and banks.

These run to seven and 7½ per cent, compared with a top available yield of 5.48 per cent on the 1966 and 1967 savings bond issues.

Investors are apparently giving up the advantage of being able to cash their bonds immediately for full face value. To realize the yields offered by trust companies, savings must be held on deposit for two to five years.

Czechs Negotiate Exchange of Ore For Machines

VANCOUVER (CP) — Czechoslovakia is negotiating a deal with six Canadian companies in which they will sell ore concentrates in exchange for Czech mining machinery.

Vladimir Matecka, Czechoslovakia's trade commissioner in Canada, would not identify the Canadian companies but said two are in British Columbia.

He said his nation wants copper, lead, nickel, zinc and Molybdenum. Most of his country's iron ore comes from Russia.

Bohuslav Solc, a Czech mining official, said the Czechs also are interested in supplying risk mining capital and mining experts, particularly in B.C., under barter agreements.

"We are especially interested in B.C. because the people here are already in barter arrangements with the Japanese. The Japanese supply capital in return for concentrates. And in B.C. you need a lot of risk capital which we would be delighted to supply."

Both men are here to attend the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy convention.

Dollar Drain Still Worries U.S.

By JOSEPH R. COYNE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration is running into trouble in its efforts to cut the U.S. international dollar drain this year by $3,000,000,000.

Some government officials already have conceded privately the goal in some areas of the program will be extremely difficult, if not impossible, to meet.

But perhaps the sourest note in the entire picture is the deteriorating trade position which officials blame on inflation at home, strikes and the threat of strikes, and what they call, excessive wage settlements.

The net result is a sharp rise in imports and a decline in the trade surplus.

President Johnson unveiled his new balance-of-payments program on New Year's Day in a fresh attempt to lick a perennial problem which produced a $3,570,000,000 deficit in 1967.

Although exact figures won't be available until mid-May, officials now look for substantial improvement in the deficit for the first three months of this year compared with the last three months of 1967.

But the deficit in the prior quarter was $1,850,000,000 and there's little chance it will drop to the quarterly level prevailing before devaluation of the British pound last November.

The quarterly drain during the first three-quarters of last year ranged from $533,000,000 to $638,000,000.

Johnson's new program called for Congressional action on a variety of fronts but Congress has yet to complete work on even one of them.

Passage of the proposed 10-per-cent income tax surcharge is the keystone of the entire program.

The House of Representatives approved extension of the five-per-cent excise tax on airline tickets for international travel but deferred action on the major part of the travel program—a proposed tax on spending by U.S. tourists in other countries.

The government fared better administratively. Effective next week, foreign tourists will be eligible for a wide ranger of discounts on travel and accommodations—part of an attempt to attract more foreign tourists to help offset American spending abroad.

But trade now is the most worrisome aspect for government officials close to the balance-of-payments question.

Lawrence A. Fox, director of the commerce department's bureau of international commerce, said the threat of a steel strike this year will add as much as $500,000,000 to the dollar outflow through increased steel imports by companies stockpiling against a possible walkout.

BRENDA PROPERTY IN OKANAGAN

$60 Million Mine Deal

VANCOUVER (CP) — Arrangements providing $60,000,000 in financing for Canada's largest base metal open pit mining operation were completed here Wednesday by officials of four companies—two of them Japanese—and a bank.

The deal, believed to be the biggest mining finance agreement ever completed in British Columbia, opens the door for development of copper-molybdenum properties owned by Brenda Mines Ltd. near Peachland in the Okanagan Valley.

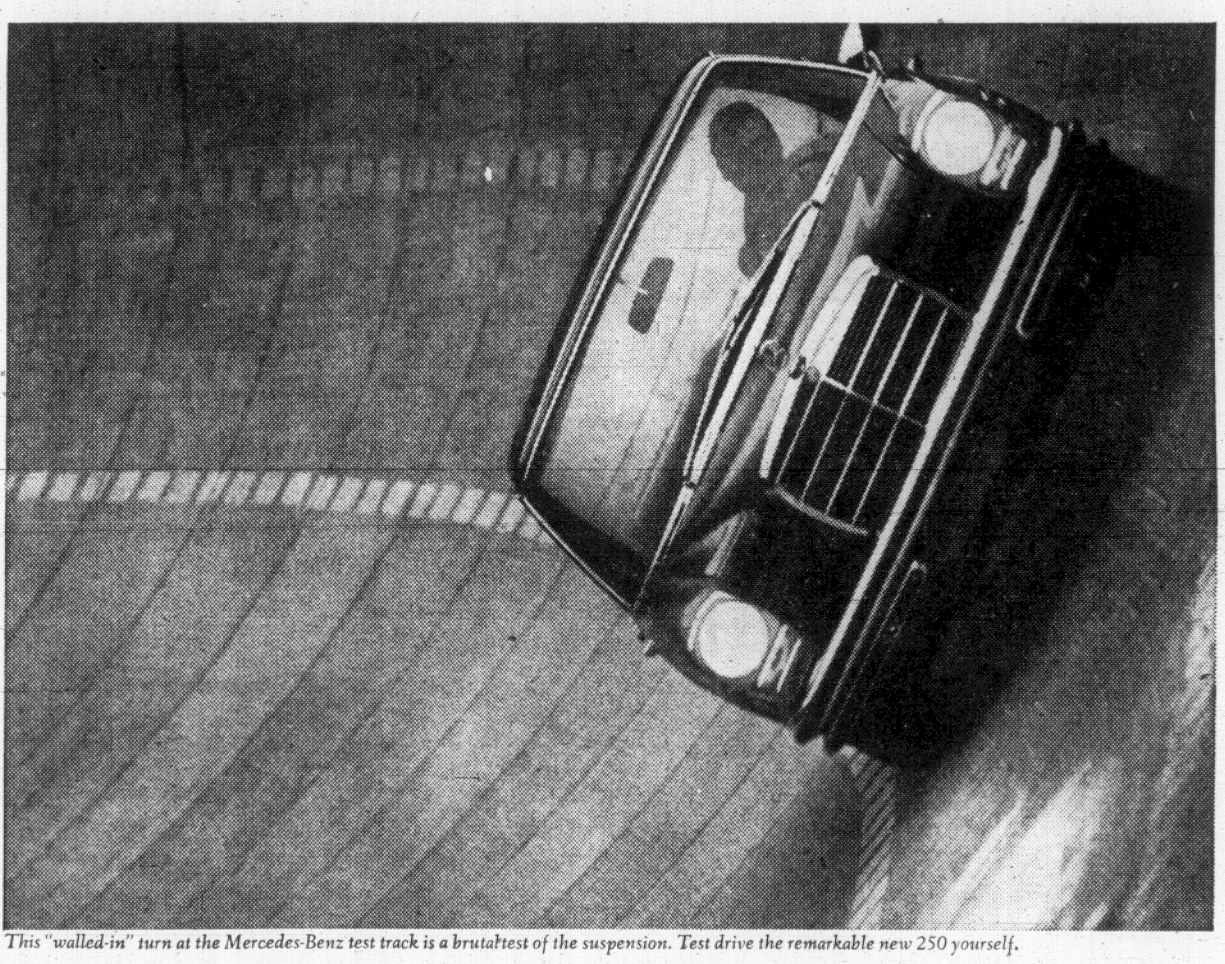
Brenda President B. O. Brynelsen said the open pit mine, due to go into production next year, is also the lowest ore grade operation in Canada. He said the project is economically feasible because of advanced engineering and handling concepts:

Funds to be provided by the agreement:

- Bank of Nova Scotia: $25,000,000 in loans secured by a first mortgage, a general assignment on receivables and a charge on inventories. Interest will be 7½ per cent on $21,000,000, and 7 per cent on the remaining $4,000,000.
- Nippon Mining Co. Ltd. and Mitsui and Co. Ltd., both of Japan: $7,500,000, secured by a 7.3 per cent second mortgage debenture.
- Noranda Mines Ltd. of Toronto: $27,500,000 secured by third charge 7.2 per cent income bonds.

If additional funds should be required, Noranda will provide up to $15,000,000 above its initial commitment.

The new Mercedes-Benz 250: so "over-engineered" it won't mush, sway or wallow—even on cloverleaf turns.



This "walled-in" turn at the Mercedes-Benz test track is a brutal test of the suspension. Test drive the remarkable new 250 yourself.

On today's high-speed turnpikes, it's easy to forget how fast you're driving. Mentally, you're "velocitized," as one expert put it. So, sometimes you take the off-ramp at a cloverleaf intersection a little faster than you meant to.

You crank away on the steering wheel, but your car tugs straight ahead like a dog straining at the leash. The tires squeal and your passengers squirm. One of life's embarrassing moments.

What "over-engineering" can mean to you

You probably could have avoided the drama if you'd been driving the new Mercedes-Benz 250. It runs rings around most cars. It out-handles and out-maneuvers them to help you avoid anxious moments.

How does Mercedes-Benz make a 4-door sedan with the agility of a sports car? In the words of one critic, the new 250 is "over-engineered."

He's right. And Mercedes-Benz is proud of it. By conventional standards, the new Mercedes-Benz 250 is "over-engineered." It's built to far more exacting standards than ordinary cars.

A patented improvement

The 250's suspension system is patented—one of the more than 5,200 basic engineering patents held by Mercedes-Benz. The engineers simply would not tolerate poor roadholding or a jarring ride.

Their ingenious solution: a pair of anti-sway bars—one in front, one at the back. Without these concealed torsion bars to fight body lean, the suspension's springs would have to be so stiff that the ride would be ruined.

With two anti-sway bars (most cars have one), the 250's suspension is soft enough on a washboard road to absorb annoying jolts. And on a tight turn, it's firm enough to prevent mush and wallow.

A suspension that sacrifices neither ride nor handling is a good example of how "over-engineering" works for you. Here are some more examples:

A superior braking system

Many ordinary cars still use old-fashioned drum brakes.

Today's 180-mph Grand Prix racing cars use disc brakes. So does the Mercedes-Benz 250. And not just on the front wheels, but on every wheel. Drum brakes are cheaper, but tests prove that disc brakes provide the most precise braking possible—at any speed. So Mercedes-Benz engineers insist on 4-wheel disc brakes as standard equipment. With 421.1 square inches of braking area, it's virtually impossible to outrun the 250's brakes.

10,000 body welds

Most conventional cars have a separate body and chassis, held together with bolts. After a while, the bolts can work loose. On a washboard road, the rattles can be deafening.

Mercedes-Benz eliminated the body bolts. In their place are over 10,000 individual welds. The result is a structure of immense strength and rigidity. After 50,000 miles or so, you may begin to wonder if your 250 will ever rattle.

Overhead-cam engine

Usually, your car's engine is either tuned for power or economy—not both. By employing a sophisticated overhead-camshaft layout borrowed from Mercedes-Benz World Championship sports/racing cars, the engineers were able to improve the engine's volumetric efficiency (its ability to "breathe"). This remarkable engine gives the 250 a top speed comparable to a standard V-8 with the fuel economy of a Six.

"Fatigue-proof" seats

Take a day-long trip in some cars and you'll wind up feeling like a damp washrag. The Mercedes-Benz 250 is engineered as much for human comfort as it is for mechanical efficiency. Orthopedic physicians were consulted in the design of the 250's seats so you'll have proper support on cross-country tours as well as short hops to the supermarket. When you first slip into one of the 250's carefully contoured seats, it may seem firm, but once you get used to it, you'll never settle for "marshmallow" seats again. Mercedes-Benz engineers have respect for your backbone.

These are just a few of the many advanced engineering features of the Mercedes-Benz 250. Taken together, they add up to one conclusion: at $5,875,* this car is one of the shrewdest investments on wheels.

Falconbridge Plans Major Expansion

TORONTO (CP) — Falconbridge Nickel Mines Ltd. has announced plans for the development of a nickel mine in the Dominican Republic and for the start on a future new mine in the Sudbury, Ont., district.

H. J. Fraser, president and managing director, told the annual meeting the company is entering another period of major expansion needed to meet growing demand.

MARKET SUMMARIES

T.C. Explorations Marks Up 30c Gain

A 30-cent increase in share values of T. C. Explorations featured active forenoon trading today on the Vancouver Stock Exchange.

The Vancouver-based company, which holds several mineral claims and oil and gas leases in Western Canada, had a turnover of 155,000 shares by noon and was trading at $3.32. It closed Wednesday at $3.02.

Other mining issues were also stronger with Silver City up .10 at $1.35, Northlode was up .05 at $1.60 and Atlas up .10 at $3.15.

Brenda was off 15 cents at $8.25, Granduc was off .10 at $6.90 while Interprovincial slipped .13 to $1.72.

Among oils, Central Del Rio gained .50 to $14.75, while Peace River, the most active issue, advanced .02 to 31.

First National Mortgage led industrial traders with a turnover of 15,600 shares and advanced .37 to $5.75. Captain International was off .12 at $5.

Gains were posted today on both the Toronto and New York markets in active trading.

AT TORONTO—In industrials, Canadian Goldale rose 3¾ to 14, Falconbridge 2⅛ to 103½ and Ontario Store Fixtures 1⅝ to 15⅛.

Imperial Oil was up 1⅞ to 65⅜ and Canadian Superior 1¾ to 45¼.

Among golds, Dome rose 2½ to 62½. Base metals were quiet.

Final volume 3,278,000 shares compared with 2,672,000 Wednesday.

AT NEW YORK Schenley, pacing the list on volume, dropped about 3 points on news that Lorillard had withdrawn from its contest with Glen Alden to acquire control of Schenley. Lorillard slipped about 1½ and Glen Alden took a fractional loss.

McDonnell-Douglas was up 2 points before trading was stopped in it as news came out that United Airlines had decided to buy that company's version of the 250-seat airbus. Boeing, an unsuccessful competitor, lost a fraction.

AT MONTREAL senior mines, oils and papers highlighted moderately active trading today.

Falconbridge Nickel climbed 2¼ to 104¼ on sales of 5,086 shares, Consolidated-Bathurst 1½ to 17½ on 1,095 shares and Imperial Oil 1 point to 64½ on 811 shares.

In the industrial list, Montreal Locomotive advanced a point to 14, Famous Players ¾ to 49 and DuPont ½ to 28½. CPR lost ¾ to 52¼.

AT LONDON the stock market was firm today but by close prices had slipped from their best levels of the day.

Gilts were quiet.

Dollar stocks were strong and the dollar premium advanced before easing slightly.

In Canadians, Inco and Imperial Oil rose 6 points at one stage and Noranda was up 4½.

Canadian banks were particularly strong with gains as high as 10 shillings.

U.S. SUBSIDIARIES

Investment Level To Remain Same

WASHINGTON (CP) — American subsidiaries in Canada are expected to spend $2,229,000,000 on new plant and equipment this year, virtually the level last estimated for 1967.

The figure is a preliminary one, based on forecasts last December, from the U.S. commerce department, which reports a general slow-down in all countries where American subsidiaries exist.

Total spending for expansion in all countries is estimated at $10,718,000,000, compared with a figure of $9,496,000,000 for 1967. It would be nine per cent higher than the 1966 total.

In 1967, says the department's estimate, Europe accounted for about 38 per cent of all the new investment, Canada about 21 per cent, Latin America 17 and all other countries 25.

"Plant and equipment expenditures in Canada, which stabilized in 1967 after a rapid rise the year before, are expected to continue unchanged in 1968," says the report. Europe also is expected to hold steady in 1968 at a figure of $3,948,000,000 or about $200,000,000 more than the last estimate for 1967.

SPENDING LISTED

Canadian subsidiaries are expected to spend on expansion in this way: $375,000,000 in mining and smelting, against $306,000,000 last year; $670,000,000 in petroleum, against $625,000,000; $933,000,000 in manufacturing, against $1,064,000,000; and $251,000,000 in "other industries, against $233,000,000.

Generally, the report anticipates an increase in foreign mining investment of another 20 per cent this year, matching 1967.

In petroleum the increase is set at 11 per cent, which was the 1966 figure. It was up to 18 per cent last year.

New investment in manufacturing would increase by only two per cent, however, if the estimate is accurate, compared with four per cent last year and 18 per cent in 1966.

The report says the slowing down in foreign investment "may not necessarily be due to the restrictions on capital outflow."

This program to curb the U.S. drain of gold and dollars, by cutting back on foreign investment and speeding repatriation of earnings, was toughened Jan. 1 when the U.S. calculated an international balance - of - payments deficit for 1967 of $3,600,000,000.

But Canada has been excluded in recognition of its unique role as a special dependent on American capital for growth and for carrying its own international payments deficit.

Higher Profits For Marshall Wells

WINNIPEG (CP) — Marshall Wells Ltd. has reported increased net profits last year despite a $2,000,000 drop in net sales.

The annual report of the Winnipeg-based hardware retailing company said net profit for the year ended Jan. 27 was $809,243 compared with $777,189 the previous year. Net sales were $43,025,775, down from $45,345,639.

President R. B. Sutherland reported to shareholders that the drop in sales resulted from the company's transition to more profitable areas of the market "while relieving ourselves of the lower-profit segment."

THE TRAIN that pulled into Swartz Bay CPR freight terminal Wednesday was a little late—just over an hour, according to timetable for the opening of the company's new truck-trailer ferry slip. But historically the arrival was about 97 years behind schedule, if the promises of Confederation still hold. No one seemed to mind, and North Saanich acting mayor Ald. George Aylard, below, snipped a gold ribbon to let the first official freight unit roll off Mv. Trailer Princess, skippered by Capt. James Anderson, at centre. Ald. Aylard hoped the service and CPR "will prosper in the years to come". Then a group of guests and transportation officials were served a buffet lunch aboard Van Horne, Shaughnessy and Business Car No. 4, three CPR executive coaches that made the special trip from Vancouver for the occasion—the first and probably last time railway coaches will be seen at Swartz Bay, where the closest rails are 20 miles south. Price-Fix Try Claimed

OTTAWA (CP) — The restrictive trade practices commission says Corning Glass Works of Canada Ltd., Toronto, has tried to require or induce certain retailers to resell its products at specific prices contrary to the Combines Investigation Act.

A commission report released today by Consumer Affairs Minister Turner says a series of actions by Corning during 1961-63 involving resale price-maintenance practices "constituted a detriment to the public."

Involved were popular lines of heat-resistant glassware sold under the Pyrex and Corning Ware lines.

Retailers found to have been subjected to attempts at resale price-maintenance by Corning included La Salle Factories Ltd., Ottawa and Montreal; Friemart Stores Ltd., Ottawa; Colbert Distributing Co. Ltd., operators of hardware and houseware concessions in G.E.M. Stores, Ottawa; Pearson's Electric Ltd., Sherman's Hardware Ltd. and Woolco all of Brantford, Ont.; Honest Ed's (1959) Ltd., Toronto; and Topp's Discount Department Stores Ltd., Winnipeg.

USED VARIOUS MEANS

The commission found that various means had been used to require or induce retailers to follow prices or discounts specified by Corning.

It says that in a number of cases the company attempted to obtain adoption of specified price levels by having retailers agree to advance their prices on condition that competing stores would follow the same policy.

"In effect Corning actively followed a policy of seeking to organize among retailers of its products a resale price maintenance conspiracy."

The commission is an impartial tribunal that considers evidence brought before it inquiries conducted by the director of investigation and research. It makes recommendations to the minister but has no power to impose penalties.

Mr. Turner said the commission's findings will be sent to Prime Minister Trudeau for his consideration as justice minister.

CHAN-TV Stock Sale Plan Dumped Into Lap of CRTC

OTTAWA (CP) — The question of whether a broadcasting policy position can override a legal stock option was tossed into the lap of the Canadian Radio-Television Commission Wednesday.

Vancouver lawyer Gowan Guest, representing nine clients standing to receive $3,117,600 through sale of their stock in Vancouver television station CHAN-TV, asked the CRTC to let the sale go through and sort out the policy question later.

He said the sale had been difficult to arrange and should be beneficial to CHAN-TV because it would repatriate stock holdings in the station now held by British interests and Prudential Insurance Co. of America.

Mr. Guest's clients are involved in a proposal under which British Columbia Television Broadcasting System Ltd., operator of CHAN-TV, would turn control of the company over to Selkirk Holdings Ltd. in a $4,042,588 transaction.

The policy question arose over the fact that Famous Players, a Canadian subsidiary of the American entertainment company is a Selkirk shareholder and that CHAN-TV is a member station in the privately-owned CTV television network.

The Board of Broadcast Governors, predecessor to the CRTC, adopted a policy statement on share transfers for CTV stations in 1966, after the 11 CTV members took control of their own network.

EACH HAS VOTE

Each network station has one vote in decisions on network affairs. The BBG policy position was that no transfers would be approved where an individual or group held shares in one CTV member and was seeking to buy shares in another CTV station. It also said that no person or group would be allowed to control more than one CTV station.

Toronto lawyer W. Z. Estey, representing Famous Players at the CRTC public hearing, said he felt the policy statement was designed to prevent anyone getting control of more than one CTV station.

He said the proposed share transfer would not give Famous Players control of CHAN-TV because it did not have a majority stock position in Selkirk Holdings.

Mr. Estey said Famous Players had bought into CHAN-TV in 1960 and had provided the station a lot of money when it was struggling to get established. The 1966 BBG statement was "only a policy announcement," not a regulation, Mr. Estey added.

The CRTC will announce a decision on the application later.

Profit Reported By De Havilland

TORONTO (CP) — De Havilland Aircraft of Canada Ltd. reports net income of $5,043,025 in 1967, compared with a net loss of $2,496,173 in 1966.

Included in the 1967 figure is income of $8,569,800 received from McDonnell Douglas Corp. for components for the DC-9 jet passenger plane.

The components are being assembled under a leasing arrangement at de Havilland's plant in nearby Malton.

IT'S MY VIEW . . .

By Ernie Fedoruk

Chicago Without a Reay of Hope . . .

If Bill Reay was looking for something nice to happen this evening, it could be a Montreal victory over the Chicago Black Hawks he is supposed to coach.

Even though all National Hockey League playoff series stop at seven games, Reay has difficulty explaining why the Hawks lose even once.

Consequently, Reay has been losing fan respect just as fast as it took the Canadiens to build up a 3-0 series advantage in the Eastern Division final. Maybe faster.

A number of his remarks and some of his actions have been astounding.

BILLY REAY

After game No. 1 (Montreal 9, Chicago 2), he pinned defeat on "last year's expansion draft when Montreal and New York Rangers jobbed" new clubs out of players. The Canadiens weren't hurt by the draft, said Reay, "because of under-the-table deals." As an example, he referred to the manner in which Canadiens regained winger Claude Larose after previously losing him in the draft.

After game No. 2 (Montreal 4, Chicago 1), Reay's steamiest tirade was directed at referee John Ashley.

After game No. 3 (Montreal 4, Chicago 2), Reay declared two goals by Yvan Cournoyer "were the ones that killed us, not their (Montreal's) skating or forechecking." One of Cournoyer's goals, said Reay, was "a fluke" and the other on "an offside play."

In three games, the Canadiens have popped 17 goals past Denis Dejordy. Reay has not suggested the obvious . . . that Canadiens are playing extremely well or, perhaps, that Chicago's goaltender and-or defence is below form.

Instead, Reay has dug deep for the hidden reasons.

●

Even Canadiens supporters must confess surprise at the manner in which Montreal has been bowling over all playoff opposition. That's enough to frustrate any coach on the other side of the fence, but the long-distance tone of Reay's remarks contain more than frustrations. Could it be panic?

Reay's charges of under-the-table deals by Montreal and New York do nothing for me except point out Reay's own shortcomings as a coach.

Reay has been around professional hockey as long as Toe Blake of Montreal and Emile Francis of New York. He should know that if two can creep under the table for a game of double-shuffle, there is nothing in the rules to prevent others from doing the same.

If there was cause for complaints, the time to make them was at the time the rules were bent . . . not 10 months later! If you see a bid stealing hub-caps, you can't wait until he becomes a wealthy industrialist before reporting him to the cops.

●

Reay's criticism of Ashley couldn't be taken seriously by anyone who watched the second game on teevee. The Chicago coach drew two bench penalties at a crucial point in the game. It was 1-1 when Reay went into his act. Montreal scored two goals to make it 3-1 as a direct result of the two bench penalties.

Barring an unforseen miracle, Montreal virtually wrapped up the series with that childish coaching display, and you have to extend sympathies to the Chicago players.

Reay displayed more-sensible frustration with his coaching in the third game. The Hawks haven't been overpowering anyone with their scoring attack, and Reay shuffled his lines throughout the final two periods on Tuesday.

He isn't the first, nor will he be the last coach to experiment in the playoffs. The regular grind was only 72 games long, and you have to wonder what these experimenters have been doing during the season . . .

Whatever Reay tries from now on — it won't stop Montreal.

When Henri Richard has become the almost-forgotten fourth-line centre, you have to suspect Blake has something flying on the other three units.

Only Reay hasn't noticed.

AT CALIFORNIA

Negroes Approve Coaching Change

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Negro athletes, who threatened to boycott all sports at the University of California, today are praising the elevation of freshman coach Jim Padgett to head basketball coach and appointment of Negro Earl Robinson as his assistant.

But they reserved judgment on the football situation, where they had demanded in their eight-point ultimatum the discharge of two coaching aides—Bill Button and Joe Marvin.

Bobby Smith, spokesman for the black athletes group of 40 when their demands were made in mid-basketball season, said: "I was very glad to hear" of the coaching appointments.

OUSTED COACH

Padgett succeeds Rene Herrerias, who resigned with one year to go on his contract. The Negroes had demanded Herrerias' ouster.

Bob Presley, sophomore basketball star centre who was suspended and quickly reinstated last January by Herrerias, said he was elated at the change.

He called Padgett "sincere, honest; a coach who appreciates and understands our problems. We can talk with him and he'll help us."

Presley's reinstatment precipitated a walkout of white basketball players. They said Herrerias had been ordered by the administration to lift the suspension.

Black athletes retaliated with their ultimatum.

BLUES' SCOTTY BOWMAN . . .

. . . NAMED COACH OF YEAR

No Contract Needed for Success

SCOTTY BOWMAN
. . . Blues' brightest

ST. LOUIS (CP) — Young men looking ahead are making St. Louis Blues of the National Hockey League tick, but the team is proudest of Scotty Bowman.

It was announced Monday that the 33-year-old bachelor from Montreal has been named NHL Coach-of-the-Year by a weekly sports publication.

"I'm just elated at the choice," said Sid Solamon III, executive vice-president of the club and only 30 himself.

Bowman, just finishing a two-year gentleman's agreement—he has no contract—with the club, came to St. Louis as assistant general manager and assistant coach to Lynn Patrick, who held top spot in both categories.

But with the season 16 games old and the Blues last in the six-team Western Division, Patrick decided it was too big a load to handle both jobs and turned the coaching over to Bowman.

That was Nov. 22. Their won-lost-tied record was 4-10-2.

So with nowhere to go but up, that's where they went!

The Blues and Minnesota North Stars are tied at one game apiece in the best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-finals with the third game here tonight.

Bowman's was a modest reaction to the award.

"It's just been a matter of trying," he said Wednesday.

"First we just hoped to make the playoffs, then we hoped to beat Philadelphia Flyers, now we're hoping to get into the Stanley Cup finals.

"It took us until the 73rd game of a 74-game schedule to make the playoffs and seven games to beat the Flyers in the quarter-finals. But that's the way it's been going.

The Blues wound up third in the final standings.

"It's been a gratifying year," he said. "But we've had good goaltending and good breaks.

"Glenn Hall has been outstanding and Dickie Morre gave us the lift when we needed it in December, then came back in February to help us again through the stretch and the playoffs.

"Doug Harvey became available just at the right time to help us win the quarter-final and through the year we've been able to build some real depth on the club."

Salomon added: "They (the team) responded to him.

"He makes great moves as a coach and has a real understanding, not only of his own team's abilities, but also those of the other teams.

"Of course we haven't even discussed contracts or next year with him, but I'm sure he'll be back. He's the guy for us."

WITH ONE-HITTER

Hargan Halts Detroit Streak

By The Associated Press

Steve Hargan was twice as good as Clyde Wright and neither was very good for the batting averages of Detroit Tigers and Washington Senators.

Hargan hurled a brilliant one-hitter Wednesday night as Cleveland Indians ended Detroit's nine-game winning streak 2-0. A couple of hours later, Wright gave up two hits, pitching California Angels to a 6-1 victory over Washington.

In other American League games, Baltimore Orioles ripped Minnesota Twins 7-3 and Oakland Athletics tripped New York Yankees 4-3 in 11 innings.

Hargan faced only 28 batters, permitting just two walks and Jim Northrup's leadoff single in the third. He struck out seven.

HORTON INJURED

Hargan also scored Cleveland's second run of the game when left fielder Willie Horton and shortstop Ray Oyler collided under his pop fly in the seventh inning and the ball fell for a triple. Leon Wagner's pinch single drove in the run.

Horton was carried off the field on a stretcher and preliminary examination showed he had suffered a concussion. He was taken to Shaker medical centre for further examinations.

Wright didn't look like he'd survive the first inning against the Senators. He walked the leadoff batter, surrendered a single to Hank Allen and then walked the next two hitters, forcing in a run.

But then, with the bases still loaded and none out, he struck out the side and allowed just two more runners the rest of the way.

Home runs by Roger Repoz and Paul Schaal gave the Angels the lead and then Schaal and Bob Rodgers each singled home two more runs in the late innings to wrap it up.

Baltimore pitcher Jim Hardin unloaded a two-run triple tying the game and then Dave May's double drove him in with the lead run as the Orioles battered Dean Chance.

Jim Bunning hurled Pittsburgh Pirates to a 7-3 victory over Los Angeles Dodgers in the National League while Curt Flood, the hottest hitter in the majors, drove in five runs with two singles and a triple as the St. Louis Cardinals slugged Cincinnati 7-0.

Three other NL games were postponed because of bad weather.

LAKERS SQUARE SERIES BY CLIPPING CELTICS

(Times News Services)

Los Angeles Lakers powered their way to a 123-113 win over Boston Celtics, Wednesday, in the second game of their best-of-seven National Basketball Association championship final.

The series now stands at one game each.

Veteran Elgin Baylor tossed in 23 points and Jerry West pumped in 35 to spark the Lakers.

In the American Association playoff, New Orleans' lead was sliced to a 2-1 margin in their best-of-seven series after bowing to Pittsburgh, 109-101.

IOC Manoeuvre A 'Face-Saver'

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP)—South Africa is officially out of the Olympics and the threat of a multination boycott of the Games is over.

Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee, confirmed Wednesday that enough votes have been received from IOC members to exclude the segregated country from the Mexico City Games this October.

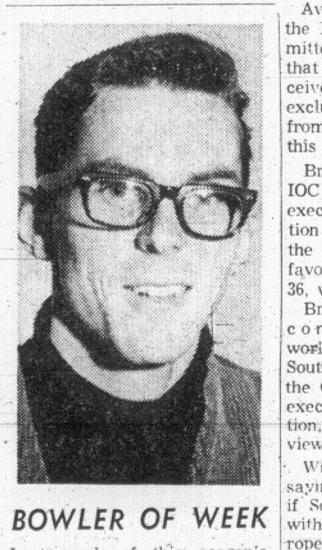
Brundage said 54 of the 71 IOC members had voted on an executive board recommendation not to invite South Africa to the Games and that 41 were in favor. Only a simple majority, 36, was needed.

Brundage cited "explosive conditions throughout the world" and "actual danger if a South African team appeared at the Games" as reasons for the executive board recommendation, but this was generally viewed as a face-saving device.

With more than 40 nations saying they would not compete if South Africa was there—and with Russia and the eastern European bloc of nations threatening to boycott as well—Mexican officials were trying hard to keep South Africa out.

In fact, the Mexicans had never issued an invitation to South Africa.

The problem arose when the IOC took a postal vote at the Winter Games in Grenoble, France, in February, and voted to allow South Africa back into the Games from which the country had been banned in 1963 because of its racial policies.



BOWLER OF WEEK

Last week of this season's Bowler-of-the-Week contest brought Ian Davey his first award in annual Times sponsored event. Ian, a "once a week bowler" who plays in city Senior Men's Softball League, earned men's fivepin award in 27th week as he tacked 371 game onto earlier efforts of 249 and 248 for 868 series in Monday Senior League at Esquimalt Bowladrome.

Dunfermline and Who?

Officials of the North American Soccer League announced in New York Wednesday that Dunfermline Athletics of the Scottish League's First Division would play in Victoria on June 3.

The North American League now controls arrangements for most clubs visiting North America.

Victoria officials, however, expressed unawareness of the game.

Ron Southern, president of the Victoria O'Keefes of the Pacific Coast League, said he hadn't been contacted.

Jack Morgan, director of recreation facilities for Victoria, said: "I've been writing and writing to the New York people. As far as I know, there will be no game here. We can't sponsor it at Macdonald Park and Royal Athletic Park is not available."

Promoters apparently had made proposals with reference to the use of Centennial Stadium for the date June 3.

"Someone contacted me from Vancouver," said Floyd Fairclough, secretary of the Stadium committee.

He advised "the someone" although the stadium was available, there were no lights for an evening game. The matter seemed to be dropped, added Fairclough.

REAY ON HORSES

Habs Detect Bonus Aroma

CHICAGO (CP)—Toe Blake sat in the stands at Chicago Stadium and read the daily racing form while Billy Reay discussed the Kentucky Derby as he relaxed in his small office.

There was little hockey talk in the arena Wednesday, although the temperature dropped to 37 degrees outside and a howling wind tossed snowflakes about.

Most of the Montreal Canadien players went through a light skating and shooting drill.

Gump Worsley, the veteran Montreal goaltender, wandered into the stadium to watch the workout and offer off-hand remarks.

MONEY SERIES

"It's the money now and that's what we're after," said Worsley. "Ten grand, that's going to be pretty good for less than two months work."

It was one of the few mentions made during the long dreary day of the National Hockey League's best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-final series that continues tonight with Montreal leading Chicago Black Hawks 3-0.

A number of fringe Black Hawk players straggled onto the ice about 11 a.m. and pantomined a light practice.

A win tonight will give Montreal a sweep of the quarter-final and semi-final series in eight straight games.

Only one team has rebounded from a 3-0 deficit to win the Stanley Cup series in more than 20 years. Toronto Maple Leafs did it in 1942.

Reay, although anxious to get to the horse races, extolled the greatness of the Montreal club, conceding that his Hawks can't overcome the depth of the Canadiens.

"I'll rate them with any of the great Montreal clubs including the 1946 cup winner and I'll say this one has greater scoring ability," Reay said.

The game is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. CST and will be televised by the CBC national network. A fifth game, if necessary, will be played in Montreal Sunday afternoon.

Tonight's Montreal-Chicago game will be telecast on Channels 2 and 6 starting at 6 p.m.

Columbus Belts Semis' Rivals 10-0

VANCOUVER (CP) — Columbus scored nine goals in a second-half spree Wednesday night to hammer Commercials 10-0 in a Province Cup soccer semi-final.

Sergio Zanatta scored three times for Columbus.

Totems Need One More Win

PORTLANO (AP)—Seattle Totems battled from behind Wednesday night to overcome Portland Buckaroos 4-3 in overtime and take a 3-1 lead in the Western Hockey League finals for the Lester Patrick Cup.

Marc Boileau scored the winning goal at 3:45 in overtime. Boileau also assisted on Gerry Leonard's third-period tally which forced the contest into overtime.

Totems hit the scoreboard first when Guyle Fielder blasted home a shot at the 10:47 mark. Earl Heiskala put Seattle two ahead at 14:26.

Portland took over in the second period with goals from Dennis Kearns, Doug Messier and Art Jones, but Bucks' offence sputtered to a stop in the third period.

Portland outshot Seattle 29-26 before a turnout of 8,961 fans.

B.C. Junior Club Fails To Impress Mr. Munro

VERNON, B.C. (CP) — A bristling Scotty Munro ordered early practice for his Estevan Bruins today following their 3-0 victory over Penticton Broncos Wednesday night in the Western Memorial Cup hockey finals.

"We played about a tenth of what we should have," the general manager complained after the game, first in the best-of-seven junior series. "I was very disappointed."

Bruins went into the game as favorites and Munro made it clear he agreed with this indicement of Broncos: "If this is the best hockey club in British Columbia then B.C. is about 90 years behind the times."

HIT GOAL POSTS

Broncos manager George Stoll contended sheer bad luck prevented Broncos showing better. Broncos Dale McBain and Ken Conner both hit goalposts in a fruitless third-period rally.

Jim Harrison, a four-year veteran and most valuable player in the Western Canada Junior Hockey League, scored the winning goal in the first period and another late in the second.

Dale Hoganson, who assisted on Harrison's first goal at 19:53 of the first period before 2,800 fans, scored himself after one minute of the second. Gary Braun helped on Harrison's second goal.

"Our boys played a good game," said Stoll. Munro's assessment was that the B.C. junior A champions matched Lakehead teams but were "no better than one of the Prairie junior B teams."

Second game will be here Friday because of arena renovation at Penticton. Others are set for Estevan April 28-29 and, if needed, at Estevan April 30 and at Vernon again May 1 and 3.

Bruin goaltender Gord Kopp earned his shutout with 32 saves. Wally Denault of Broncos, a pickup from Kamloops Rockets of the BCJHL, managed to keep 35 out of Penticton's goal.

Bruins drew six of the eight penalties, including a second-round spearing major to Roy Atcheynum.

Victor in the series meets the winner of the Eastern final. In the Eastern series, Verdun Maple Leafs face either Niagara Falls Flyers or Kitchener Rangers.

FIRST PERIOD

1. Estevan, Harrison (D. Hoganson) 19:53.

Penalties—Harrison (E) 1:48, Taggart (P) 12:42.

Adanacs in Top Shape; Hope to Obtain Bionda

Portland Adanacs, who open the National Lacrosse Association's Western Division season against Victoria Shamrocks, May 8, in Memorial Arena, are counting on the scoring skill of several veterans and hustle to make an impression in their new home.

Shamrocks will play their second pre-season game Friday against New Westminster in Haney and finish their exhibition chores Monday when they tackle Vancouver at North Vancouver.

Coach Gordie Gimple, hoping to do most of his coaching from the bench this season, has shifted his club from Coquitlam to Portland in the biggest move of the western division, formerly the Inter-City Lacrosse League.

Gimple believes the Adanacs have a big chance to make a hit with Portland fans. He has put them through a strenuous conditioning program and feels that speed and stamina will make the Adanacs the most entertaining club in the west.

For their goals, Adanacs will probably have to rely on the fire power of several seasoned campaigners and hope their young players will keep rivals off balance while the veterans move into scoring range.

Gimple has proven gunners like Mike Gates, Alec Carey and Marty Jordan and is attempting to build a rugged defence, anchored by Bill Bradley. Jordan is talking of retirement but club officials are confident he will return to action.

Retirement plans of big Fred Usselman and defenceman Ron Bodnar appear more definite but Gimple is hoping that Jack Barclay and Ivan Stewart will make up for the loss of Usselman and Bodnar.

Barclay, rugged and hard-hitting, and the fleet Steward have been stars in former seasons. Both have seen little action in the past two years because of injuries but both now appear in top condition and they could give Adanacs a big boost.

TRADE FOR JUNIOR

Gimple is also expecting a big season from Doug Wallsmith, who moved to Adanacs from New Westminster in the middle of last season. Wallsmith spent five years with Westminster after a brilliant junior career but never appeared to hit his best stride with the Salmonbellies and the Portland coach feels the little veteran will be more at home in the Adanac style of play.

Gimple also has big plans for youthful Bernie Barneski, who this week became the first player to be traded in the NLA. Barneski, with the Burnaby junior club last season, moved to Portland in a deal with Vancouver.

CONTEST FOR COMEDIAN

Although the Burnaby team has been assigned as a Portland farm team, Barneski was ruled the property of Vancouver, the former sponsor. Adanacs agreed to give up a part of the junior club in order to get Barneski.

Goaltending should be a strong point for the Adanacs. They have all-star Joe Comeau back and Joe is getting a battle for the regular berth from talented Merv Schweitzer, who saw little action last year because of studies.

Gimple admits his club is somewhat short on depth but feels he has several youngsters who will improve rapidly.

EYES ON BIONDA

He is also hoping that big Jack Bionda, one of the game's all-time greats, will find his way into an Adanac uniform. Bionda, a Portland resident and helping to promote lacrosse in that city, retired from hockey last season. He has been hampered by knee troubles but his blazing shot and fine stick-handling could add sting to the Adanac power play.

Gimple is also trying to lure another hockey player, Tom McVie, out of lacrosse retirement. McVie, a Western Hockey League performer with Phoenix, was an Inter-City League all star while with the former Nanaimo club.

Gimple is confident of success in Portland even if he doesn't get Bionda and McVie.

"We're in great shape," he said at a workout this week. "We have a real running team and we'll give the fans plenty to yell about."

Young British Netter Upsets Veteran Pro

BOURNEMOUTH, England (AP) — Mark Cox, a 24-year-old British amateur, Wednesday scored the first major upset over a professional in an open tennis tournament by beating Pancho Gonzales of Los Angeles.

A crowd of 2,000 saw the left-hander break the 40-year-old Gonzalez' service in the final game of a 2¼-hour match for a 0-6, 6-2, 4-6, 6-3, 6-3 victory in the second round of the British hard-court championship.

The tournament is the first permitting amateurs to compete against professionals.

Gonzalez, one of the six stars in George MacCall's troupe competing here, was not the only pro to run into trouble against mediocre opposition.

Australian Fred Stolle had to rally to overcome Britain's Keith Wooldridge 8-6, 5-7, 5-7, 6-2, 6-2. Australian Roy Emerson, a recent addition to the pro ranks, dropped a set to David Lloyd, a 20-year-old Briton, before winning 6-1, 6-4, 1-6, 6-3.

End Draws Nearer For Soccer Clubs

The season's end is drawing near.

Canadian Scottish and Victoria Wests of the Victoria and District Soccer League meet Sunday in a Price Cup semi-final game. The winners play Gorge Molsons in a two-game final.

Division I Luckies play London Boxing Club of the second division in game number two of their promotion-relegation series the same day. Boxers won the first game of the best-of-three series.

Finals in the Price Cup playoffs start Tuesday night at 6:30 in Hampton Park.

Sunday's games are set for 2 p.m., both at Hampton Park.

Tulsa Scores Third Straight

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Tulsa Oilers came from behind twice to post their third straight victory over Fort Worth Wings, 5-3, in the Central Pro Hockey League final playoff series Wednesday night.

The best-of-seven Adams Cup series will move to Fort Worth for a Saturday night game. The Oilers have a chance to become the second team in league history to sweep the final series.

Andre Hinse scored twice for Tulsa in the final period, including a short tap into the open net after Fort Worth lifted goalie Buddy Blom in the final minute. Len Haley, Ron Ward and Mike Byers scored Tulsa goals in the first period.

Doug Roberts twice put the Wings in front with first-period goals, but the Oilers went ahead to stay on Byers' tally. Bart Crashley scored for the Wings in the last period.

Referee Bryan Lewis called only seven minor-penalties, four against Fort Worth.

Pacer Reaching For $1M

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) — At an age when most horses would be put out to pasture, 12-year-old Cardigan Bay continues to amaze harness racing circles.

The New Zealand-bred gelding is favored to take the $50,000 International Pace at Yonkers Raceway tonight and move closer to becoming the first standard-bred to win $1,000,000.

Cardigan Bay currently has won $950,571. Victory tonight would up that to $975,571 and make it possible for him to hit the $1 million mark on May 2 in the $50,000 Good Time Pace, the second leg in Yonker's $150,000 International series.

It rained hard Wednesday night, but the condition of the track is not expected to hamper Cardigan Bay in the 1½ mile test.

Given the best chance of upsetting Cardigan Bay is First Lee, an invader from New South Wales in Australia. First Lee, a six-year-old, won his American debut last week in an impressive 2:02 for the mile.

Adios Vic and Song Ccycle, both from the Chicago area and representing the United States, are regarded as the third and fourth choices.

BOWLING NOW

Amputee Improves Average

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — The loss of both hands can't keep Robert Adams, 35, off the bowling lanes.

Adams lost his hands two years ago when he touched a 13,000-volt electric line.

After 30 days in hospital and four months off the job, he returned to work as a truck driver. He also took a part-time job as a bartender.

That job led him to bowling.

Several friends and his employer at the bar where he worked took up a collection to help pay for a bowling adapter that is installed in an artificial arm.

* * *

Adams says as far as he knows, his bowling adapter is one of four in the United States.

A thin steel cable passes from one arm over Adams' shoulder to the other and operates the mechanism.

By holding his left arm stationary and bringing his right hand back, a rubber ring on the adapter, which is inserted in the ball, expands. When the right arm is brought forward the rubber ring constricts, releasing the ball.

Adams admits he has trouble. The adapter often bends and if the ball is released too soon it goes into the gutter.

But the beginning bowler is upping his average. He started the season in a once-a-week mixed league with a 72 average and has now worked it up to an 86. His top game was a 120 and best series a 310.

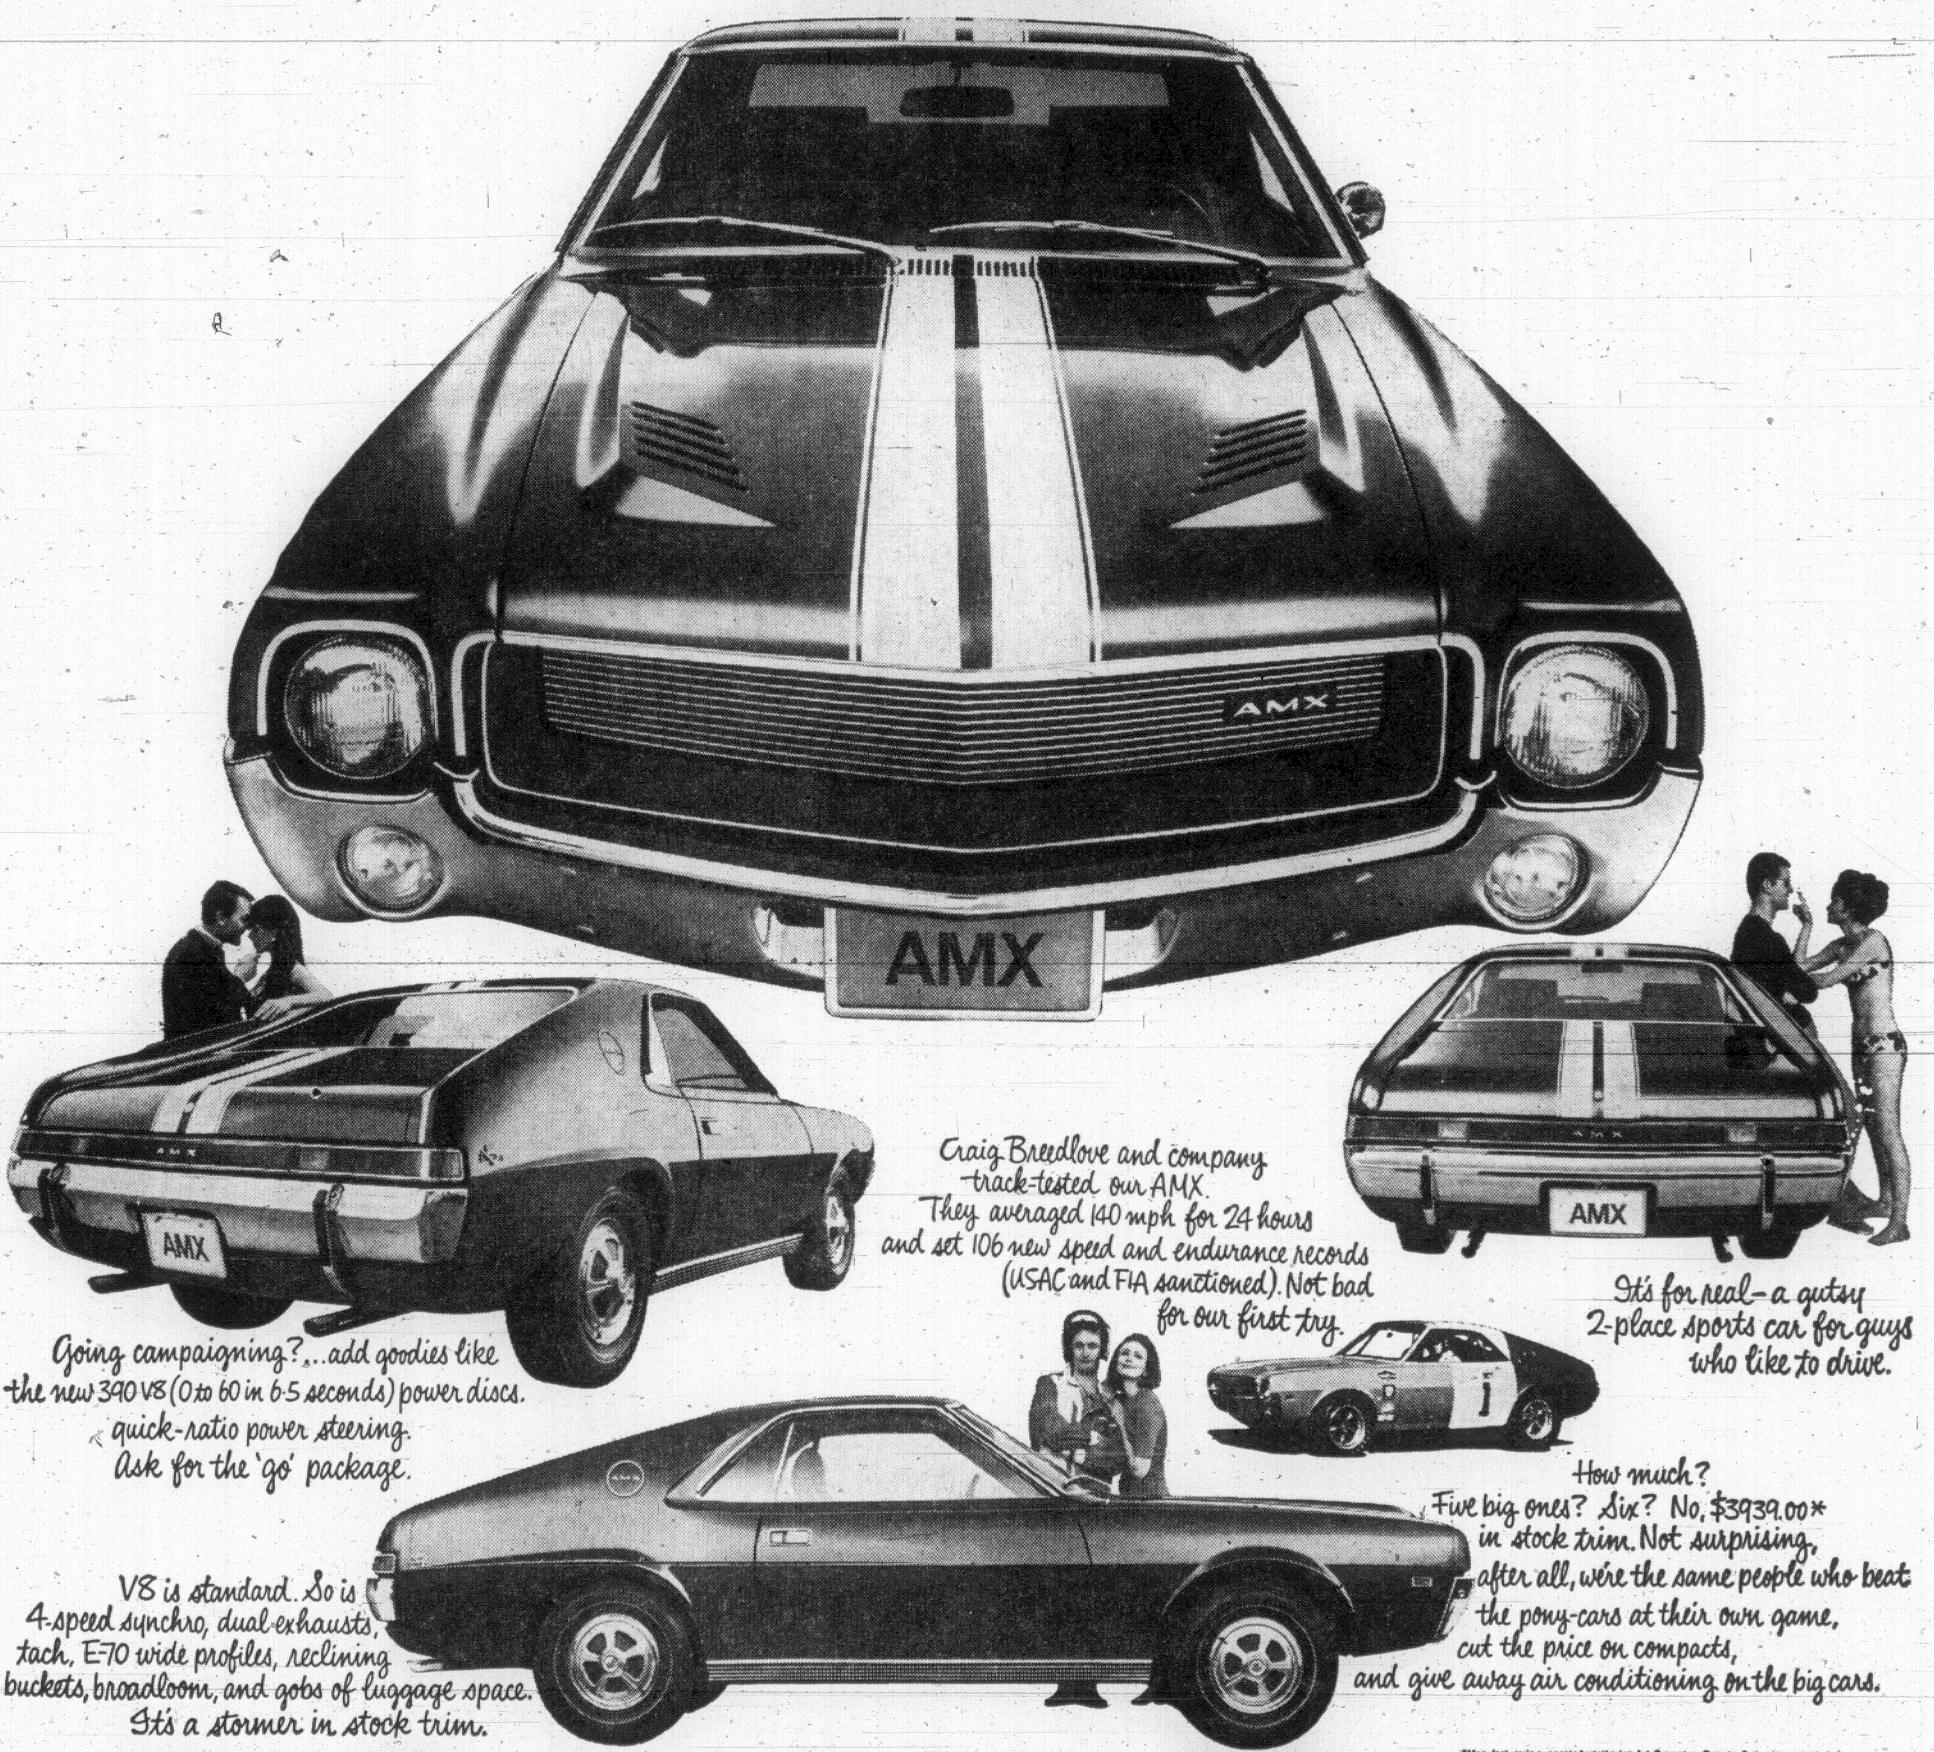
Retired Trophy Tribute to Craig

The B.C. Table Tennis Commission has decided to retire the Western Canadian Open Challenge trophy into the permanent possession of Nancy Craig of Victoria.

Mrs. Craig has won the trophy 10 times since the silverware was first offered in 1937.

Last February she again captured the Victoria city championship to bring her undefeated streak in this event up to 20 years.

This is the sports car we promised you: AMX



Craig Breedlove and company track-tested our AMX. They averaged 140 mph for 24 hours and set 106 new speed and endurance records (USAC and FIA sanctioned). Not bad for our first try.

It's for real—a gutsy 2-place sports car for guys who like to drive.

Going campaigning?...add goodies like the new 390 V8 (0 to 60 in 6.5 seconds) power discs. quick-ratio power steering. Ask for the 'go' package.

How much? Five big ones? Six? No, $3939.00* in stock trim. Not surprising, after all, we're the same people who beat the pony-cars at their own game, cut the price on compacts, and give away air conditioning on the big cars.

V8 is standard. So is 4-speed synchro, dual exhausts, tach, E-70 wide profiles, reclining buckets, broadloom, and gobs of luggage space. It's a stormer in stock trim.

CITY ALDERMAN WANTS ASSURANCES CHANGE IS NEEDED

'Let's Know All the Facts Before Region Takes On Planning'

By JIM HUME

Ald. Ian Stewart wants to know the ultimate goal of the Regional District Board before he agrees to give the board jurisdiction over regional planning.

He made the statement during and following a meeting of the Capital Region Planning Board Tuesday afternoon.

It has been suggested that the region planning group, made of municipal and provincial representatives, be brought under the jurisdiction of the Regional District Board.

Ald. Stewart, Victoria's representative on the CRPB, said he was concerned that the change might deprive existing municipal planning departments and municipal governments of basic rights in defining zoning and planning for the future.

BIG CHANGE

"A big change is being proposed here," he said. "Let us be sure of every step. This a substantial decision. Before I am prepared to recommend any action to my council I want to be assured of at least two things. One, that citizen participation in planning will not be lost and two, I want to know what the aims and objectives of the regional district as a form of government are.

Little more than a month ago the CRPB and the Regional District Board established a steering committee to investigate and advise on the proposal to make planning a regional function.

"I think we can go a little easier on this proposal," Central Saanich Mayor Gordon Lee said Tuesday afternoon. "There is no rush. We can go slowly and make absolutely sure that we are doing the right thing."

Following the meeting Ald. Stewart said his concern sprang mostly from the fact that no one has ever "really articulated the direction in which the Regional District is moving."

"It may be a good idea to transfer regional planning to the regional district," he said. "But it seems to me at this time that the inclusion of regional planning with the regional district simply transfers another responsibility away from a broader forum. I have my doubts that this is the proper way to effect regional legislation and regional co-operation."

Ald. Stewart said he was not against change but that he wanted the need for change clearly demonstrated before he could vote in favor of the move.

"I take the position, and I want to stress that it is my position not necessarily the position of city council, that unless it is clearly demonstrated to me that such a change is not only worthwhile but necessary, and that the reasons are clear and not merely matters of convenience, as a member of the CRPB and city council I would vote against this move."

IN FAVOR

Mayor Hugh Stephen has gone on record as being in favor of the move as a logical step in regional government.

Tony Roberts, regional planning director, is also on record as advocating the move.

"The main advantage of including planning among the regional district's functions is the better service provided through integration with other regional functions," he states in a written report.

"There is a need for some regional planning consideration in a number of the board's activities such as developing a trunk sewerage system or locating regional parks. This can be better provided if the planning function is also contained in the same agency.

"There are also operational advantages to a single board. Duplication is eliminated and financial savings occur in purchasing, accounting and the use of equipment."

The argument doesn't impress Ald. Stewart.

"I am satisfied that the CRBP can continue its functions under the present constitution," he said. "And I stress again what I have said before: I feel the objectives of the regional district should be clearly stated.

"If it is proposed that the regional district will gradually assume the shape of a new form of municipal government, then we should say so.

"If it means that the city of Victoria is to have a regulatory function only, then we should say so.

NEED SAFEGUARDS

"If it means that Tony Roberts will be the regional planner and that all other planners will operate under him, then we should say so.

"If there is any rationale to bring regional functions under one jurisdiction, then let us itemize all of them whether they are profitable to Victoria or not, and then consider the whole package together."

Ald. Stewart warned that if municipalities brought regional planning into the regional distric—they could, unless detailed safeguards are spelled out, become rubber-stamp governments without control over their own destiny.

"Under the present legislation dealing with regional districts the regional board has far greater powers than the Capital Region Planning Board," he said. "The CRPB can devise a regional plan and it can be adopted provided that two thirds of the member municipalities approve it.

"This means that the municipalities can debate the plan in their own councils before the final adoption is made.

"Under the new legislation the regional board has the power by a simple majority of directors to accept the plan and the plan becomes binding upon the various municipal councils.

"The legislation contains a great deal of power.

"As an alderman for the city of Victoria I feel that we must consider the interests of our taxpayers as well as the broader interests of the region.

"The decision we are being called upon to make is not a simple administrative decision. It has a number of implications which make it difficult for me to accept without close examination."

Ald. Stewart said he had drawn up his thoughts on the problem in the form of a memorandum to Mayor Stephen.

"I have also suggested that the city strike a study committee to determine the terms and conditions upon which the city will be prepared to aprove the proposed move," he said.

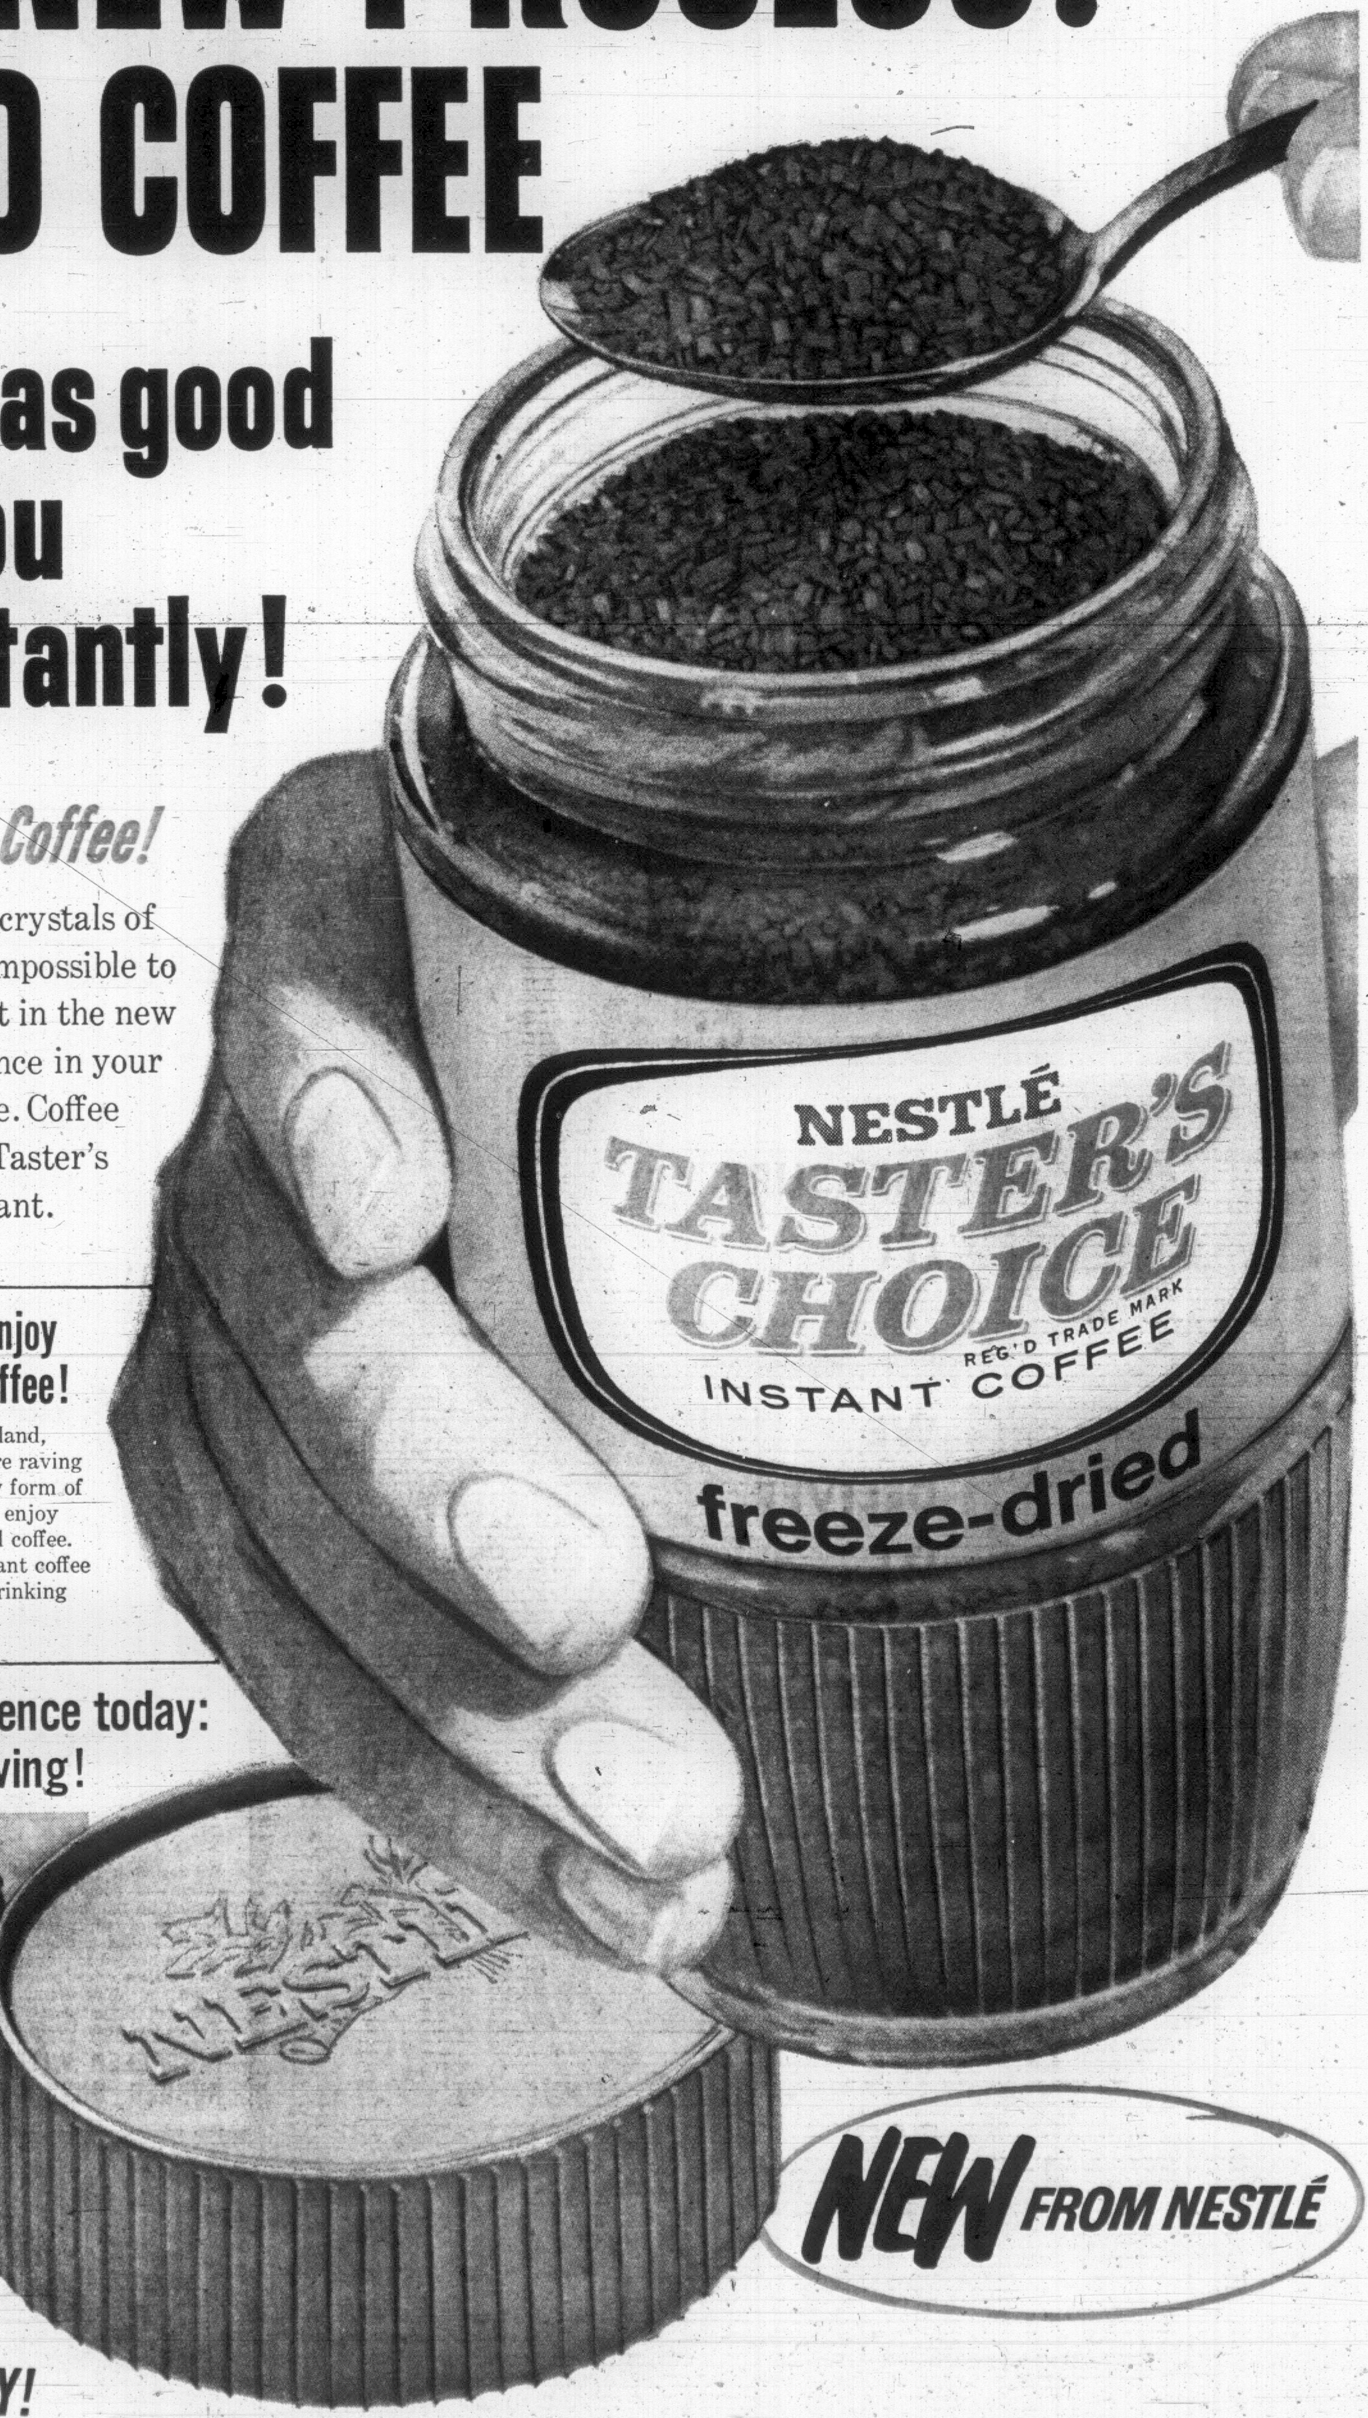
SENSATIONAL COFFEE BREAKTHROUGH!

A TOTALLY NEW PROCESS: FREEZE-DRIED COFFEE

Guarantees coffee as good as the best you could perk, but instantly!



New Taster's Choice Freeze-Dried Instant Coffee!

New Taster's Choice is not a powder—but freeze-dried crystals of fresh-ground, fresh-perked coffee packed with flavour impossible to capture any other way. You can see the difference right in the new Taster's Choice jar. You can smell and taste the difference in your cup . . . the fresh-perked aroma and flavour of real coffee. Coffee as good as the best you could perk. Yet you make new Taster's Choice as quickly and easily as you make ordinary instant.

The big flavour difference begins with the blend

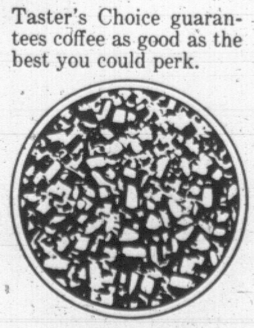
Taster's Choice is a very special blend of the world's finest coffee beans. The one blend that is worthy of the incredibly precise new freeze-dried process. This superlative blend of the world's finest coffee beans is meticulously roasted and carefully ground.

Freeze-drying captures more flavour—better flavour

The fresh-ground Taster's Choice blend is percolated in electronically-timed coffee pots. At the peak of percolation the rich liquid coffee is frozen solid. It's this sudden freezing that locks in more flavour—better flavour—flavour impossible to capture by any other coffee-making method.

Freeze-drying produces real coffee crystals

The real miracle of freeze-drying comes next. All the water is taken out of the frozen coffee in the form of ice, leaving millions of unique little crystals of fresh-ground, fresh-perked coffee . . . Taster's Choice Freeze-Dried Instant Coffee. When you make a cup or carafe of Taster's Choice you simply put the water back in the coffee. That's why Taster's Choice guarantees coffee as good as the best you could perk.



Now Victoria can enjoy this totally new coffee!

Coffee lovers in France, England, Germany and Switzerland are raving about this revolutionary new form of coffee. Now, all Victoria can enjoy Taster's Choice Freeze-Dried coffee. The totally new kind of instant coffee that is changing the coffee drinking habits of the world!

Taste the difference today: Tasting is believing!

For the first time, enjoy coffee as good as the best you could perk . . . but instantly. Once you've tasted new Taster's Choice Freeze-Dried Instant Coffee you'll never again make do with ordinary instants.

NEW FROM NESTLÉ

GUARANTEED! COFFEE AS GOOD AS THE BEST YOU COULD PERK...BUT INSTANTLY!

UN Assembly to Debate South-West Africa Issue

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The General Assembly decided Wednesday to begin debate at once on the South-West Africa question. It tossed to the main political and economic committee the job of studying the proposed nuclear non-proliferation treaty on which the Soviet Union and the United States are seeking prompt action.

Resuming the session adjourned in December to await completion of the non-proliferation draft treaty in Geneva, the General Assembly admitted Mauritius as the 124th UN member and adjourned without setting a date for the start of debate on agenda items carried over.

UN President Corneliu Manescu of Romania announced that the non-proliferation and South-West Africa questions would not be debated simultaneously. Prospects were that committee debate on the proposed treaty to limit the spread of nuclear arms and get negotiations started to reduce weapons stockpiles would begin Friday.

Informed sources said that Afro-Asia members had agreed in a private meeting not to vote on any assembly resolution on non-proliferation until given satisfaction on South-West Africa.

South Africa has refused to turn over to the UN the administration of the former German colony it has run under mandate since the First World War settlements.

Mission sources said Canada is likely to speak early next week on the proposed nuclear non-proliferation treaty, after the main sponsors, Russia and the U.S., open the debate.

The nuclear super-powers have joined forces in a bid to win early acceptance by the UN of this treaty. Britain also backs the treaty but two other nuclear-weapon powers—France and China—have indicated they will not sign it.

Lt.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, Canadian representative in the 18-country committee on disarmament which developed the draft treaty during months of work in Geneva, has been in New York since Monday, joining in negotiations aimed at getting two-thirds approval of the General Assembly. This, the sponsors believe, would give the treaty desirable prestige.

Countries which have expressed reservations, for a variety of reasons include India, West Germany, Italy, Romania, Brazil and Japan. Some have stated the draft treaty contains disparities between the duties and obligations of the nuclear and the non-nuclear countries.

Honors for Andrews

A citation for contributions to aerial mapping has been awarded to B.C. surveyor - general Gerald Andrews by the Puget Sound region of the American Society of Photogrammetry, it was announced Wednesday.

TOP SOIL

By far the cheapest soil nutrient for your lawn and shrubs. If applied as top dressing (one yard for every 600 sq. ft., it will, after three yearly applications develop a thick and lasting turf that feels like a soft carpet. That is how good and lasting lawns used to be made. Top-dressed lawns moreover are far less vulnesable to weeds and most important of all require less watering. One yard of topsoil weighing about 2,500 pounds costs you four dollars. In comparison, one dollar of chemical fertilizer will buy only about 15 pounds of fertilizer which at best contains only 3 pounds of plant food. It will therefore only act as a short-lived stimulant without any lasting value.

Long-Service Awards Go to 6 Policemen

Six city policemen will receive long-service awards at the annual marchpast and inspection in the Memorial Arena Sunday.

A display of precision marching by a squad of local policemen and a demonstration by the Vancouver City Police motorcycle team are on the program.

Music will be supplied by the City Police Youth Band and the Canadian Scottish Pipe Bnd.

Mayor Hugh Stephen will address the assembly and present the following awards:

Det. Angus Munro, 30-year bar; Det. John Mason, 30-year bar; Det. - Insp. William Andrews, 25-year bar; Constable Robert Morris, 25-year bar; Det. Richard Ward, 20-year medal; Det. Angus Stewart, 20-year medal.

The program starts at 1:50 p.m. Sunday and admission is free.

Violet Club Plans First Show

One of the largest displays of African violets will be exhibited in the Douglas Room of the Hudson's Bay on May 10 and 11.

The event, the first official show organized by the Victoria African Violet Club, will be opened by Mrs. G. R. Pearkes, wife of Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes.

Internationally accredited judges will make the awards.

The show will feature many new varieties of African violets.

The club has also added a special class for men only to its show program. Entries will be accepted from non-members.

President Mrs. Phillippa Yates announced that the Canadian National Violet Show will be held in Victoria in 1971—in conjunction with the centennial activities of the year—British Columbia's entry into Confederation.

The national show draws entries from across Canada and from many clubs and growers in the United States.

The show was last held in western Canada in Vancouver three years ago.

Blaze Blamed On Boy, 13

NEWARK (UPI) — A 13-year-old Negro boy was arrested Wednesday as the arsonist who set the fire that enveloped 34 buildings in the predominantly Negro central ward and left 650 persons homeless four days ago.

It was the worst fire in the city's history.

Fire director John Caufield said the youth admitted setting the fire in a three-storey tenement with matches and "other combustible materials" and then watching the flames spread from a rooftop perch across the street last Saturday.

Caufield said the youth was "remorseful" but gave no reason for setting the fire.

MANY WORRY ABOUT CARS . . . . . . MORTGAGES, DIVORCES AND WILLS

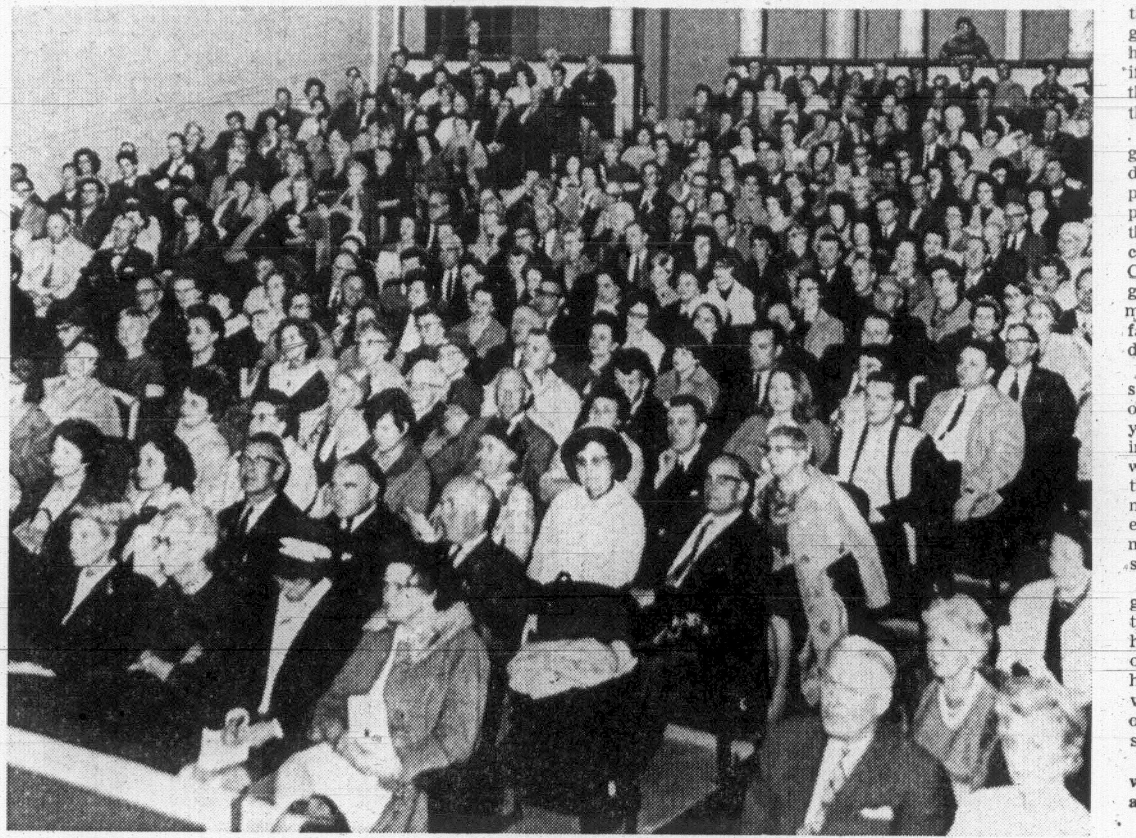
Lawyer Panel Answers Questions From Citizens

A panel of legal experts fielded questions for two hours in the McPherson Playhouse Wednesday night.

Moderator was Judge M. L. Tyrwhitt-Drake. Four lawyers comprised the panel for the annual event sponsored by Victoria Daily Times, CJVI and the Victoria Bar Association.

The lawyers were: Dermod Owen-Flood, Mrs. Constance Holmes Isherwood, John C. Scott-Harston and Kenneth C. Murphy.

Following are the questions and answers:



LISTENING ATTENTIVELY to advice on wills, divorces, car accidents and other topics involving the law are citizens who filled main section of the McPherson Playhouse to capacity. Many more were seated in balcony. (Times photo by Bill Halkett.)

If I win my case in a civil action, who pays my lawyer?

MR. MURPHY: With respect to legal fees I would direct your attention to the program which you received when you came into the theatre this evening and also to the remarks made by Mr. Cowan earlier because on the third page headed Legal Fees this does mention the arrangements that you make with your own solicitor.

Winning or losing a lawsuit does not determine at all who pays those fees. The person who retains the lawyer pays the lawyer.

If you win the lawsuit you are entitled generally speaking to recover costs from the other party.

These costs belong to you and will serve to reduce in small measure perhaps and in large measure the fees that you are called upon to pay your own solicitor.

If you lose the case then you not only have to pay your own solicitor but you have to pay the costs of the other side as well.

But Never On Sunday

Is a contract to buy a house valid if made out on Sunday?

MRS. ISHERWOOD: The answer to that question, Mr. Moderator, is that an agreement for the sale of land made on a Sunday is void by reason of a statute called the Lord's Day Act.

This is a statute of Canada and the particular section which governs it is Section Number Four which I would like to read to you, it says, "It is not lawful for any person on the Lord's Day, except as provided herein, or in any Provincial Act of Law now or hereafter in force to sell or offer for sale or purchase any goods, chattels or other personal property or any real estate or to carry on or transact business of his ordinary calling or in connection with such calling or for gain to do or employ any other person to do on that day any work, business or labor."

There are exceptions in the Act and they refer to works of necessity and mercy and you can quite see that such acts such work would be permitted on Sunday and then it will come to your mind that you know somebody who works on Sunday, he might have a store or some sort of business and that too is provided in the exception by some Provincial or Municipal regulation, however, where we have heard that the better the day the better the deed doesn't apply when it comes to buying a house, so for real estate contracts the thing to keep in mind is "Never on Sunday."

What does without prejudice on a lawyer's letter mean?

MR. SCOTT-HARSTON: Well now there is a lot of misunderstanding on this subject and what lies behind it is that it has been held to be against public policy that letters written in some disputes should be admissible in evidence when they are written without prejudice with a view to arriving at some settlement.

Our Rights In Battle

An English judge expressed his view in the following rebus if somewhat biblical words on the subject he said this, "The plaintiff or defendant a party litigant my say to his opponent, "now you and I are likely to be engaged in severe warfare, if that warfare proceeds you understand I shall take the advantage of you that the game of war permits you must expect no mercy and I shall ask for none, but before bloodshed let us discuss the matter and let us agree that for the purpose of this discussion we will more or less be frank, we will try to come to terms and nothing each of us says shall ever be used against the other so as to interfere with our rights at war if unfortunately war results," so rang the words of the judge.

Now if an offer set forth in a without prejudice letter containing those words that is somewhere on it is not accepted while then nothing in it will be admissible in evidence to serve to harm the author or his interest, but if on the other hand, the author in that letter is indeed accepted well then the magic cloak of inadmissibility dissolves like Cinderella's midnight finery and the letter may be given in evidence as to the settlement arrived at, but you must remember that there must be some dispute, there must be some negotiating settlement in the offing so it's not one bit of good your writing some abusive letter to your neighbor about his manners or his dog or his child and expect that letter to serve you as a bullet proof vest and by the same token even though 1968 is leap year you cannot propose marriage under or without prejudice banner and hope to avoid a breach of promise suit.

And as we spoke of inadmissibility does serve as a protection against the question of whether there is some good cause of depriving a successful litigant of his cost and yet it does not entirely take the matter of responsibility for what is called layches under its protective screen, layches incidentally, is not some fruity breakfast at the Royal Hawaiian Hotel, but it means negligence or unreasonable delay in asserting some legal right and the fact that without prejudice letters have been written but not their actual contents may be considered by the court when reviewing whether layches has taken place.

Does anybody commit any offence if he carries a partly consumed bottle of liquor in his car?

MR. OWEN-FLOOD: The best view appears to be that you do not commit an offence if you carry a partly consumed bottle of liquor in your car providing you don't violate any of the following conditions: firstly, of course, the first condition is you must be an adult you must be over 21, the second condition is that you mustn't be drinking while you operate your car—any court would hold that if you are drinking while you are driving your car you wouldn't be driving with the due care and attention that the law requires, and thirdly, of course, you mustn't have your car parked in a public place because if you did and were drinking in a public place you would be committing the offence of drinking in a public place which would be unlawful, and fourthly the liquor, of course, shouln't be something unlawful which is smuggled in or absinth or some other liquor that is illegal—it must be liquor which you have legally come by. So I think that the general answer is that you do not commit an offence if you are carrying a partly consumed bottle of liquor in your car providing you are not drinking from it.

Nevertheless, it is perhaps not a wise thing to do because if you have an accident it would not look too good.

My parents have no assets and no income, who is responsible for their support?

MRS. ISHERWOOD: Now this is a good question. No assets and no income leaves a person in a pretty bad way. There are two principal sources from which support can come depending upon the age of the parents.

We'll take first of all those who are of an age to qualify for old-age pension.

This form of support is available this year to people who attain their sixty-sixth birthday, they apply this year and the payment begins on January 1, 1969. Next year those who are sixty-five will be permitted to apply and their payments will begin on January 1st, 1970, and thereafter the age of sixty-five will be the year that governs application for old-age pension unless there is some later change in the regulations.

Then as to the amount this year the pension is seventy-six dollars and fifty cents ($76.50) a month and certain people are permitted to apply for what is called supplemental allowance in the amount of thirty dollars and sixty cents ($30.60) so if they qualify the total amount payable is one hundred and seven dollars and ten cents ($107.10) a month. This supplemental allowance is available to people and would be available in this case to the parents who have no assets and no income and if a single person has other income less than seven hundred and forty-four dollars ($744.00) a year he qualifies for some supplemental allowance.

The amount is increased for husband and wife whose combined income is less than fourteen hundred and eighty-eight dollars ($1,488.00) and there is also provision if one person is married the other is a pensioner, if one person is working and the other is a pensioner the allowance is paid if the income is less than twenty-four hundred and six dollars ($2,406.00) a year.

Old Enough To Qualify

Now if the person is not old enough to qualify for old-age pension they have to turn elsewhere for some support and that is where social assistance is given by the Province of British Columbia and by City and Municipalities.

This assistance is given to anyone eighteen years and up in cases of need and in cases where the person is unemployable and has no means of support.

In such categories a single person can receive seventy-five dollars ($75.00) per month, a married person one hundred and twenty-five dollars ($125.00) per month.

This is given as a result of a means test and the amount can be reduced by the amount of any other income which a person has.

If a person is employable, but temporarily out of work and out of funds temporary assistance is given and it is usually food allowance, sometimes an overage is paid for rent allowance.

Grant Scale Uniform

When one spouse goes on the old-age pension there is a provincial allowance of a reduced amount for the other spouse.

This scale of payment is pretty well uniform throughout the province and with cities and municipalities. Now when we stop to consider where this assistance comes from, the actual answer is—who is responsible for their support—it's you and me brother, we're responsible for their support because the assistance comes from the taxes generally collected and that's what you and I pay.

If I allow my son to use my car and he lends it to his friend without my knowledge, would I be liable to pay damages if that friend caused an accident while operating my car?

MR. MURPHY: Well I hope I can give a popular answer, it seems that all my other colleagues have and I had the opportunity of answering the first question and generally speaking, I gather it was rather unpopular, however, if you loan your car to your son or your daughter, if the son or daughter in turn loans it to someone else and gets into an accident, generally speaking, you are not liable for any damages occasioned by that car and by anyone driving it with his permission.

Implied Consent

Now I say generally because there is a hooker in the section and it refers to a person driving the car with the owner's express consent or implied consent—now if you loan the car to your son and it has become a custom of his to let his girlfriend drive it and you have become aware of that fact and you have condoned it or permitted the situation to go on and then there is the implied consent that the girlfriend can drive it, that is she has your implied permission although you may not have given her the car or any time directly said that she could drive it.

Now if in that situation, the girlfriend happens to be driving the car and gets into an accident, it would be my opinion that you as the owner would be liable. Thank-you.

Are all judges and magistrates former lawyers?

MR. OWEN-FLOOD: All judges are former lawyers and that's to say the judges, the county court, the supreme court, the appellate division of the supreme court of Canada.

In regard to judges of the family court and in regard to magistrates all of them have a legal background.

Many of them are lawyers, but some of them are officials who have acquired their legal background by virtue of working in jobs which are connected with the laws such as the RCMP in the court system and that sort of thing, but they all have a legal background, they all have a knowledge of the law, but the only difference is that in some instances the knowledge of the law has been acquired by virtue of working at law as opposed to not only working at it but having a professional training in it, but they all have legal background and as I say all of the judges are lawyers and some of the magistrates are lawyers. Thank-you.

I received a bill for repairs to my automobile, the bill states that if I don't pay the account in ten days, I will be charged interest at one per cent per month—if I don't pay the account in ten days am I liable for the interest?

MR. SCOTT-HARSTON: Well an awful lot of questions about cars tonight, but then one seems to get an awful lot of bills for one's car and as to interest in general by the old Canonite Church law it used to be considered sinful for a Christian to take any interest at all, and well be that as it may, the English Common Law took a more realistic view, hiked the rate to 10 percent in the reign of Henry the Eighth, cut it back to 5 percent in the reign of Queen Anne and today the Federal Interest Act allows interest rates to prance in toplessness, however, that is mere generalization, our question is specific and it's a good one too because it points to the extraordinarily sloppy state of the law on the subject in B.C.

There's no problem on this question where interest has already been provided or where your debtor simply bows his head and meekly submits, but in the other cases here in B.C. we're thrown back and have to follow the old cobwebby English civil procedure act of 1833 usually called Lord Tenston's Act and this provides that a jury of trial or in effect the court may allow interest credited at a rate not exceeding the current rate of interest and two wings of the act, the first of them we can forget about because it's only applicable where the demand arises under some very solemn document but the one in our question isn't a solemn document, it's a bill and for our purposes the act says this, it says that the jury may make this interest or where there is a definite sum owing and only if a demand in writing the sum in question being made and that's not all it's also got to have a notice that interest is going to be claimed from the date of this demand until the payment and so you see it's only the court that knows in any particular case what the proper rate of interest is going to be it's only the court that the creditor has to satisfy that he has made a proper demand on his debtor.

Well you might think that if the sum notice on the bill saying that if the account isn't paid in ten days surely that's sufficient demand.

As you can see for yourselves one per-cent interest per month isn't at all the same thing as one per cent per annum and I think that is likely to be considered as excessive by the court and I don't think the statement on the bill is a sufficient demand of law to make me liable for interest in this instance had they thrown at me a special separate and gift wrapped amount to pay the definite month per fixed date plus some notice saying on failure to do so I'd have to pay well five per cent per annum or less interest well then I'd think that the court of law would probably award that interest.

Putting Cart Before Horse

But you see for yourselves what a cart or court before the horse this situation involves where only a court can say what rate can be charged and whether there's sufficient demand.

What I like about the question is it spells out the need for some amendment to our B.C. law on the subject but don't blame the Attorney-General's Department they're working overtime to clear up the anomalies in our Act.

Is it the duty of the prosecutor to try to win a conviction in all cases which he prosecutes?

MR. MURPHY: Well if it was his duty I think the D. A. in the Perry Mason show would have been fired about seven years ago.

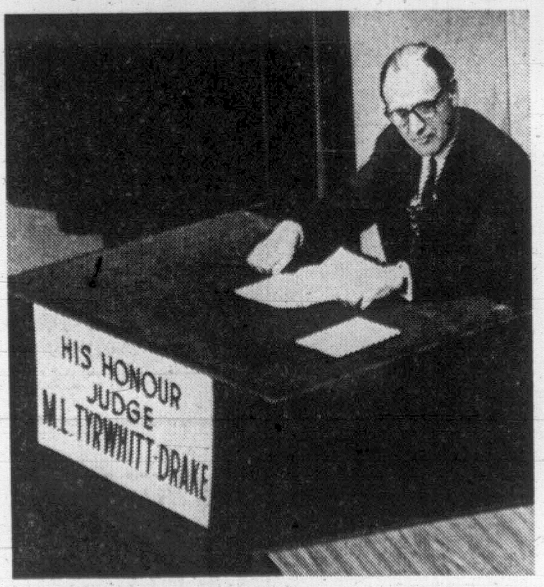
Fortunately here in Canada and the rest of the British Empire and those parts generally speaking that follow British Law that is not so—you may have received a contrary opinion from watching American television shows dealing with prosecutors and attorneys, D.A.'s, I don't really know what the situation is down there but I do believe in certain jurisdictions it is more or less an obligation on a district attorney to obtain convictions perhaps not openly but he is a person who is elected and that makes the big difference because his record as it were goes on the line and people unfortunately will tend to look upon him as a good or bad D.A., I suppose, from the number of convictions he has got to his credit.

In our country in our system a district attorney as such does not exist; we have what is known as a crown attorney and he is appointed sometimes permanently, sometimes only for a short period of time.

He does not owe his appointment to the number of convictions that he gets, but only whether or not he does his job well. I have before me the Criminal Code of Canada—I'd like to read very briefly from one or two cases which can put this matter more specifically and in better words than I can.

One judge states that the position of prosecuting council in a criminal case is not that of an ordinary council in a civil case but that he is acting in a quasi-judicial capacity and ought to regard himself as part of the court that while he was there to conduct his case to do it at his discretion, but with a feeling of responsibility not as if trying to obtain a verdict and this is important but to assist the judge in fairly putting the case before the jury and nothing more and in another case it was stated the counsel for the prosecution ought to regard themselves as ministers of justice and not to struggle for a conviction nor to be betrayed by feelings of professional rivalry to regard the question of an issue as one with professional superiority and a contest for skill and quieminence.

MR. TYRWHITT-DRAKE: That settles that. I must say I was very glad to see this on here, I think too many people get carried away by watching American television and get a very distorted idea of the law from it and also the procedures are entirely different on television and in fact.



HERE COMES THE JUDGE, His Honor Judge M. L. Tyrwhitt-Drake, to submit the next question to the panel. Wide-ranging session was completed in two hours.

On Having Guilty Mind

Suppose this situation exists where a person writes two cheques . . . one to pay a charge account and the other for groceries. He intends to put money in his bank account the next day to cover the cheques but forgets to do so and as a result both cheques bounce. Has he committed a criminal offence?

MR. OWEN-FLOOD: Well I think the answer to that is that on the face of it the fact that the two cheques were issued . . . the fact that they bounced . . . that you had a case to answer. Now if you could show to the court that you genuinely had forgotten . . . that this wasn't just a question . . . that it was absolutely genuine on your part . . . you had forgotten well then of course the court would acquit you because you wouldn't have had the guilty mind and you're only guilty of a criminal offence of this type if you actually have the guilty mind.

But I think you would have to go further than simply say to the court you forgot to put the money in, you'd have to have your testimony corroborated by some evidence to the effect that for instance you had the funds . . . to be able to show that you had the funds available . . . say the money at home and you meant to bring it down to the bank.

If you could support your testimony with some genuine testimony as well as to the effect that you had the funds available well then I think the court would acquit you . . . the court would either accept that you had genuinely forgotten or even if the court had doubts about the matter if your evidence was such that the court would feel . . . well there was a reasonable doubt . . . the court will, of course, give you that reasonable doubt because everyone is presumed innocent until proven guilty and of course the person may only be convicted if and only if the Crown can prove that he was guilty, that he had the guilty mind is one of the essential factors beyond a reasonable doubt.

But I don't think it would be sufficent to simply to testify on oath to the court that well you forgot to put the money in. I think that the accused would have to go further than that and show that he had the money or he had a reasonable expectation of having the money and that there was some reason why he forgot.

But providing that it was genuine that he forgot well then of course he wouldn't have committed a criminal offence because he wouldn't have had a guilty mind. It would have been an accident or an unintentional omission. sion.

How can I evict a tenant who refuses to pay his rent and refuses to leave?

MRS. ISHERWOOD: Well, now we have to get a bit tough. The first step is that you would give the tenant a final notice and there seems to be a little misunderstanding about notices, what notices a person is permitted to give and when and to whom.

I'll deal first of all with the regular one-month notice.

This can be given at any time, at any season, summer, winter, fall.

It can be given to any person young or old or any status. During war time there were provisions by which tenancies were frozen, rents were frozen, and notices couldn't be given at certain times and people still have the lingering idea that some of these regulations apply.

But that's not so . . . so if you don't want the tenant in, you can give him a notice to get out.

You don't have to have any particular reason, you don't have to require the accommodation yourself but you give him the notice and the one thing particularly to remember is that the notice must be directed, that is to say his term must be stated to terminate at the end of the coming month.

One Month's Notice

He must have one clear month and if his rent is due on the first then you would give him his notice before the first or not later than on the first itself directed to the end of that month to come and he would thereby have one clear month.

If his rent was due on the first, you wouldn't give him notice we'll say on the fifth to get out at the end of that month . . . he wouldn't have a clear month's notice and you wouldn't give him notice to get out on the fifth of the coming month because it has to be directed to the end of his regular month.

Well having got to that point you find that the tenant still doesn't want to go maybe he likes the place or he likes you or he doesn't like you and that is why he wants to stay.

So then you go to your lawyer and you tell him what you've done so far, the lawyer examines the notice that you've given and if it is a good one, then he will take further proceedings.

The next step is that he gives this tenant what is called a demand for possession. The demand has to be served on the tenant and the person serving it has to take particular note of the answer that the tenant gives you as you can imagine sometimes there are very colorful answers.

Whatever the answer is it has to be included in a certain affidavit that the landlord then makes and takes to court . . . or his lawyer does . . . with an application to the judge to fix the date and time of hearing at which the landlord would seek an eviction order. Well usually about this time I must say the tenant is getting a bit jittery and he realizes that if he wants to hold out and see the thing all the way through he will accept this notice of hearing . . . he may go to court when the time comes.

But whether he goes to court or not the judge will proceed to hear the matter and if everything is in order will make the eviction order itself.

Next Step: Possession

The next step is that a writ of possession is given to the sheriff and the sheriff is then given the duty of evicting the tenant and giving possession to the landlord.

There's one other thing I should mention, the question did say if the tenant refuses to pay his rent and refuses to leave . . . it is possible to give a tenant who is in arrears with payment of his rent a shorter notice than one month.

He can receive immediate notice to vacate but the notice gives him the right to pay up his rent and stay.

So when you have a situation of this kind you have to sort of size it up and maybe take a bit of a gamble and wonder if the tenant will go whether he'll have the means of finding the rent and paying up whether you'll still be say stuck with the tenant or whether he will leave the same procedure of giving him a demand, there's the application to the registrar of the court, issue of a summons and finally an order of possession is made and the sheriff proceeds to evict the tenant.

But if the tenant does pay up he is permitted to stay.

You therefore have to make your decision beforehand as to whether you want to give a one month's notice and be sure that the tenancy is terminated and the tennant will have to go or whether he will receive this shorter notice with the alternative of paying up. I think that's all I'll say on that one Mr. Moderator.

My wife and I have no children. She made her will leaving everything to me. And I made a will leaving everything to her. If we are both killed at the same time, who gets our estate?

MR. SCOTT-HARSTON: Well the answer to this fly now pay later type of chancery question is that the B.C. Government will grab a good deal of the estates of both yourself and your wife.

Our survivorship and presumption of death act says that where two people die at the same time or even in circumstances making it uncertain which of them survived the other, well then the older of the two is deemed to have died the first.

Well let us suppose that in this case the husband is the eldest and as a result of that statute his estate passes first of all to his wife during that notional split second between their deaths and attracts one lot or duty on the way to her and then because his wife survived him and died immediately afterwards there's another lot of duty to be paid on the wife's death and this time at an even higher rate because it's then imposed upon both their combined estates which because of the state she notionally owned at death.

In such cases and they're called quick succession cases the federal government remits part of its taxes by way of quick succession relief but our B.C. Government does nothing similar to relieve its peoples in remitting any B.C. succession duties which I may say run considerably higher than federal estate taxes.

More Trouble Yet to Come

Nor is the family trouble over at just that.

You see the will hasn't said who is going to get the wife's property if the husband dies first or who is going to act as executor in his place.

So therefore it probably is going to be necessary to incur the expense of applying to the court for an administrator to administer the estate and to put up a bond twice the value of both the combined estates and by the way if the couple had children, the children would each inherit equally but there are no children in this question and so the next of kin at law will take.

And if you subsequently walk past the cemetery please don't do so at night because you'll probably find the husband has risen from his grave on learning that his hard earned earthly assets have passed this way to his wife's family, that is of course if they had no children.

You should have heard some of the things the husband used to say about his mother-in-law.

The type of will that is drawn for the purpose of this question is that much beloved simple will . . . simple because it's short and everyone understands it.

It might equally be called the useless will since it's too inflexible to meet death when death jumps the starter's gun. This will is obviously a home-made one because if any lawyer had drawn it he would have provided for some sort of 14-day qualifying period for the wife to survive to inherit and also for some alternative executor.

Is there any reason why I should retain a lawyer when I intend to plead guilty to a driving offence?

MR. OWEN-FLOOD: Well I think there is a good reason why it's desirable to obtain a lawyer even though it's only a matter of pleading guilty to a driving offence and the reason is that the consequences of pleading guilty even to a driving offence can be quite serious, they can effect one's livelihood.

For instance, one's licence may be suspended and one

. . . LEGAL FORUM

may need one's licence for the purpose of one's work and the court, even if you don't have a lawyer, will do everything possible to protect your rights in regard to your licence but nevertheless the question of one's licence in this day and age is very important and a lawyer as this is his specialty would be more familiar than you as a lay person would be better able to help you than you could help yourself.

Protect Your Licence

In regard to the question in trying to protect your driver's licence in regard to possible suspension or disqualification from driving and for that reason I think that it's always good to retain a lawyer even though you do intend to plead guilty to the driving offence.

Certainly, you should go to see a lawyer and check with him whether or not he considers it necessary for you to be represented even on the guilty plea. It could be that the circumstances are such your lawyer will be able to tell you there is no need to have a lawyer.

It could be that the circumstances are such that the lawyer will tell you that you are under a misapprehension of law and that in actual fact while you thought you were guilty you are legally innocent and it could be that your driving licence could be important and you need to have the best available representation.

So it's better to go to see a lawyer and find out if you need a lawyer first rather than simply handling the thing entirely on your own.

What's the procedure for obtaining an injunction and what is the purpose of an injunction?

MR. MURPHY: Well first thing you do procedure wise is see a lawyer. What is an injunction I think is really the question that should be dealt with first of all and I'll just read a very brief paragraph here.

Mandatory Injunction

"An injunction is a form of traditional relief whereby the court orders a party to proceedings to refrain from doing specified acts which is known as a restrictive injunction or to do certain specified acts, mandatory injunction. Restiction injunctions are the type of things you read about every day, not everyday really, but quite frequently in the newspapers involving labor disputes where the court orders picketers to refrain from picketing basically because they're doing it in violation of the labor relations act.

The other type of injunction is a mandatory injunction where a party is compelled to do something.

For instance, let me put it this way the ordinary judgment in an action is one involving damages if somebody hurts you in a motor vehicle accident the court will award you damages to compensate you for your injury and generally speaking it awards damages in both types of law suits but in certain cases damages wouldn't be sufficient.

Take a simple case, suppose a neighbor insists in parking his truck on your front lawn.

Now to get damages for that sort of thing really wouldn't be of any good to you.

I don't mean one case where he's drunk and has dumped it there the night before but for some perverse reason he insists on leaving it on your front lawn.

Keeping Car Off the Lawn

Well you can go to the court and get a mandatory injunction, that is an order directing him to keep his truck or car off the lawn and if he didn't do it or obey it he would be guilty of contempt of court.

It differs from the ordinary legal remedy of damages in that it orders not the usual substitutional remedy of money payment but the positive redress of proscribed behavior.

The injunction is available to the litigent at the discretion of the court.

It may be granted by way of final settlement of a dispute which is removing that truck or as a temporary measure to prevent the occurrence of further injury until the dispute may be heard in court.

There may be . . . maybe the neighbour claims that he's got some right to leave the truck in the front lawn. He says that front lawn really belongs to me. There's been a mistake in the boundary.

So the court would order a temporary injunction to prevent him from keeping the truck on the front lawn until that issue had been decided.

Then when the issue was decided and it was decided in your favor you being the owner of the front lawn, the injunction would then be made permanent or it may in extreme cases be obtained for a short period speedily and without notice to the opposing party before trial and this is the usual case in the injunction which the labor people complain about because it's the type of injunction that is obtained speedily and before trial and without notice to the other party and it's an extreme type of remedy.

Extreme Type Of Remedy

As far as the other part of the question is concerned about the procedure for obtaining a court injunction you really do have to see a lawyer because it's not an easy matter and it's almost like being asked how do you conduct a law suit—you have to go through a certain rigmarole and appear before the court.

I'll leave it at that. See a lawyer.

What do the initial Q. C. mean and when is a lawyer entitled to use those initials?

MR. SCOTT-HARSTON: It stands for Queen's Counsel and a lawyer is entitled to use those initials after his name if he has been appointed one but he musn't use it outside his strict practice of the law.

Frankly, I think this question is a bit of a thief of our time this evening and no doubt it's given to me on the maxim saying send a thief, catch a thief or something equally sneaky. Anyway, there weren't any before the 17th Century and the next best things were the old sergeants at law.

Francis Bacon in the year 1604 no doubt growing weary of his alleged writing for Shakespeare and also for other reasons which were said to do him no credit prevailed upon Queen Elizabeth to make him the first one and so he outranked the sergeants and so when good Queen Bess died and in those days they got a grant of 40 pounds—$120—unfortunately that's no longer the case.

Other members then got the appointment most of us know as the gowns were then a little bit different made of silk they looked more like a bat in some way and in England the junior council is sometimes referred to as stuffed gownsmen hence the expression of calling the appointment there taking silk.

Causes Far Higher Fee

In England it's rather a precious appointment in some ways because the Q.C. never appears alone in court without a junior and therefor causes a far higher fee for the unfortunate litigant to pay and the Q.C. never demeans himself by drafting documents giving opinions on evidence settling pleadings or appearing in the police court.

Here is Canada things are a little bit more realistic. There are federal Q.C.'s, in B.C. it's a lieutenant-governor in council appointment made after consultation with various officials and probably in all it's supposed to give one a right of precedence in court after the attorney general and all those previously appointed.

But it certainly doesn't give you the right to charge any higher fees unfortunately and most of your friends of the bar will write the appointment off to senility.

Is it permissible for you to cut the branches off your neighbor's tree which overhangs into your yard?

MRS. ISHERWOOD: Now in the garden city of Victoria, isn't that a good question? Well, the answer is that we must consider a man's home his castle and his land as his very private property and subject to taxes and every invasion of that privacy is a trespass, be it ever so minute.

Now following that we have to consider that you cannot permit a tree to grow up and have its branches go over into your neighbor's yard because that interferes with his privacy.

And the neighbor therefore is permitted if he so desires to come along and lop off the branches provided he doesn't go over his own boundary line. So he can trim your tree up to his boundary.

However, the neighbor is not permitted to do this until they grow over his boundary.

Can't Reach And Slash

He can't reach over and lop them off because he thinks they're coming that way.

Another reason why the cutting of branches is permitted in some cases is that it is desirable as a safety measure. There might be danger to life or property and that would demand the cutting of the trees.

Now this right gives rise to another question, Supposing it is an apple tree or a pear tree or a cherry tree. Does that then give you the right to go along and daily pick off the fruit and eat it?

The answer to that question is no.

You see, the tree that grows on your neighbor's property is part of his property and even the branches are and if you cut them off there is even some question that you should really return them to him, pop them over the fence, it's all part of his property.

Therefore, the apples and the cherry trees are his property too and it doesn't give you the right to go along eating them yourself.

But wait until they're ripe and th drop down onto your yard—then, then you've got it.

Can I refuse to allow a policeman to search my car if he doesn't have a search warrant?

MR. OWEN-FLOOD: You can — you can refuse to allow a policeman to search your car if he doesn't have a search warrant unless the police officer when he makes the request for the search indicates that he is acting under one of the statutory exceptions. In common law the police officer has no authority or no right to search your car without your permission but statute law there are certain exceptions to this first and the key exception is the government liquor act, section 105, that, in fact, empowers a police officer who has reasonable grounds to believe there is illegal liquor in your car to make a search and of course if the officer is searching for liquor under that act, you've got to let him make the search.

Police Hunt For Liquor

You cannot refuse to allow him to make the search because under that act he doesn't require a search warrant. It's interesting though in a case where the officer is making a search and under the liquor act looking for illegal liquor and he asked the driver to open the locked glove compartment and the driver said he would not open the locked glove compartment and the driver was subsequently charged with obstructing an officer and he was acquitted.

The courts held that while you've got to allow the officer to make the search you are not forced to obey orders.

That is to say if the officer orders you to open your locked glove compartment if you wish to be unco-operative, and I'm not suggesting that one should, well you are within your rights if you deecline to do so.

Mind you, the officer is also within his rights if he, notwithstanding your refusal to open the locked glove compartment if he takes whatever necessary steps and he finds to open the glove compartment if there turns out to be no illegal liquor in the glove compartment then of course you would get compensation but you would be in a difficult position if there was illegal liquor in the glove compartment.

But basically if the officer is searching under the liquor act he has a right to make a search if he's looking for illegal liquor.

Searching For Drugs

He also has a right to make a search under certain other acts, the Customs and Excise act, if he has reason to believe there is contraband or smuggled goods and likewise under the narcotic controls act.

Certain officers carry around with them, namely members of the RCMP Drug Squad, they carry around with them, writs of assistance and I believe with those they also can make a search without a search warrant.

I understand it is possible to get a divorce after 3 years separation. Is it still necessary to have the other party's consent?

MR. MURPHY: I'm very glad you did because there was a question similar to that . . . you skipped over it . . . and you asked my friend about his Q.C. here . . . I was a little disappointed I might say, but now I've got my chance and I'm not going to muff it.

The basic ground for divorce for many years has been adultery and that still exists in the new divorce legislation which incidentally has not yet been proclaimed and contrary to popular belief it was thought that it would come into effect on May 1 of this year but that is not so.

It may not come in until perhaps June or July or even in the fall, the reason being that certain rules have to be made up in order to deal with this new legislation.

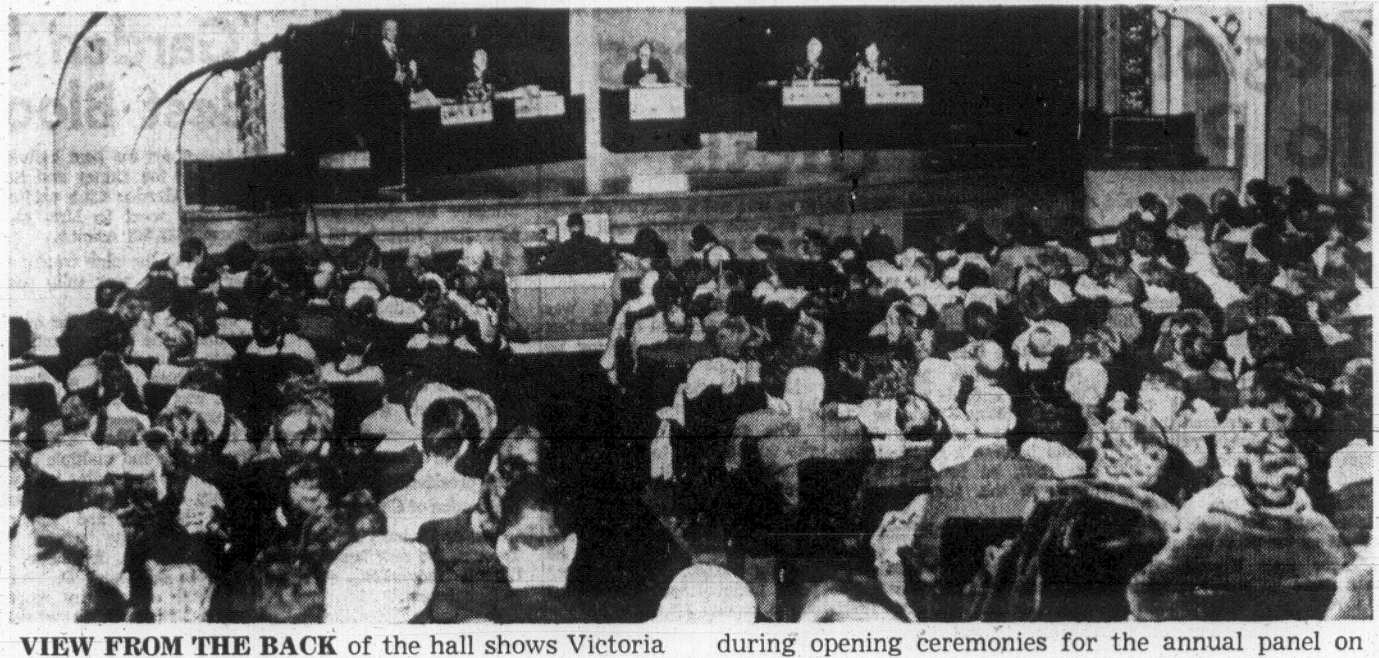
Divorce actions are peculiar onto themselves and in order to present petitions to the court for divorce there must be a certain body of rules.

The whole act changes the divorce cases such as the distinct and direct way that these new rules have to be made up and they're in the process of being done by the judges now and when that has been completed the act will be proclaimed as being in force.

Divorce Laws Change in June

But it will not be until at least June of this year.

In any event the new legislation provides that adultery will be still a ground for divorce amongst other things having gone through a form of marriage with another person and has been guilty of sodomy, beastiality, rape or engaged in the homosexual act. Those were in the existing divorce legislation with the exception of engaging in the homosexual act. There is also a new proviso one where the petitioner has been treated with physical or mental cruelty of such kind as to render empowerable the continued cohabitation of the spouses.



VIEW FROM THE BACK of the hall shows Victoria Times Editor Brian Tobin (standing at microphone) during opening ceremonies for the annual panel on legal problems.

Now formerly that was a ground for judicial separation, that is a separation that the court would decree if one party didn't want to separate from the other the party who wanted to be separated usually the wife could have gone to the court and asked the court to say that you've got to live separate or apart because of these acts of cruelty.

Under this new legislation where you could formerly only get a judicial separation which would not permit you to remarry, you will now be free to remarry because a divorce would be granted.

However, the basic change has occurred in the new concept—concept that the marriage has broken down.

Now you just can't go into court and say that the marriage has broken down.

There are certain grounds that the legislation sets out and when any of these grounds exist the act states that the marriage will be deemed to have broken down and a divorce will then be granted.

Now where the parties are separated (1) where one of the parties has been in prison for his conviction for one or more offences for an aggregate period of not less than 3 years during the 5-year period immediately preceding the presentation of the petition, or he's been in prison for a period for not less than two years where the sentence is one of death or 10 years or more.

It may sound odd that it is a death sentence and that is going to end the matter pretty soon anyway, but as you know the death sentence has been abolished and even where it has not in certain cases it usually could be commuted.

Addicted To Alcohol

Also, if the one party to the marriage for a period of not less than three years immediately preceding the presentation of the petition has been grossly addicted to alcohol or a narcotic as we find in the narcotic control act and there is no foreseeable probability of his rehabilitation this of course is a new ground as the imprisonment sections.

The petitioner for a period of not less than three years immediattly preceding the presentation of the petition has had no knowledge of whereabouts of the respondent and throughout that period has been unable to locate the respondent.

This desertion as you probably know has been referred to as a poor man's divorce—it's rather a cruel type of a situation and it occurs mainly where a man simply gets fed up and leaves home and his wife doesn't know where he is and there are many people in that situation and the wife looks after the children and she stays at home.

She can never remarry, she doesn't know where he is. He might turn up 10 years later and she doesn't know if he is alive or dead. Now if this situation exists and she hasn't been able to locate him for a period of three years she will be able to take proceedings for a divorce.

And where the marriage has not been consumated and the respondent for a period of not less than one year has been unable by reason of illness or disability to consumate the marriage or has refused to consumate it and the one which I think will probably be common to all is the section that says that if you've been living apart for a period of three to five years.

Now let me explain the difference to you.

If you wish to divorce your wife or husband as the case may be and you are the deserter that is you have left the home you've got fed up with it you can bring a petition even though you're the guilty party if you want to use that term . . you are the deserter . . you can bring the petition but it must be only after a period of five years.

The other party, however, the party who has been deserted may bring that petition at the end of three years.

That's the only difference. I hope I've explained the difference to you.

If you are the one who has left the home you can bring the petition if you've left for a period of 5 years or more.

Now this will be retroactive, it will not start when the act comes into force. In other words if you've been living apart from your spouses for a period of five years say when the act comes into force you will immediately be able to take proceedings.

The foregoing grounds which I've just mentioned to you the court will deem that the marriage has in fact broken down and will order a decrees of divorce to be pronounced.

Can a landlord enter a tenant's suite in his absence without permission.

MRS. ISHERWOOD: In every lease whether it is written or verbal there is an implied covenant for something called quiet enjoyment.

Now when we all went to law school the professors confused us completely by explaining that it had nothing to do with quiet and nothing to do with enjoyment.

So we went on from there and discovered that it really referred to uninterrupted use.

Quiet Use Of Suite

Therefore, in every lease, written or verbal, the landlord covenants that the tenant may use the premises free from interference by the landlord and the tenant covenants that he will treat the premises in what is called a tenant-like manner. However, interference by the landlord does not mean that he is prevented ever from going into the tenant's suite. Whether he has permission or not. We must first realize that the landlord owns the property. He has a personal interest in it, he has a monetary interest in it and he is very concerned to keep it in good repair, to keep it safe, free from danger of hazard and therefore he has certain rights to go into certain parts of his property.

So the answer would be that the landlord does have, the right to go into the suite of the tenant without permission if necessary but at reasonable times and for certain reasons.

A main one is to repair. In the written lease, there is a provision that says the lessor may enter and view the state of repair.

This means that is lawful for the lessor, who, by the way is the landlord or his agents, at all reasonable times during the term of the lease to enter the presmises to examine the condition thereof and to repair where necessary.

A landlord, too, may go into the premises to inspect for danger or hazard and this is a protection both for the tenant as well as the landlord. He would also have a right to inspect the premises perhaps for insurance purposes. He owns the building, he may also own the furniture and it is necessary to insure both of those.

Time for Examination

Then there is another reason why a landlord is permitted to enter.

A tenant may fail to pay his rent, and then there is a proceeding known as distress proceeding. This means seizure of furniture where furniture belongs to the tenant and for that purpose a landlord and his agent is permitted to enter the tenant's suite to seize the furniture.

This is where the tough part comes in again. There is a provision for this in that the landlord may not break into the premises but usually the landlord has a key anyways and he can unlock the door and go again or if for example there is a window open he can push up the window and go in.

Another reason is that the tenancy may come to an end and may terminate and the tenant may fail to move and again the landlord is permitted to go in and his agent for purposes of eviction.

So in summary Mr. Moderator the answer is yes.

If a loan is taken out while a husband and wife are living together and they both sign the security document and then there's a separation and the husband refuses to pay, now what is the liability of the wife?

MR. OWEN-FLOOD: I'm afraid that the wife is liable if she did sign the note before the separation to pay for the debt, though of course in the event that she had to pay, everything that she did have to pay she would be able to claim from her husband. If it were necessaries something like medical treatment for the wife or for clothes if the debt was incurred for something like this which was essential and the wife had signed for the security along with her husband and the wife after the separation had been forced to pay all of the debt because say the wife was the only person who had any property and the husband had nothing then the wife as I say would have to pay it and if later on her husband did get property the wife would be able to claim from her husband the amount that she had paid.

If on the other hand the debt was one that was incurred for luxury then the wife would only be able to recover from her husband the half that she had paid. All that of course is based on the presumption that the husband hasn't paid anything at all.

If husband and wife have a joint bank account, is the entire amount of the account frozen if one of them dies and if so for how long?

MR. SCOTT-HARSTON: Yes it's frozen for the time being but I think that after about a week's time and a telephone call to the department will probably unfreeze it. I don't think I need add anything further to that.

What is the difference between an agreement for sale and a mortgage?

MRS. ISHERWOOD: An agreement for sale is a document entered into for sale of land by a registered owner of property to a purchaser as a result of which the title itself does not change.

The registered owner remains the same the title remains the same but on the back of the title is endorsed a registration to state that the purchaser is buying on terms.

This constitutes a charge on the title but the actual title remains in the name of the registered owner

Closure Procedure

Property purchased on terms, procedure for closure in the event of default of payment is carried out pursuant to the terms of the agreement and is permitted within a shorter period than that permitted under a mortgage, a three-month redemption period and a 6-month redemption period under amortgage.

Referring to the mortgage itself, this is a document to secure a loan, repayment of money.

The mortgage is given by a person having a registered interest in the property, it may be the registered owner or it may be another person having some interest in the property and the mortgage is registered against the title and no actual change of ownership of title results, the mortgage, too, is registered as a charge on the back of the title, it sets out the terms of payment and provision for closure in the event of default.

What do you know about probate fees? Could you say whether or not they are a set price or based on the value of the estate.

MR. SCOTT-HARSTON: You will get the length of answer that question deserves — it's based on the size of the estate.

Has a marriage contract acquired in the province of Quebec any legal status in B.C.?

MR. MURPHY: That's an interesting point. As you know there is a civil law in Quebec. If you want to settle property, that is, community of property, if you want to keep what you own before you get married you've got to have an agreement.

Well a short answer is as a matter of fact is that the marriage contract made in Quebec, if the parties are married in Quebec, then the contract isn't forceable there or anywhere else for that matter.

I think that's probably correct. It would probably go with the marriage as part of it. Has anybody else got any ideas on that point? I mean a Mexican marriage contract or any other would have the same effect wouldn't it?

MR. OWEN-FLOOD: I'm afraid in Ireland we're too wise to have marriage contracts.

What is the power of attorney and when can it be used?

MR. SCOTT-HARSTON: Thank heavens somebody has asked that one because there has been more trouble around the law offices in Victoria for the last year or two because people come into the office and say that their mother or their husband or their wife is ill and would you please draw a power of attorney so that they can carry on.

Well, the thinking behind that is quite orderly and quite logical but first of all what is a power of attorney — it's simply a document a formal document in deed form that is a one-party document enabling somebody else to represent you or act in your stead.

And the person who gives it he is called the donor or constituent and the person who does the representing is called the attorney in fact and the reason that it is generally given is either you're going out of town for a month or two and someone's got to fill in those wretched forms the companies send or something else has to be done or else you've got an attack of lumbago and you can't get downtown and somebody has to do something about it.

Now let me add a word of caution about the type of illness.

If mental illness intervenes, then there's trouble brewing.

Because a power of attorney is just like any other agency contract — it is revoked by the unsoundness of mind of the person who gives it or his death.

Not Black And White

Now this question of unsoundness of mind is not a question of something that is black or white, it's grey.

If the person who is mentally ill is sufficiently alert to know that what he's done is given the power of attorney to carry on his affairs well then it's valid.

But if he's completely let's use the same word again senile well then it's no good at all.

There's a lot of confusion, it's no magic wand and if the person is mentally incapacitated — more and more of us are going that way — I'm not speaking for myself, if this actually happens well then the proper course is you apply to the court under the patients estate act for the appointment of a thing called a commity who either looks after the person's affairs or their person or both or either.

Now just one final word of warning if a wife is dealing with a husband's affairs and he isn't capable mentally of seeing to his own affairs on no account should the wife pay the husband's bills from point of view of death taxes because they will not be allowed they are not an enforceable debt against the husband's estate and if the wife has a lot of money. Lawyer's fees may be one thing but nurses' fees run the clock 24 hours a day. They should be very very careful about paying those bills without having had some agreement.

What is the difference between a joint ownership and ownership in common and which would you think is preferable?

Well the basic difference of course is that in the question of joint ownership as opposed to ownership in common in joint ownership the survivor has the right of survivorship that is to say the survivor gets everything whereas this doesn't apply in ownership in common.

Basically if one is younger than one wife I think that joint ownership is a very good idea and it's basically a good idea for married couples.

The ownership in common on the other hand is the obvious thing to do if one is some business venture and one doesn't wish for some reason or another to form a limited company say for tax reasons to get depreciation one is better off I understand with the ownership in common cause there is not right of survivorship.

Survivorship is the basic thing and that is why so many married couples have their houses in joint ownership as opposed to ownership in common.

If children are left money in a will, can they draw or borrow on it before they are 21? or at all perhaps should we say?

MRS. ISHERWOOD: If children are left money in a will the usual procedure is that the money may be paid into court on their behalf or it may be retained by the executor and administered and the will may obtain a provision that the funds may be used for the care maintenance and education of the children.

If that is the case, funds may be used for the care maintenance and education of the children.

If that is the case, funds will be available as the child is growing for those purposes.

Executors In Charge

Usually, it isn't a case of the child drawing on it or the child making the decision but the person having charge of the administration of the estate makes the decisions and discretion is usually so given in the will to the executors and trustees.

If money is paid into court an application can be made for payment out of court of part of the money as it is required. It is for the essential purposes, care, maintenance, education medical purposes or other emergency.

To what extent is a householder liable if a guest has an accident in the home?

MR. MURPHY: What kind of an accident?

Let's say he falls down the basement stairs.

MR. MURPHY: Well that involves a field of law that I'm sure I could cover in the next three hours.

Generally speaking your duty to the guest is to look out for his safety not set a trap for him. Actually people in houses and business establishments fall into 3 different categories, there's a trespasser and strangely enough you do owe a certain duty to a trespasser but it's not a high form of duty. In other words you can't set a bear trap to catch him.

If the person is what's known as an invitee that is if he comes to you the highest duty is owed to that person and you are responsible for his safety.

I think that's about the only way the question can be answered because there are many many law suits on it and many many fine distinctions as to the category that the visitor has as to whether he is termed as an invitee he is the person you owe the highest duty to, to look out generally speaking for his safety and to warn him for any danger that may exist.

Prevention Is the Key

And there's a lower category the licensee I won't go into what the distinctions are because it would take too long but you do owe a duty to that licensee too but I think you can generally take it that if a guest has an accident in your home and it's the result of something that you could have foreseen or prevented that you would be liable.

Can a beneficiary request a statement of expenses from executors in the course of settling an estate?

MR. SCOTT-HARSTON: Yes he can it is the duty of the executor to be ready with his accounts at all times and certainly such a statment can be requested.

MODERATOR: Thank you very much. I think we have now reached the end of the forum.

Region Board Agrees To Purchase Thetis

The Regional District Board agreed Wednesday to purchase Thetis Lake Park from Victoria for $100,000.

The sale will be contingent on agreement to sell by the full Victoria city council.

Mayor Hugh Stephen made the park offer to the board on the instructions of his parks committee but stressed that the matter still required ratification from council before the sale could be completed.

There were two dissenting voices and votes during the debate on the proposed sale.

Mayor Ray Bryant, Esquimalt, said he was not against the regional district acquiring the park but added that he questioned the timing.

He noted that the regional district's parks acquisition program was geared to purchase new land for parks, not to purchasing existing parkland.

PURCHASE ILLEGAL?

North Saanich Mayor Jim Cumming agreed with Mayor Bryant stating that he too agreed that eventually Thetis should become a regional property. but, he insisted, a purchase at this time would be illegal.

Mayor Stephen said that while he doubted if any city council would ever advocate subdividing the Thetis property, it ha dto be born in mind that the Thetis area was not a designated park.

The sale of Thetis will mark the third major city-owned park transfered to other jurisdictions in the past year.

Elk-Beaver Lake park was sold to the regional district last year with Saanich picking up the maintenance tab.

Mount Douglas Park will soon be transferred to Saanich for $1.

With the sale of Thetis the city has agreed to continue to maintain the park for the next three years and to carry out a capital improvement program.

The cost of construction and maintenance this year will be pushing $40,000. In subsequent years maintenance will average out to around $15,000.

GRITS NAME CAMPAIGN CO-CHAIRMEN

OTTAWA (CP) — Manpower Minister Marchand and Senator John Nichol will be co-chairmen of the Liberal election campaign, a spokesman for Prime Minister Trudeau said today.

Mr. Marchand has been Mr. Trudeau's closest associate in the cabinet and Senator Nichol, a 43-year-old businessman from Vancouver, is former president of the Liberal Federation of Canada.

Senator Richard Stanbury of Toronto, the new head of the Liberal federation, will be vice-chairman.

'Garden Party' Wins Best Bloom Award

Award for the best individual bloom at the Sidney and North Saanich Garden Club exhibition Saturday went to Mrs. C. H. Orme, 9632 5th Avenue.

She won the club trophy with her entry—a pink tulip named Garden Party.

She also received the cup for obtaining the highest number of points in the tulip section.

The show, held at Sanscha Hall, was attended by about 500 people.

Entries totaling 350 ranged from single and multiple blooms of daffodils and tulips to a wide variety of floral arrangements.

The Mitchell and Anderson grand aggregate trophy was won by Mrs. R. J. McCae. She also won the Daisy D. Swayne Memorial and Kirby trophies for the highest number of points in other sections.

Other award winners included Mr. J. Barker, C. Estelle White Memorial trophy for points obtained in decorative floral arrangements; Mrs. J. P. Mickelson, Margaret Watts trophy for highest points obtained in decorative variety arrangements; Mrs. J. Young, J. A. Munn Memorial trophy for entries of primroses and polyanthus.

In the children's section, seven years and under, Bobby Mickelson won the club trophy for the highest points in his class, while the Peck award went to Kristine Fido for highest number of points in the eight to 12 year group.

Kristine Owen won the club trophy for her arrangementss of flowers in the junior section.

Victoria Daily Times
VICTORIA, B.C., THURSDAY, APRIL 25, 1968—PAGE 25

Arthur Mayse

Like many another Victorian, I have been waiting impatiently for a chance to help Montrealers avoid the cruel tax hike with which they are threatened. But to the best of my knowledge, the two-buck subscriptions to Montreal Mayor Jean Drapeau's non-lottery haven't yet reached our city.

Earlier this month, a spokesman for his bouncing worship announced that "application" forms were being mailed out in bundles to banks across Canada. But a Wednesday check of local main offices proved disappointing.

The Bank of Montreal seemed a logical place to start. There, I was referred to the officer in charge of foreign currency, who assured me that no non-lottery tickets had been received.

The Royal Bank of Canada had no tickets either, and held strong doubts that it would peddle the Drapeau tokens in any case. As for the Bank of Commerce and the Bank of Nova Scotia, they knew only what they'd read in the newspapers.

The Toronto-Dominion was in the same boat, but added that any decision on the matter would come from its head office. If they did undertake anything of the sort, the fact would certainly be advertised.

This is all very discouraging, but with a chance at instant riches—a possible $100,000 for a $2 investment—Canadians won't be baulked. Any day now, I expect to hear a gruff whisper in my ear: "What'll you have, the Irish or the Montreal?"

★

There is a limit to the amount of political snap, crackle and pop I can absorb in any year, and once the June 25 election is safely put to bed, I hope most heartily that Ottawa will settle down to calm, concentrated and productive work.

It was, I suppose, essential that an election be held. We have two untried and opposing party leaders, and until they have led their people into combat at the polls, the pecking order of Parliament will not be satisfactorily established.

I like Mr. Stanfield of the Conservatives. He is cool, shrewd, and gifted with the dry Bluenose humor that can be matched only in the New England that is so close in spirit to Nova Scotia.

But the high excitement, the hope of a new and effective approach to the problem of our national split identity, continues to ride with Mr. Trudeau, and I expect he will be returned as prime minister with a majority government.

In what strikes me as essentially a battle of images, I think his chances of achieving this result are better than good. I look for the non-crystallized voter who is neither dyed-in-the-wool Liberal or firm Conservative to give Mr. Trudeau his majority.

Tragedy overtakes wild creatures as well as humans, and on the cove shingle a few days ago, we came on the remains of a duck that had pretty obviously furnished a meal for some night marauder.

Next day, walking the beach, we noticed a hen mallard swimming only a yard or so from shore in the shadow of a rock point. When we came near, she paddled out a few feet, but made no attempt to join the flock of freshwater ducks that put in several weeks ago.

Later, looking back from our beach stairs, we saw that the mallard had returned to her spot in the lee of the point.

She was there the next day, and the next, after that, and when we went down early Wednesday morning, she was still on station.

Waiting for a mate that won't return? Perhaps. We only know that we'll be glad to come down some morning and find that corner empty.

Dots Pinpoint Scope of Health Menace

COMMUNITY DISGRACE in eyes of many health officials is the fact that Victoria in recent months has experienced outbreak of hepatitis which appears most dense in vicinity of beautiful but polluted inland waterway, the Gorge. Royal Jubilee pathologist, Dr. Kenneth Thornton recently said water-born human wastes in Gorge leave city "sitting on the edge of a volcano." Dots on map (compiled by Metropolitan Health officer Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread) indicate location of 246 cases within past year. There were 276 cases in 1967, double the number recorded in Toronto, Winnipeg or Vancouver despite our better water supply and stricter sanitation controls in restaurants. Dr. Whitbread has urged community support to regional sewer program to wipe out the disease. Entire Gorge, once a city playground, is now closed to swimming. Fever, loss of appetite, nausea and abdominal discomfort are early symptoms, often followed by jaundice. Infection may last several weeks and is passed from person to person. Severe and fatal cases can ensue from liver damage. Although most new cases are recorded in warmer months, there were 113 in the first quarter of 1968. Gorge beaches are being posted with no-swimming signs.

Big Job At Sooke Dam Site

$1.5 Million Project To Increase Storage Pond

Work will commence this year on a $1.5 million dam for the head of Sooke Lake.

The Greater Victoria Water District Board this morning agreed to approve preliminary work on the raising of the existing dam by 22 feet.

Major excavating and construction will start in 1969 with the work scheduled for completion in late 1970 or early 1971.

By raising the height of the dam the water storage area will be increaser to hold 11.4 billion gallons, enough to serve a population of 330,000, the area's estimated population by the year 2001.

Ker, Priestman and Graeme will be in charge of the preliminary work and of the dam design.

In addition to raising the height of the dam the water district will also undertake a major road location project.

Chief water commissioner Ron Upward told the board that a provincial road located on the east side of Sooke Lake would have to be re-built to present standards above the new water level.

Estimated cost of the road project is between $75,000 and $125,000.

Mr. Upward said he had asked the provincial government to consider abandoning the road to save the cost but that to date he had met with a negative response.

Mayor Hugh Curtis suggested that board chairman Mayor Hugh Stephen also make representation to the provincial authorities.

Grits to Rule On Nomination Of Taximan

The nomination Monday of city taxi operator James Gorst as Liberal candidate for Esquimalt-Saanich has been formally protested.

A provincial executive committee of the party will rule tonight upon whether his nomination will be declared null and void.

The move was announced this morning by Liberal provincial president Lawrence Jolivet of Vancouver in a Times interview.

He said the formal appeal against Mr. Gorst's nomination was "signed by more than one person." He has also received more than a dozen telephone calls and seven letters protesting Mr. Gorst's candidacy.

MAY BE VOIDED

The probability that the nomination might be voided was voiced here Tuesday by Kenneth Cox, local area director and provincial executive member, following a stormy nominating convention at St. Christopher's Church hall.

Mr. Gorst, as constituency president had called the nominating convention, acted as meeting chairman and vote counter, and was the only nominee by the local executive. There were no nominations from the floor.

He had called the convention March 26, the local constitution requiring only 21 days advance notice. Several persons present noted that the provincial constitution calls for 60 days notice.

In the ensuing uproar about half of the 110 persons present stalked from the meeting, some of them turning in their membership cards first.

'OTHERS IGNORED RULE'

Mr. Gorst had set the meeting in defiance of a request for delay from Mr. Jolivet and had argued that several other constituencies had ignored the 60-day provincial rule.

Mr. Gorst, who came third in the 1965 federal election race in the same riding, said this morning he will go to Vancouver to attend the executive committee meeting tonight.

PUBLICITY SCHEME CHARGED

Victoria city health inspector Lloyd Smith is continuing his anti-pollution fight with the Greater Victoria Metropolitan Board of Health.

In a press release this morning Mr. Smith says he has examined several local beaches in recent days and discovered unmistakable evidence of sewage on Fleming, Foul Bay, Shoal Bay, Willows and Cadboro Bay beaches.

"There is no visible evidence of sewage in the Gorge at Kinsmen Park or near the Trans-Canada Highway," Mr. Smith stated.

'NOT PLACARDED'

He claimed that the beaches without visible signs of sewage were placarded as unfit for swimming while the beaches he listed were not placarded.

"I have written to the minister of health charging discrimination in the administration of health services in Greater Victoria," the statement read. "And I have written to the city manager asking for an interview to discuss severing my connection with the health department.

"I have no wish to be associated with a health department that has strayed so far from its scientific base."

Mr. Smith said that in his opinion the association of last year's outbreak of hepatitis with the Gorge, the flood of anti-Gorge publicity and "discriminatory" placarding were nothing more than a publicity scheme.

PAID B YCITY

Mr. Smith is a city employee, paid by the city but under the jurisdiction of senior health officer Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread.

Six months ago at a close-door session the health board voted unanimously to request the city to dismiss Mr. Smith from his post.

To date the city has not acted on the recommendation.

Old French Coin, Silver Dollars Taken From Home

A nineteenth century French 20 franc piece was taken by thieves who broke into a Rockland Avenue home Wednesday night.

The 1858 Napoleon III coin, now valued at $50, was among loot taken from the home of John Urbin, 1018 Rockland.

Police said the culprits, who entered through a side window, also took 35 silver dollars, $100 in smaller coins, two cameras and an electric razor.

Saanichton Remembers Race Days

There will be a historical note in the thunder of horses' hooves during the feature race at Sandown track Friday.

Sponsor will be the North and South Saanich Agricultural Society and it will be known as the Saanichton Fair Centennial Race.

The society will thus mark not only its 100th year of operating the Saanichton Fair but pay tribute to the role it has had in local racing, vice-president Doug McHattie said today.

●

For it was the Saanichton Fair which had the first race track on the Saanich Peninsula just after the turn of the century.

Records show that the contract to build the track was let to a "Mr. Thompson" and the necessary money was borrowed at 1 per cent interest.

The fair's race program was discontinued on a sour note in 1913. It seems that disputes between Indian and white riders became so frequent it was decided to call a halt to the races.

●

Mr. McHattie said the agricultural society is also sponsoring a mural competition in junior high schools on the Saanich Peninsula to mark the fair's centennial.

The murals will depict the fair's history and agricultural progress on the peninsula over the past century.

A winner will be picked in June and it will hang as a permanent exhibit in the main hall of the fair grounds at Saanichton.

General Rate Up Two Mills In Esquimalt

Taxes in Esquimalt will increase $2 to $7 this year on better-class homes and will drop $4 on the average family residence.

Mayor Ray Bryant said this morning that his council had struck the final general mill rate at 30.6 mills, an increase of two mills over the rate last year.

In Esquimalt the mill is valued at $24,000 for budget purposes.

"We are very pleased with our efforts to hold costs in line while maintaining an outstanding level of services," Mayor Bryant said. "The two mill increase will mean that the owner of a $22,000 home will be paying about $7 more in taxes, the owner of a $15,000 home some $2 more while the owner of an $8,500 home will actually pay four dollars less than last year."

Some of the highlights of the 1968 budget are a boulevard improvement and tree planting program for $$66,000 and parks and playground development and maintenance, $63,000.

PAY INCREASED

Also included in the budget are pay boosts for the mayor and aldermen.

Mayor Bryant gets a $600 a year increase from $3,600 to $4,200 while the aldermen jump from $1,200 to $1,500 a year.

The mayor said he was particularly pleased that in a year where some 80 per cent of the budget costs were already fixed taxes would reflect such a low increase.

"Increse in wages as a result of new collective agreements amounted to $54,000," the mayor noted. "That in itself is in excess of the two mill increase amounting to $48,000."

CLINIC GETS 'FOLDING MONEY'

A Victoria social club fading out of existence turned over a bank balance of about $5,000 to the Handicapped Children's Clinic campaign fund today.

A campaign official said the Mount Tolmie Social Club, active for many years, was depleted in membership, and it had been decided to disband.

Remaining members agreed to leave what money they had left to the clinic, he said.

The donation will bring the building fund to about $145,000. Campaigners are hoping to raise $250,000.

Armed Forces Open Doors On June 1

The armed forces will go public for a day June 1.

West coast military authorities have planned an airshow and displays for Armed Forces Day, to be held at Patricia Bay airport.

The day's activities at VU-33, the navy air squadron, will begin in the afternoon after the official opening by Rear-Admiral John Charles, Commander, Maritime Forces Pacific.

Events ranging from the airshow and rides in armored personnel carriers to static displays to emphasize assorted training commitments of the forces will be set up, a spokesman said.

The military set this one day a year open house to the public in 1965 to familiarize anyone who is interested with the roles and missions of the armed forces.

Last year, more than 10,000 persons took advantage of the day in the Victoria area.

ENVOY SEES BENNETT

'Czech Upheaval May Spur Trade'

By BRUCE YEMEN

By BRUCE YEMEN

A Czechoslovakian effort to join the British Columbia mining boom in a big way will be aided by "far-reaching" political changes at home, Ambassador Miroslav Zemla said here today.

Dr. Zemla and his trade commissioner, Vladimir Matecka, were to meet Premier W. A. C. Bennett and industry department officials today in a bid to pave the way for Czech-Canadian partnership in mine development.

Dr. Zemla said his country would like to provide machinery and technical aid in B.C. mine exploration and would offer an excellent market for base metals such as copper, metal, zinc and molybdenum. (See story Page 9).

But Czechs sympathize with Canada's need and desire for a more diversified economy and would be glad to trade in a wide range of products, he added.

FAST-GROWING MARKET

A B.C. trade mission — in fact, any B.C. citizen — would be welcomed in Czechoslovakia, the 42-year-old ambassador said, pointing out that Canada does not have a trade commissioner there.

Mr. Matecka, who works out of Montreal, said he has a staff of six to boost Czech exports to Canada, which could do more than it has to penetrate the fast-growing Czech market.

The ambassador said there has been a lot of Canadian interest in recent Czech political changes which he termed "far-reaching."

'FULL DEMOCRACY'

The fall from power of the old leadership does not alter the basic socialist society but it is an attempt" to combine socialism with full democracy," a situation unparalleled in any other East European country, Dr. Zemla said.

"We hope it will be possible to succeed," he said, expressing approval of "very important measures" to guarantee freedom of the individual.

He said the measures included the lifting of press, radio and TV censorship, guarantees of freedom of assembly, religious belief and the right to leave the country and return later without being branded as a political emigre.

At various times all societies reach critical moments when reforms must be made, the ambassador said.

The coming to power of Prime Minister Trudeau and the change in Conservative party leadership demonstrate that Canada has also faced a similar moment, Dr. Zemla said.

NEVER AN OPPOSITION

But while Czech reforms are profound and of possible major influence on other East European nations in the future, Dr. Zemla cautioned against blurring the distinctions between the Canadian and the Czech political systems.

"We shall probably not have what you call Her Majesty's Loyal Opposition," he smiled.

The Czech society is socialistic and classless while the capitalist society retains the conflict of the classes, he said.

One of the major economic effects of the political change in Czechoslovakia should be the full implementation of the efficiency-geared economic reforms that were conceived several years ago but not introduced fast enough to satisfy many Czechs, he said.

The modified acceptance of the profit motive plus the access of Czech industry to foreign capital should increase both efficiency and international trade links, he said.

Czech exports to Canada were about $28 million last year while Canada sent $21 million in products ($8 million in wheat) there, Mr. Matecka said.

About $1.6 million of that trade went through B.C. ports, he said, indicating the figure could be much increased in the future.

The two were "very encouraged" about talks they had with Prairie premiers and trade officials.

Dr. Zemla spoke openly on the political struggle at home, calling it "a very serious and open struggle of minds."

He said the political result of that struggle is properly described as an experiment but "very probably" it would be emulated in time by other Communist European nations.

Ask The Times

Q. Please tell me how to apply for a grant from the Canada Council and are there similar organizations? C.F.

A. The council is a government-sponsored organization, the only one of its kind in Canada, set up in 1957 by act of Parliament with 19 members, a chairman and vice-chairman to dole out grants in support of the arts, humanities and social sciences. Members meet about three times a year to disburse grants from two $50 million funds, one for private grants, the other for universities. The money came from a surplus in the St. Laurent budget of 1956-57, from succession duties on the estates of financier I. W. Killam and steel magnate Sir James Dunn. Ten types of scholarship are awarded, nine competitively. Apply to Secretary, Canada Council, 140 Wellington Street, Ottawa.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

DAYLIGHT SAVING TIME STARTS SUNDAY

You Lose An Hour of Shut-Eye

Pursuant to the act, it shall be reckoned that Saturday will be a shorter night than usual.

That's a loose translation of the order-in-council approved last January 15 stipulating that by order of the cabinet, Daylight Saving Time begins at 2 a.m. Sunday.

King Canute may not have rolled back the sea, but modern government has more power over these things.

Provincial Secretary W. D. Black signed the order and accordingly on Saturday night before going beddy-bye we'll all be climbing on chairs to reach clocks.

Then everyone pauses, teeters and shouts to the rest of the family, "Do I set the hands ahead or back?" And then the fight starts.

Clip this out. The rule is move them ahead an hour. If you turn in at midnight make the clock read 1 a.m.

That's when we all realize we're going to be an hour short of sack time.

Please don't phone Mr. Black. He's probably teetering on a chair too.

Early-Bird Tourists Find Novel Souvenirs

By Penny Saver

"I miss hearing the patter of their little feet," my mother said just a few days ago. I just couldn't manage to be so lyrical about my smallest nephew and niece, Jody and Judy, who had been visiting Victoria with their mother during the Easter break. They are twins—just six—and as cute as two bugs' ears. Before the week was out I wished they were as invisible. Because of their tender age, general appeal and the fact that none of us had seen them before, they were spoiled the whole time they were here. The Easter bunny left them goodies at every house they visited and my fridge was filled with chocolate for days. I don't know how it all stood the trip back! And, of course, the house was overcrowded. Mother, however, from her quiet apartment loved every minute of their visit.

The twins live in a big eastern American city and mother decided to send them a gift that was quite Canadian. Since they are starting school next fall, and are now going to kindergarten, she decided on bright felt book-bags. These bags come in several colors, each bearing an applique pattern of a mountie, Eskimo or Indian. Each has a pencil slipped somewhere in the scene, while a tiny Canadian maple leaf hides in a corner. Costing $2.25 apiece, these tote-bags are flat with a single loop handle. Mother slipped a coloring book in each as well as a bright felt bookmark. The bookmarks are 49 cents each. For Judy she chose one with a face with rhinestone eyes, while Jody will receive one with a green bookworm lying across a book. A bookmark showing an open book with glasses across it, is also available. These are finished on the bottom with a fringe.

Dolls to Delight a Child's Heart

Another American, a friend of mine from way back, has come up here early to avoid the rush. She was quite pleased to find that even this early in the season she could buy an extra special souvenir gift for a child of her acquaintance. It is a doll dressed as an Eskimo in real fur and real leather clothing. This doll is made of plastic with a fringe of jet-black hair. He stands just under a foot in height and comes in a plastic-topped box that can double for a display box. Made by Canadian Indians, these dolls are $10.95 each. My friend chose a doll dressed in white, brown and grey-tipped fur on a brown leather suit that is complete with hooded coat and leggings. The dolls are also dressed in basic black and white fur over brown. There is so much fur that the leather barely shows! They make lovely gifts.

A lucky tom-tom charm is a dandy idea both for tourists and for residents with a sense of fun. Each gaily decorated drum is attached to a mailing tag and can be mailed as is, in place of a dull, dreary postcard. A little verse explains about the luck. The ends are covered in rubber and something inside makes the drum rattle when it is moved.

Please call me at 382-3131 if you would like to know where these early-bird souvenirs are found.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Does Your Waist Need a Summer Slimming Too?

As those of you who have been following my column this week know, I am bringing you a quick Spring Makeover to help you get ready, in short order, for swim suits and summer clothes.

Lowman

This week I am teaching you five exercises which are corrective to the most prevalent feminine figure faults. You will not be laboring with a long exercise program, but a short one, which matches the short but effective reducing diet I will bring you next week.

I have already given you an exercise for flabby thighs and arms, and one for abdominal reduction. Now we come to that very important measurement, the waist.

Poor posture and lax muscles can add inches to your waistline, just as a few extra pounds can. If your waist is slim your hips can be a little larger than ideal and your figure will still appear youthful and lovely.

Give your waist a treat with this treatment. Stand tall with your feet separated. Raise both arms overhead and clasp your hands, elbows straight. Keep the arms in this position as you make large circles with your torso. Circle first in one direction and then in the other.

Now keep the arms straight as you bend to the right as far as you can. Raise your trunk and bend to the left until you feel the pull. Continue slowly, alternating.

If you have only a very little time to spend on exercise you might like to have my "Isometric Exercises for Women." These do not take the place of the other kind but are effective in firming and reducing. Send 20 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for that booklet to Josephine Lowman care of this newspaper.

Introducing Entrance Floor Polish
Quite modestly, it's the best, clear, self-polishing, detergent-resistant floor wax—bar none!
How do we know? It took 2 million steps to prove it. People stepped on it in high heels, low heels, brogues and workboots . . . still Entrance kept its shine, resisted scuffing and marking. We tested Entrance Floor Polish commercially for one year before offering it to you. We proved it on office floors, lobbies and entrances to hardheaded businessmen. It was a tough test but Entrance came through looking great. One coat will give a higher gloss to your floor than any other wax and for better protection you can apply additional coats immediately. Entrance costs a little more than ordinary floor polishes but you'll use less of it, less often.
Next time you buy floor wax, make it Entrance. It's a better floor polish than any you've used before . . . bar none!
So, make your first step onto Entrance.

TWO EFFECTIVE ARGUMENTS FOR KEEPING IN TRIM

Jackie Fayad, wearing an appealing tennis dress, and Penny Moyes, in a trim swim suit, show two of the outfits that will be featured when Eaton's presents two fashion shows at the Victoria Racquet Club next Tuesday and Wednesday from 2 to 4 p.m. The shows will be sponsored by the Racquettes. Obviously approving this coming summer's styles are co-conveners Mrs. G. Evans and Mrs. P. Meredith, and Racquettes president Mrs. V. Woodland.

WOMEN'S ROLE IN THE CHURCH CHANGING

Warned to Discard Old Terminology

New development in women's church work was the subject of a panel when the Anglican Church Women of the diocese held a recent meeting in St. Luke's Anglican Church. The panel was chaired by Dean Brian Whitlow. Serving on the panel were Canon G. H. Greenhalgh of Nanaimo and Canon J. Rogers.

In summation, the panel felt that changes in women's groups could best be originated by the rector, Dean Brian Wnitlow showing two samples of how this could be done in parishes. It was felt that development should be steady, not rushed, and that two years was a reasonable time to allow.

Panel members warned, "Old terminology should be avoided because it brings back too many nostalgic memories."

Mrs. H. McDonald thanked panel members for their contribution to the meeting.

DAY-LONG SESSION

The day-long sessions began with Holy Communion conducted by Archdeacon C. E. F. Wolff and Dr. K. M. King. Greetings were extended by Mrs. Wolff.

Diocesan treasurer Miss Dora Brown said $50 had been donated for Korean orphans and $88.72 was received from the Junior Girls' centennial project and would be used for Camp Columbia.

Diocesan president Mrs. F. A. Goodwin told of future development plans for the camp.

HELP FOR UP-ISLAND

Mrs. H. E. Hubbard, chairman of Extra Cents, said $85 had been sent to Cumberland for audio-visual aids for the Sunday school, and $200 to Campbell River, this amount to be used to help repair the Sunday school's roof.

Mrs. E. Scott, chairman of Family Life, reported an increased interest in Young Mothers' Groups. Mrs. L. Avery reported on the Living Message magazine.

Diocesan vice-president, Mrs. H. McDonald, announced that a life members' meeting would be held at St. James' Church in Nanaimo on May 30. A bus will leave Victoria's St. John's Church at 9 a.m. that day.

Mrs. N. W. Life, speaking on vocations and girls' auxiliary work, told of the recent visit of Miss Lois Robin, national youth adviser. She said that a GA camp had been arranged for May 31 to June 2.

Miss Marjory Bernard, chairman of social service, appealed for a small radio for an elderly shut-in. She also reminded members that the Caroline Macklem Home garden party would be held June 19.

Mrs. H. Monaghan, chairman of Dorcas supply, said linens valued at $100 had been sent to the Marion Hilliard House for unwed mothers at Kamloops. Bales had been requested for Burns Lake, Lytton and Merritt, new areas of work to be taken over from the Niagara diocese. She announced that a meeting of Dorcas secretaries would be held today at 2 p.m. in the Dorcas Room.

Comox chairman, Mrs. C. A. Patterson, told of arrangements made for area workshops with the rural dean. A spring meeting will be held at Alert Bay, May 14 to 16. This will be the first time a deanery meeting has been held there. Mrs. A. F. Gurr, chairman of Juniors, will hold a rally at Comox on Saturday.

Mrs. Patterson was appointed delegate to the national general meeting, to be held in Saskatoon June 4 to 6.

The next board meeting will be held May 22 in St. Alban's Church, Victoria, at 7:30 p.m.

AT VOW MEETING

Speaker States Apartheid Still Prevalent in Canada

A form of apartheid is still prevalent in Canada, along with many instances of discrimination, according to Mrs. D. Recalma, of the Qualicum Indian Band, who addressed members of the Victoria Voice of Women at their annual meeting.

"The Indian Act, written 100 years ago was very discriminatory and when it was revised in 1951 it was done without the advice or consent of those most concerned—the Indian people themselves," Mrs. Recalma pointed out.

"Every attempt to exercise initiative is hedged about and thwarted," she continued. "Outside influences are omnipresent, multitudinous, and cannot be avoided. They completely govern the lives of the reservation Indians.

"No matter how small the matter, it must be referred from Band to agency level, to regional level and finally to the Indian Affairs department. Lapses of time between submission and reply, the losses, oversights and frustration have to be experienced to be believed."

Mrs. Recalma explained that almost no communication exists on any level, even among the culturally diverse Indian groups, and this is the heart of the complex problem. All other groups must meet the Indian at least halfway, she concluded.

Mrs. J. Lawson thanked the speaker. A brief business meeting elected executive members of the Voice of Women for the coming year. Luncheon was served and a record of the past year's activities was displayed to new members and friends.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Poor Excuse For a Wife

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: We have been married for over one year, and I can't remember the last time Eve cooked a hot meal for me. She is so busy with her bridge club, garden club, and book club that she doesn't have time to cook. She comes home at 6 p.m. and serves me a cold meat sandwich with some potato chips on a paper plate, and that is supper!

I give her a generous allowance for groceries, but there is never anything to eat in the house. We have no children yet, so if I get mad enough, I could just pick up and leave. Any suggestions?

EVE'S HUSBAND

DEAR HUSBAND: The next time you're served a cold meat sandwich and potato chips on a paper plate, tell Eve that the "picnic" is over. And also tell her that at one time Eve was the only woman in the world, but times have changed, so she'd better turn over a new leaf.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My son is 23 years old and is making a good living in a body and fender business in partnership with his brother. I should add that my son has supported himself since the age of 15 and is a very good boy who never gave me any trouble.

He has a girl I'll call Jane. They have gone together for three years and want to get married soon. Jane has just turned 21. The problem is Jane's mother. She won't let Jane get married until my son owns a home of his own and has $2,000 in the bank. Abby, my son has a real nice apartment completely furnished and ready for Jane to move into. He has a good car (paid for) and he doesn't owe a cent. They love each other, and I can't see where Jane's mother has any right to put such a big stumbling block in their road. I would like your opinion.

THE BOY'S MOTHER

* * *

DEAR MOTHER: A 21-year-old girl doesn't need her mother's legal consent to marry, so if Jane is willing to wait until the man she marries meets her mother's qualifications, perhaps Jane isn't mature enough to marry anyone yet.

DEAR ABBY: Your recent column on who should say "grace" when a clergyman is a guest will be great help to hosts who may be faced with that dilemma. But you would do the clergy a tremendous service if you were to print this which is also related to the saying of "grace":

To whoever is in charge of the programs for civic groups and service organizations: Any lay person can offer the invocations and benedictions at such meetings, so please don't feel that you must ask a clergyman. We are frequently "invited" to break into our busy days to rush downtown to some hotel just to say a short prayer that could have easily been said by anyone. Thank you.

Respectfully, INDIANA PASTOR

(No name, please, I have to live in this town.)

Anti-Pollution Society Formed On Salt Spring

GANGES — Salt Spring Islanders have formed an anti-pollution society under the chairmanship of Mrs. Ada Ryan.

The magority of the 15 members are landowners with Walter Young secretary and Steve Clinehens co-chairman.

The society was formed because of pollution fears resulting from a planned subdivision at Fernwood but it was hoped that the group would represent the views of all interested Island residents.

"Many of us have come to these islands to get away from water and air pollution in other areas of North America," Mr. Clinehens said. "We cannot afford to keep running from this problem but must take a stand against it now."

Sir Philip Livingston of Fulford Harbor has offered his support and knowledge to the society and helped to prepare a brief which was recently sent to Attorney-General Bonner.

Mr. Livingston was former director-general of medical services for the Royal Air Force.

Nanaimo Fair May Close Doors

NANAIMO — Vancouver Island Exhibition may close forever, says chairman, Cyril Edgington.

"We need about 40 directors but we have only 14. If we tried with the few we have we'd be putting on a flop. All of us have to make a living and we can't give all our time to an exhibition."

Mr. Edgington said people no longer support exhibitions because of modern merchandizing.

"Just look at all the modern shopping malls and super markets. They are an exhibition 365 days a year. The public doesn't want to see a week-long effort based on what it is already seeing.

"I think that in five years or so, 50 per cent of the smaller exhibitions will close down."

Last year, Mr. Edgington said, the Vancouver Island Exhibition attracted 24,466 people when for the first time it allowed entry free of charge.

The future of the exhibition will be decided at a meeting in Beban House, Exhibition Park, Tuesday, April 30, at 8 p.m.

Woman Driver Jailed

VANCOUVER (CP) — A 21-year-old Vancouver Island woman was given three months in jail, fined $800 and ruled off the road for three years today on a criminal negligence conviction.

Catherine Nicloux of Port Hardy was charged after a traffic collision Jan. 27 in which two persons were killed.

SCHOOL BOARD REJECTS PAY AWARD TO OFFICE STAFF

DUNCAN — Cowichan School board has rejected a 13½ per cent pay award to its 30 female office staff.

At a special meeting Wednesday the women agreed to consider strike action.

Negotiations for a first contract since the board acknowledged the Canadian Union of Public Employees as bargaining agents for the office staff went to conciliation earlier this month.

The award was unanimous.

Island representative of the union, Tom Smith, said the award was short of the target, parity with other Island school board workers.

However, the Duncan staff voted acceptance.

Mr. Smith said that in considering strike action the 30 employees would have the support of 120,000 CUPE members across Canada.

TRADE FAIR

DUNCAN — Vern Kay is again chairman of the annual Chemainus-Crofton Chamber of Commerce trade fair.

The fair is on tonight at the Legion Hall, Chemainus from 7 to 10.

It's the third trade fair sponsored by the chamber to highlight national Chamber of Commerce week.

Mr. Kay said, "The public is invited to browse through the displays of the latest merchandise.

"Displays will include everything from outboard motors to jewellery and demonstrations of hairdressing."

The B.C. Hydro medallion bus will exhibit modern methods of heating, lighting and air conditioning.

TOURIST BUREAU

DUNCAN — The city is to have a woman tourist information officer.

Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce announced Wednesday that when the highway tourist bureau opens for the season May 1 and that Mrs. Alisen Bonn will be in charge.

Tourist committee chairman Sam Keeble said' "We're lucky to get her. Mrs. Bonn was employed as senior travel counsellor with the B.C. travel bureau for three years prior to joining the federal government bureau in Ottawa for two years."

Born in Scotland, Mrs. Bonn has made a hobby of travel and has visited all parts of B.C. by plane, trailer and camper. She has lived on Vancouver Island for 18 years.

DANGEROUS DRIVING

LADYSMITH — Convicted of dangerous driving, R. T. Dinham, 23, of Ladysmith, had his driver's licence suspended Wednesday for two years by Magistrate Lance Heard.

Dinham was also fined $100.

RCMP prosecutor told the court the charge arose from an accident last November, and one of the four occupants of Dinham's car at that time is still being treated for injuries.

Rick Hansen has been elected president of the Duncan Lions Club.

Other officers are George Williams, first vice-president; Maurice Drew, second vice-president; Mike Worbets, treasurer; Jack Brain, secretary; Bill Martens, lion tamer; Robin Stead and Les Smith, tail twisters.

Two-year directors are Tom Allen and Fred Chown; one-year directors Wally Weeds and Ross Davidson.

On Mother's Day, May 12, the Lions Club will hold its annual pancake breakfast. The breakfast will take place at Redman Pontiac Buick from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Young Pearkes Eyes Politics

VANCOUVER (CP) — John Pearkes, 37, son of Lieutenant-Governor George R. Pearkes of British Columbia, will seek the Conservative nomination in Vancouver-Quadra for the June 25 federal election, it was announced Wednesday. Liberal Grant Deachman won the riding in 1965.

FREE SCHOOLING FOR ALL CUBANS

Everywhere There's a Classroom

By MORGAN MacGREGOR

The massive drive to educate its people is undoubtedly the most exciting aspect of present-day Cuba.

Abandoned by many of its professional people when the Republic was overthrown, the new government was faced with the job of training millions of unskilled and often illiterate citizens.

MacGregor

During the Batista era there were 15,000 classrooms. Today there are 40,000 with plans for construction of 4,000 new schools.

Every available space is converted to classroom use.

The expensive homes of the rich in the Miramar district of suburban Havana, which were forsaken by their occupants fleeing from the new regime, have been converted to school room use.

●

The 70,000 youths who board and study there pop up everywhere ... marching down the shady avenues in long columns, poking their heads out of pseudo-gothic turrets, playing hop-scotch around graceful Spanish arches.

Even the garages have been converted to classrooms.

I talked to one of the teachers, 26-year-old Jose. He is one of the few Cubans who left the country to live in the United States and returned, four years later.

"I gave up my good job, a new car and came back. My family was still here and I missed them very much. The things I had there didn't seem worth giving up my homeland."

●

Jose teaches primary school and earns $120 a month, the standard rate for primary teachers. Each year he will receive $14 a month increase. If he returns to normal school for further training he can teach at a secondary school with a basic starting salary of $204.

The scholarship plan makes primary, secondary, technical and university training available to everyone.

Where there are no schools in isolated parts of the country students move in to the residential city schools. Everything is provided including transportation back to their homes each weekend.

University and technical scholarship students, who must first prove economic need, are provided with room, board, clothing and spending money. The plan provides $50 monthly to single students and up to $90 for those with dependents at home. Married students receive between $90 and $150.

●

The students selected for these scholarships cannot hold regular jobs or have an outside income. Married students live in campus apartments.

At present there are 7,000 scholarship students in the three universities as well as 2,500 studying abroad under the same plan.

Following up an invitation to meet some of these students at the home of a physics professor, I frankly expected to meet a group of young militants mouthing the party line.

Instead I was confronted with a group of remarkably aware kids who asked probing questions about our native Indian problem, about the Social Credit system and the French Canadian separatists in Quebec.

All students from 13 years

and up take part in the voluntary work program. They each spend 45 days of the school year planting crops and harvesting. At these agricultural communes they spend the mornings in the fields and study with the aid of educational television in the afternoons.

Some of them spend their evenings teaching basic reading and writing to the villagers.

It isn't really a voluntary program. They are expected to do this for the state. But, as 21-year-old Alberto pointed out:

"If all your friends are out in the fields and you goof off you just don't feel right."

This particular group had spent the previous week studying Castro's March 13, six-hour speech when he announced that all small businesses would be nationalized and all bars and night clubs shut down.

What did they think of this policy?

Sixteen-year-old Maria, the only other Cuban I met who had returned from the United States, piped up:

●

"Oh, that Fidel. Such an extremist. He thinks he can suppress black-marketeering and counter-revolutionary activity by closing down the bars. But it's really not fair to deprive the average citizen of the pleasure of a drink just because undesirables hang out there."

What was most impressive was these students knowledge of their own country.

All of them could reel off figures on construction, agriculture, cement production and distribution that would make one's head spin.

●

They never used "they" in relation to their country's problems. It was always "What we can do," "Our country," "What we can contribute," ... a very intense involvement.

One could not help but admire these youngsters but the admiration was always tempered by the form of government which shaped this glowing spirit—a government which has yet to hold its first election, which holds about 40,000 political prisoners and after 10 years of power still does not have a free press.

OYSTERS are for Epicures

OYSTER STEW
¼ cup butter
1 pint fresh oysters with liquid
1 quart (5 cups) milk, scalded
1½ teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
⅛ teaspoon nutmeg (optional)

Melt butter and add oysters and their liquid. Simmer until oysters plump up and edges show signs of ruffling. This takes about 3 minutes. Scald milk, add oysters and seasonings. Serve immediately. Makes 6 servings.

IMMIGRATION OFFICERS BACK BAN CALL

Racial Controversy Boils in U.K.

LONDON (Reuters) — Controversy over race relations today continued to rumble through Britain as 39 immigration officers prepared to explain why they backed a call to ban colored immigration.

The officers, who admit immigrants at London's Heathrow Airport, signed a petition supporting Opposition MP Enoch Powell, fired as Conservative party defence spokesman for a controversial race speech.

Pledging Powell their support Wednesday, the men—supposedly bound by the Official Secrets Act—further embarrassed their home office superiors with charges that corruption is undermining efforts to enforce present immigration laws.

Home secretary James Callaghan suspended one of their number and launched an investigation into the affair.

Minds in and out of the civil service seemed to boggle at such further immigration-officer statements as the admission by one of them that "we are biased" about immigrants when the officers are supposed to be impartial.

A public opinion poll issued said 82 per cent of 500 persons interviewed thought Powell was right when he called for the immigration ban and aid to colored people now in the country to leave.

Conservative Leader Edward Heath dismissed Powell after he made a speech in Birmingham Saturday in which he said Britain would flow with "rivers of blood" unless there was a clampdown on colored immigration.

The racial issue also sparked token strikes by stevedores, meat workers and miners in support of Powell. But the immigration officers' action seriously embarrassed the government.

The government Race Relations Act aims to soothe tension between the country's 50,000,000 whites and 1,000,000 colored persons.

But as it was being debated Tuesday, 2,000 stevedores yelling "Keep Britain white" marched to the Commons—launching strikes which are estimated to have cost the country £100,000 ($260,000).

A national opinion poll published today in the right-wing Daily Sketch says nine out of 10 persons are solidly behind the dock workers in their demands for a cut in the inflow of immigrants.

Leaders of colored immigrants warned of what they called growing right-wing feeling among white Britons.

Heath faces a taxing weekend of speech-making in the heartland of Powell's forces—the racially-mixed West Midlands.

MIXTURE

For a perfect lawn, you need two types of grass seed – one for fine texture, the other for weight and toughness. Penn-High Lawn Grass Mixture gives you both in a single package. It's a specially developed mixture of Penn Lawn Fescue and Highland Bent – for lawns that look better and wear harder. Penn-High produces a luxuriant dark green grass – with extra heavy turf that gives a soft, cushiony feel. Penn-High makes longer, stronger grass roots, too, helping your lawn withstand excessive heat, cold and moisture. For a lovelier, healthier lawn that invites active family fun, look to Penn High Lawn Grass Mixture from Green Vallev Chemical and Fertilizer Co. Ltd.

Also look to Green Valley for a complete range or plant foods and fertilizers.

FREE WALES ARMY

Quebec Separatists Supported Overseas

LONDON (CP) — Julian Cayo-Evans says he is the leader of the Free Wales Army which has great sympathy with the Quebec separatist movement.

But the 31-year-old horse breeder who occasionally dresses up in a green uniform says he also has great sympathy with the French people of Brittany who want to free themselves from President de Gaulle's "yoke."

"I personally don't know much about the Quebec separatists though one of my lieutenants has been in touch with them but we work very closely with the nationalists in Brittany," Cayo-Evans said in an interview today.

He said his knowledge of what goes on in Quebec came mostly from Owen Williams, another Welshman who at one time had emigrated to Canada and had allegedly linked up with separatists in Quebec, gaining experience in the handling of explosives.

"Now he is on the run," Cayo-Evans said.

Williams had found the pull of the old country too much; returned to Wales and joined the Free Wales Army. Police at Cardiff said that a month ago Williams jumped bail and disappeared. He had been on a charge of possessing explosives.

Cayo-Evans maintained that the charge was "trumped up". He said Williams now is in Brussels "probably on his way to Damascus or Cairo."

Married and father of two children, Cayo-Evans lives near the little marketing town of Lampeter, some 60 miles northwest of Cardiff.

He said he and his army meet regularly, train with rifles and explosives and make plans to rid Wales of English influence. He declined to say how big the army is but maintained he had groups throughout Wales.

During the last few years there have been a number of explosions damaging reservoirs, dams statues and buildings. Police made arrests in some cases and not in others. Damage was generally attributed to extremist groups. Political observers in Cardiff suggest there are a number of such groups.

The most popular Welsh nationalist group is known as Plaid Cymru whose leader, Gwynfor Evans, now holds a seat in the British Parliament. Plaid Cyru believes in independence through non-violent means. Members of that organization say they will have nothing to do with Cayo-Evans who admitted that he had been "thrown out" because of his demand for violence.

Cardiff police said they are keeping an eye on all extremist groups but declined to say how close a watch they are keeping on Cayo-Evans. One officer said cryptically that there is "little fact and much fiction involved."

ARE YOU HANDICAPPED?

MANY ARE WHO NEED YOUR HELP

Pictured here are just two of the children who must wage a daily war against their handicaps—with the aid of understanding and sympathetic adults.

They are student-patients of the G. R. Pearkes Clinic for Handicapped Children, a wonderful Greater Victoria project that has everything but a home.

A three-acre site has been provided at Arbutus and Haro for the proposed new Clinic and a fund drive is now in progress.

$675 MILLION DEFENCE BILL

JERUSALEM (Reuters) — For the first time in its history Israel announced the size of its defence budget Wednesday.

The finance ministry said that during the 1968-69 fiscal year the country's defence appropriations will total £2,200,000,000 Israeli ($675,000,000).

The disclosure was made by Finance Minister Pinhas Sapir in an announcement about an extra £500,000,000 Israeli defence appropriation to be submitted for parliamentary approval.

The total defence spending is more than one-third of the over-all budget of £5,858,000,000 Israeli.

One of the nice little things about London Drugs Optical Dept. is the price

We're the first to admit that we don't offer anything that isn't offered by most other optical companies. The only difference is, we offer it for less.

At London Drugs Optical Dept. you can buy prescription-perfect glasses for as low as $9.95*. That's why we say for comparable glasses, you can save from one-third to one-half at London Drugs Optical Dept.

How do we keep our prices down? Well, we have very efficient facilities for producing glasses. But then, so do most of our competitors. Actually, we can sell for less because of one small fact: we operate on a smaller profit margin.

There's no difference in the quality; only the price.

That's our BIG difference.

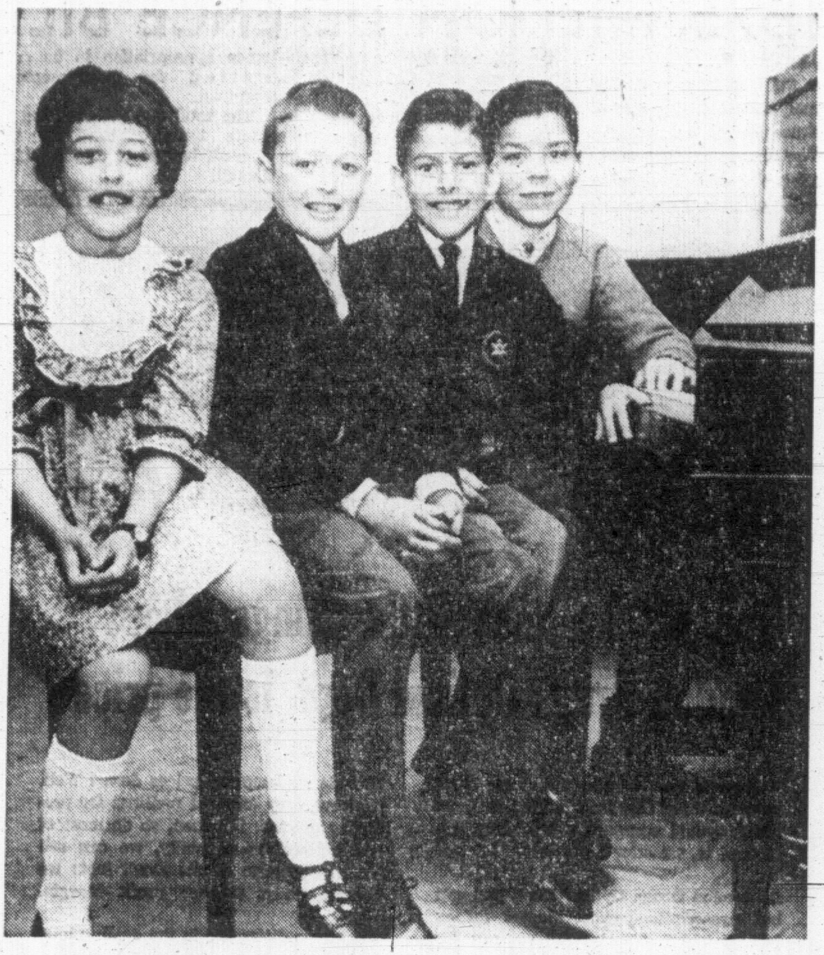
MORE PEOPLE ARE CHANGING TO ALLSTATE THAN EVER BEFORE



FAMILY AFFAIRS keep cropping up in the Victoria Music Festival, but they're not always as youthful, nor as uniform in talent and achievement, as Deena, Douglas, Bobby and Billy Broughton. Not only that but they represent three separate branches of the Broughton family tree. Left to right, Deena, 8, and Douglas, 9, are brother and sister, while Bobby, 9, and Billy, 10, are their cousins, although not brothers. All four played in piano solo classes this week and all placed among the top three in their marks.

CALGARY INSTRUCTOR

One-Man Art Show Will Open Friday

A new show of works of art by John K. Esler of Calgary opens Friday at Pandora's Box, 1208 Wharf St.

Mr. Esler has already exhibited once in the building—in a three-man show a few years ago when it was the now defunct Angel's Camp Art Gallery.

An instructor of graphics at the College of Art in Calgary, Mr. Esler has had one-man shows at the Winnipeg Art Gallery, Gallery 1640, Montreal, Studio Art Gallery International, Vancouver and Wells Gallery, Ottawa.

His works have been included in group shows across the United States, Europe and Australia, and last year at Expo.

The Victoria show contains 34 pieces of prints, drawings, constructions with collage and serigraph panels.

Mr. Esler's works hang in collections that range across the country including the National Gallery of Canada, the Canada Council Collection, the Montreal Museum of Fine Art, The Art Gallery of Ontario, the Winnipeg Art Gallery and Simon Fraser University.

He also has some pieces exhibited at the Victoria and Albert Museum, London, England, and the Museum of Modern Art in New York.

He has said of his printmaking: "Traditional methods of making prints may certainly offer the contemporary artist a great deal of scope for working out his ideas. However, it would seem that in a fast-moving, ever-changing society, the artist will reach out beyond the traditional.

"Ironically this has become 'a tradition' with the artist through the generations of Modern Art and held true with individual artists long before the modern era was acknowledged.

"Modern presses, new inks, new papers, and the adaptation of modern devices quite foreign to printmaking lend themselves technically to an endless chain of discoveries. Techniques and discovery in printmaking could amount to little more than pure adventure. It is our responsibility as artists to give print a reason."

Mr. Esler's current show was first on view at Canadian Art Galleries in Calgary.

A critic writing in The Calgary Herald described the show as "really entertaining" and said Mr. Esler "continues to turn up further outlets for expressing himself in his prints with amazing constancy."

WEE FOLKS GLEE CLUB

'Minute-Sized' Conductor Delightful

By AUDREY JOHNSON

Choral work in the Victoria Music Festival, from Gladys Pearcy's preprimaries to an adult church choir drew enthusiastic comment from adjudicator Trevor Anthony, Wednesday night.

The warm-hearted Welshman who has been delighting local singers of all ages with his vividly expressed commentaries and sympathetic manner, as chief vocal adjudicator of the Welsh National Eisteddfod does not pay an idle compliment when he praises a choir's performance.

Concerning the three entries in the class for church choir junior ensembles, Mr. Anthony said the singing was as good as any he had heard in Canada.

He found, on the whole, little to choose between the three groups, the principal difference occurring in the actual quality of music selected and on this basis St. Mary's boys' ensemble was placed slightly ahead with a total of 173 marks.

Second was Garden City United Church Junior Choir with 171, but St. George the Martyr Junior came close with 170.

Mr. Anthony called the musical effect of the Wee Folks Glee Club, "marvellous" and minute-sized conductor Hilary Wallis, not yet four years old, absolutely delightful.

They had no contestant in their class but Mr. Anthony awarded them 86 for each of their two numbers.

Concluding the evening was a class for church choirs, again with only one entry. Emmanuel Baptist Church Choir scored a high 87 for their second choice, and 85 for their first. The total of 172 however, still leaves the Don Kyle Singers with the highest choral mark in the festival, 183, scored by their female voice group on Tuesday evening.

One of the important vocal solo classes—female voice oratoria—was won by Barbara Ebell with an 86. Second with 84 was Rosemary Sims.

"Scholarship is not your middle name," Joseph Cooper told a class of Beethoven Sonata players at St. John's Hall.

"You are tackling the most difficult task of all when you set out to play Beethoven," he said. "When it comes to Beethoven you have got to think, you have got to study."

He found everything too glib, needing to be much better thought out, and awarded his lowest winning mark so far, to Elizabeth Chinniek. She was given 83. Patricia Mearns was in second place with 82.

"You all have the brains and some of you have the brawn to play Beethoven," Mr. Cooper remarked, "but the question is, in Victoria have you got the energy to apply yourselves to the task with vigor?"

Consistent high scorer, pianist Mary Chard continued her record Wednesday with an 86 as accompanist to singer Penelope Beavan who also achieved an 86, and later in the day was given an 88 for her performance of the first movement of a Mozart Sonata.

For performance of a Chopin Waltz, Frances Crampton, another pianist who has done notable work in the festival, also received 88.

Speech Arts, one of the biggest sections of the festival concludes tonight with an honor performance concert at Sir James Douglas School auditorium.

Among those piling up consistent high marks here are Rosalind Scott and Marie Stillin.

Adjudicator Tom Kerr continues his plea for good natural speech and is an advocate for speech to be a made a study in schools.

Tonight's programs include the open class for piano concert group and two conerto classes at St. John's Hall, and family ensemble, male and female operatic classes, male oratorio and small vocal ensemble at Fellowship Hall. In the popular family ensemble class competition will be between the Patterson and Gilstein families.

Reid Scott Retiring

OTTAWA (CP) — Reid Scott, 41, the New Democratic Party MP for the riding of Toronto Danforth since 1962, announced Wednesday he will not run in the June 25 general election. In a prepared statement, Mr. Scott said he will not seek his party's nomination for health reasons. He suffered a heart attack last year.

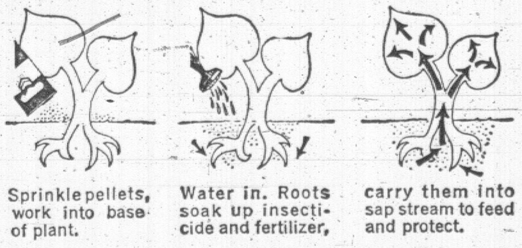
Great News!

FIGHT BACK WITH ORTHO!

the new systemic insecticide that fertilizes!

Trust ORTHO to come up with this one. All you do is work in ORTHO SYSTEMIC ROSE AND FLOWER CARE pellets around your plants and they get fed and protected from sucking insects at the same time.



Sprinkle pellets, work into base of plant.

Water in. Roots soak up insecticide and fertilizer, carry them into sap stream to feed and protect.

ORTHO
ROSE & FLOWER

Best thing about this, of course, is that both insecticide and fertilizer are systemic, work within the roses and other flowers, from roots up. Rain or sprinkling can't wash it away. So buds get big and beautiful. And sucking insects (aphids, mites and others) that come to feed, die. Economical, too. You get full fertilization and protection from insects for four weeks or more for pennies a plant.

ORTHO SYSTEMIC ROSE AND FLOWER CARE. At your garden supply dealer's right now.

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The opening event of each national bridge championship is a nationwide charity game in which players all over the country play the same hands. These hands are predealt by computer and, since each player is competing against his own group, the top score for the country is likely to go anywhere and usually does go to some small town.

Opening lead—♠ K

This does not mean that the hands aren't tests of expert skill. Board No. 7 found East-West vulnerable and North-South not vulnerable, with West invariably starting with a spade pre-empt. When West started with four spades, North would double for business. South would leave the double in and, assuming any reasonable defence, West would make his own eight tricks and go down two for minus 500. He would be unhappy, because 500 is more than the value of a nonvulnerable game, but it would not be a total loss.

The bidding in the box shows how a mere three-spade opening by West leads to a diamond slam by South.

West will open the king of spades and, while South won't like his slam contract, he should make it.

The play isn't really very complicated. He must win the spade lead and play a trump. West will show out and South will have to decide to end-play West if he wants to make his contract. The end play develops if South plays dummy's ace and king of hearts and times the whole play so that he will ruff two of dummy's hearts and eventually pay out all dummy's trumps in order to wind up with the jack of spades and ace-deuce of clubs in dummy and three clubs to the queen in his own hand.

West will be down to the queen of spades and king-jack of clubs, and South will throw West in with the king of spades. West will have to lead a club and South will make his slam.

65 MOTORCYCLES

"CYCLE" Magazine road-tested the 350 Honda. . . . THIS is what they had to say:

- —Probably the most technically advanced motorcycle built to date.
- —The 350 engine (racing mills excepted,) is the most sophisticated power plant that has been produced to date.
- —A lower end that a Chrysler Hemi would be proud of.
- —The 350s are among the smoothest four stroke motorcycles we have tested.
- —Cornered with razor sharp precision regardless of the angle at which they were heeled over.
- —They've got plenty of punch and are easily capable of cruising speeds in the 80-85 m.p.h. range.
- —Everywhere you look, mechanical perfection. The 350s are without flaw.

1968 DATSUN SEDAN
The "more-for-your money car."
If somebody ever tells you he drives an economy import with 96 h.p. engine that goes 100 m.p.h. has a safer, impact absorbing body, the safest suspension money can buy, a wrap-around air-flow system that keeps windows clear, that it looks great, handles like a dream, and that he bought it from us for only $2025, believe him. TOYOTA COROLLA

"THE CLEANEST ECONOMY CAR EVER TO COME FROM THE OTHER SIDE OF ANY OCEAN!" Who wants an economy car that won't get out of its own way and is left behind on hills? The TOYOTA COROLLA has more power, a higher top speed and better acceleration than any other car in the 1100 cc class. And it still gets better than 40 miles on a gallon of regular gas.

DARING—SO PRACTICAL AND FOR THE FIRST TIME!
Two well-known contracting buddies pondered over this Oak Bay location for some months before agreeing with the architect. They are not quite finished but bring the family over anyway.
IF YOU ARE QUALITY MINDED and your family is the arty type the trip will be a worthwhile and delightful one. Contemporary styling, two storey appearing, breezeway and attached garage. Fully landscaped including service and play yard. One step entry. Crowd-size foyer and open carpeted stairway. Spacious living and dining rooms with special features — mahogany screen, massive fireplace and glassware cabinets. Can you agree that there is no substitute for plaster? What a kitchen! Big breakfast area, dishwasher, dark walnut cabinets and Corlon floors. Three big bedrooms and room for three more at little expense. Two and a half bathrooms. Family room, separate utility room and workshop area — I heard talk of a workbench, too. The next one will cost more than $38,500. Terms available. Call SIMON FLETT anytime, 385-2471.

Court Rules To Deport Dope Pedlar

A ruling which would have saved a Chinese dope pedlar from deportation from Canada has been reversed by the B.C. Court of Appeal in Vancouver.

The Appeal Court also closed what seemed to be a loophole in Canada's Immigration Act.

Last September, Mr. Justice R. A. Wootton quashed deportation proceedings against Jang Sue Yee, also known as Tommy Dong.

He quashed the deportation on a technicality, referring to discrepancies in the wording relating to the old Opium and Narcotic Drug Act. This act was repealed and replaced by the Narcotic Control Act of 1961.

Mr. Justice Wootton said the deportation order was based on legislation which had ceased to exist.

Victoria lawyer Alan Macfarlane, representing the Crown, took the case to the B.C. Appeal Court. He based his appeal on a section of the Interpretation Act.

Two of the three Appeal Court judges voted for deportation. They were Chief Justice H. W. Davey and Mr. Justice Angelo Branca. Mr. Justice A. B. Rogertson dissented.

Jang, the subject of the appeal, is now serving a six-year term for selling heroin. He is not a Canadian citizen and was ordered to be deported from Canada in 1966.

Queen's Own To Mark Birthday

There will be a birthday party at Work Point Barracks Friday—the 1st Battalion, Queen's Own Rifles of Canada is celebrating its 108th birthday.

But the party games will be held over until May 3, when a day of inter-company sports will be held at Macaulay Point.

The birthday commemorates the founding of the regiment April 26, 1860, as the 2nd Battalion, Volunteer Militia Rifles of Canada.

The regiment did not become part of the Canadian regular army until 1953, when the 1st and 2nd rifle battalions were renamed the 1st and 2nd Battlion, QOR.

The 1st Battalion, now stationed at Esquimalt, served in Germany from 1960 to 1963. From March until October, 1965, it served with a UN peacekeeping group in Cyprus.

The sports competition will include volleyball, soccer, floor hockey, football, pushball and skooter relay racing.

There will also be a float competition, with the floats to be used later in the day in a man-drawn chariot race.

Rites Friday For Former Phone Operator

Funeral services will be held Friday for a native daughter of Victoria who died in Vancouver Monday.

Mrs. Elizabeth Fisher, who for many years was chief operator for the B.C. Telephone Company, died in Vancouver General Hospital at 81.

Born in Victoria in 1886, she lived latterly at 2575 West 8th Avenue in Vancouver.

She was a member of the Order of the Eastern Star, Chapter 17, for 50 years.

Mrs. Fisher is survived by her husband, George William, of Vancouver, and a number of nieces and nephews.

Services will be conducted at McCall Brothers floral chapel, Archdeacon E. H. Maddoks officiating. An Eastern Star service will follow.

Interment will be in the family plot at Ross Bay Cemetery.

Food Baron Gives N. Ireland Varsity $650,000

LONDON (CP) — Canadian food millionaire W. Garfield Weston has made a gift of £250,000 ($650,000) to the New University of Ulster, the Northern Ireland office here announced today.

The university at Coleraine, County Londonderry, is due to receive its first students in October. It will be Ulster's second. Vice-Chancellor Alan Milton described the gift as a "tremendous tonic."

Weston's reasons for the gift include the fact that Northern Ireland was one of the first areas where his now gigantic food empire started on this side of the Atlantic. Also, his wife's parents were from Ulster.

Mrs. Weston, the former Rita Howard of Victoria, B.C., and Burks Falls, Ont., died in March, 1967. They were married in 1921.

'Lynch Law' Fear Spreads in U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 50 U.S. congressmen report in an Associated Press survey that their constituents are mainly concerned with urban rioting rather than war on taxes.

From coast to coast the issue of law and order far overrides other issues, the survey shows.

"The people are scared," said Representative Delbert L. Latta (Rep. Ohio).

"They want law enforcement and not appeasement," said Representative Robert L. F. Sikes (Dem. Fla.).

A New England congressman, who has supported civil rights and urban aid programs—and who asked not to be identified, said: "The red-neck Rotarian crowd in my district shows so little understanding of the racial crisis that I refuse to listen to them."

Senator George D. Aiken (Rep. Vt.) reported as much division among whites as between Negroes and whites.

GRANDFATHERS ABUSE

"The little lady with pen in hand who writes and wires my office wants more laws and more money because the white man abused the Negro's grandfathers," he said.

"The man in the street, however, says enforce the law. He has nothing good to say about the rioters."

Representative J. Edward Roush (Dem. Ind.) said he sensed that the people in his district were determined to combat major domestic problems following the violence ignited after Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was assassinated April 4.

Representative W. R. Poage (Dem. Tex.) reported on other reaction in his district.

"We're headed right toward lynch law if the people can't get protection from public officials," he said.

AROUSE VIGILANTES

"Ninety-five per cent of the people are concerned about the violations of the law and the police's failure to enforce the law," Poage said. "The government will either enforce the law or the people will enforce it through vigilantes, and the people don't enforce the law very exactly or discriminately."

"The liberal community feels impotent about the race crisis," said Representative F. Bradford Morse (Rep. Mass.), a supporter of urban programs and civil rights. "They don't know what to do."

The Vietnam issue, most congressmen reported, is running a distinct second to urban riots as a major concern among Americans.

Young U.S. 'Vigilantes' Block Trade With Reds

By ARCH MacKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — A militant conservative U.S. youth group has established a formidable barrier to U.S. plans for building trade bridges to Eastern Europe.

Young Americans for Freedom, which calls itself "the nation's most active political youth organization," wants no truck nor trade with Communists.

An affiliate of the Republican party, it claims victories over two major names in American big business.

The Firestone Tire Co. backed away from opening a synthetic rubber company in Romania after the YAF launched a national campaign to stop it.

EXCHANGE PROGRAM

YAF is also credited with causing American Motors to drop its plan for shipping autos to Russia in exchange for steel.

Now, YAF has taken on IBM which has been selling electronic computers, YAF says, to Czechoslovakia, Hungary, East Germany, Poland and Bulgaria.

YAF's annual meeting in Boston next Monday will discuss the campaign directly with IBM representatives, YAF says.

"We feel its management is progressive and can be convinced that East-West trade is detrimental to American interests," says national chairman Alan MacKay. YAF opposes any U.S. wheat sales to Communist nations.

President Johnson in 1964 began his bridge-building effort to the East with trade expansion in mind. Also involved was the possibility of speeding the splintering of ties between the Soviet Union and its increasingly-restless satellites.

Trade restrictions were eased further in 1965 and 1966.

DOLLAR DRAIN THREAT

It was judged good policy to compete with West Germany, France and other nations cashing in on rising consumer demand in the Soviet orbit. This has become more important as the U.S. trade surplus shows signs of dwindling, which would increase the already-serious dollar drain.

This doesn't cut any ice with YAF, however, which has the past against Firestone and American Motors, and now IBM.

When Firestone cancelled its plan in mid-1965, Democratic Senator J. W. Fulbright, Arkansas, accused YAF of being a "minor vigilante group . . . out to alter, dictate or defeat official policies of the U.S. government."

State Secretary Dean Rusk has personally intervened in the IBM situation with a letter to IBM Chairman Arthur K. Watson that says to "yield to such groups is to encourage capricious interference with the vital processes of our constitutional government."

Achievement Award Given

The achievement plaque of 800 Pacific Wing, RCAF Association, went to George Dunkin at the wing's annual awards presentation Wednesday night.

Past president Clarence House also presented Thunderbird awards to Cy Axhorn and Fred Moulson.

The association will hold a social night Saturday in honor of Squadron Leader Wilf Gammie, wing liaison officer, who has been transferred to Ottawa. His replacement will be Squadron Leader John Sargison.

De Gaulle Censure Move Loses by Only 8 Votes

PARIS (Reuters) — The government of President de Gaulle early today survived a left-wing opposition censure motion protesting its plan to put advertising on state television.

It was the 16th National Assembly motion of no confidence in almost a decade of Gaullist power and the fourth this year. With the government two seats short of an absolute majority, it also was one of its closest political tests to date.

Independents and a few centre deputies rallied to the support of Premier Georges Pompidou, as on previous occasions, and the censure motion mustered only 236 votes—eight short of the required 244.

The socialist-radical Federation of the Left, which presented the motion, provided 120 votes and the Communists 73.

The right wing of the Gaullist alliance, the Independent Republicans, stood firm with the government despite a sharp clash during the two-day debate between its leader, Valery Giscard d'Estaing, and Pompidou.

The result today cleared the way for the government to introduce advertising on the state television network by a simple administrative order, instead of by parliamentary legislation.

It also rejected the opposition charges of lack of objectivity in the state broadcasting network's news and current affairs programs. This became the main point of the federation argument in the two-day debate.

Coddle Tomato Plants

By HILDA BEASTALL

Tomato plants being raised at home need considerable care if they are to remain sturdy and healthy.

An important point to remember is that these plants are of a semi-tropical nature, and make little progress if soil temperature is below 50 deg. F.

Direct sunshine whenever possible is the greatest aid to short, sturdy growth, and under indoor conditions, this must be combined with a minimum of watering.

When copious amounts of water are given to indoor plants, thin spindly growth results. Long spaces between leaves and between side branches are indications of poor light and too much moisture in the soil.

Tomato plants should reach the stage of having three pairs of true leaves (above the one pair of seed-leaves) at a height of about four inches. This will vary a little according to the variety being grown, but will act as a general guide.

Fertilizer is not advisable under home conditions, since it would only add length to the plants without adding strength.

As the plants reach the four inch size they may be put outdoors for daytime in a sunny spot sheltered from wind, if outside temperature is above 55 deg. F. This is to prevent sudden chilling, and should indicate to the home gardener that the change should be made in gradual stages. Take the plants indoors again before the sun leaves then, or the temperature drops, in afternoon.

It can be disastrous to move any plant from the 70 deg. F. house temperature to 45 deg. F. outdoors, expecially so if wind is evident.

To get around this difficulty, outdoor air should be admitted to the plants previously to gradually acclimatize them.

Tomato plants need coddling to some extent here, but the coddling should be based on practical ideas of no sudden chills, no excessive watering, and plenty of sunshine and air without draughts.

'More Creative Sparkle Needed on TV Programs'

By CARL MOLLINS

LONDON (CP) — Britain's commercial television is under orders from the top to inject more creative sparkle into programs and rely less on tawdry serials and North American imports.

The Independent Television Authority, government-appointed operator of the commercial TV channels has urged the 14 regional program companies it licenses to exert "a concerted drive towards originality, variety and liveliness."

The rap on production knuckles in ITA's annual report is relatively mild. But it is the first time ITA has publicly expressed such dissatisfaction since commercial television was set up alongside state TV in 1955.

The report says "some of the home-produced series and some imported series were beginning to look a little tired — popular though they continued to be with the audience."

"There was a general impression of staleness about much of the output," the report adds.

Picking an average evening TV audience in the month of March as criterion, figures show commercial television's audience fell by almost 1,000,000 last year to 13,900,000.

Although ITA opinion surveys show 60 per cent of viewing time is spent tuned into the commercial channel in homes able to receive both commercial and British Broadcasting Corporation telecasts — 90 per cent of all homes — the ITA report indicates concern that the BBC's drama, comedy, sports and children's programing have been making the running lately.

In Britain, where there is little daytime television apart from educational and children's programs, sets are switched on an average of 4½ hours a day. ITA surveys claim two hours, 42 minutes of that time is spent viewing the commercial channel.

Commercial television in Britain differs from that in North America in that the advertiser may only buy time and has no say in program decisions as a sponsor.

Total advertising time may not exceed six minutes an hour. Programs of up to 20 minutes may not be broken by advertising, up to 40 minutes by only one commercial, up to 70 minutes by only two breaks and up to 100 minutes by no more than three commercial breaks.

HALT TRIALS

As commercial television was preparing to brighten up the schedule, both the independents and the BBC were instructing producers to guard against conducting "trials by TV" in interview shows.

The practice of baiting controversial figures in TV interviews came under Parliament's scrutiny at the end of February.

Postmaster-General Edward Short got assurances from the BBC and ITA that both would voluntarily refrain from such practice in future.

Chiefs of both systems, said Short, "told me they were acutely concerned that programs of this sort might become a form of trial and that justice might suffer."

Singled out for criticism in Parliament were interviews conducted by showman David Frost, who often enlists the support — through questioning — of his live studio audience.

The Frost program was generally judged to have given a rough time to two men subsequently tried in court and convicted of criminal offences.

South African Whites Urged To Forget Pill

KENNETH L. WHITING

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — More white babies and fewer black ones is the double-barrelled aim of South Africa's government.

This country's 3,600,000 whites are outnumbered by 12,700,000 Africans—officially termed Bantu. There also are 1,800,000 persons of mixed blood, designed as colored, and 486,000 Asians.

Only 19 per cent of South Africa's population is white. If present trends continue, whites will be down to 14 per cent of the total by the end of the century and outnumbered 6-to-1 by non-whites.

"Unless white couples give up birth control and restore the Afrikaner tradition of big families, white South Africa will commit suicide," said a memo submitted by an Afrikaans group to Prime Minister John Vorster.

Afrikaners are mostly of Dutch and French-Hugenot stock descended from Boer prisoners who settled the interior of what now is South Africa. The ruling Nationalist party, which has been in power 20 years, draws most of its support from Afrikaners.

LAST APPEAL FAILED

"Our church and cultural leaders should also encourage people to have bigger families," the memo from the Federal Council of Afrikaans Co-ordinating Committees said. "Independently, we must warn all childless couples of the dangers of birth control."

The council has also urged subsidies for Afrikaner parents.

It is not the first time white South Africans have been urged to breed for their nation. The minister of Bantu administration, Michiel Botha, stirred controversy in 1965 when he proposed that all white couples have a baby to celebrate the country's fifth anniversary as a republic.

The birth rate indicates few whites followed his suggestion.

With appeals for larger white families being ignored, officials are increasingly turning toward control of the black birth rate.

However, officials almost always cite economic reasons for controlling black births.

In the last six years the white population increased by 500,000, including immigration, while the number of blacks grew by more than 1,600,000. The birth rate of coloreds also exceeds that of whites.

The African birth rate is estimated at 50 per thousand, compared with a white rate of 23.3 per thousand.

Birth control pills are distributed free or at nominal cost to Africans in the Witwatersrand industrial development around Johannesburg.

Tens of thousands of African women are using the pill. The government has been preparing a film on contraception to show to black audiences and there are reports a nationwide propaganda campaign to promote black birth control is being prepared.

ASK ANDY

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a World Book Atlas

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Susan E. Ford, age 7, of Cape Elizabeth, Maine, for her question:

Why are there no grasshoppers in the winter?

About this time of year, the grasshoppers are getting ready to arrive in the fields and gardens. Chances are, you will not notice them when they arrive, even though there may be millions of them. You will not notice them until they have been with us for about six weeks.

Last year's grasshoppers all perished in the fall before the frosty winter weather began. Their crisp little bodies were left to decay and add rich plant food to the soil. But this was not the end of the grasshopper clan. Oh no. All the lady grasshoppers made plans to be sure that another generation of teeming grasshoppers would arrive to greet us in the spring. Late in the summer, each mother grasshopper laid a bunch of eggs and tenderly buried them in the ground. The sturdy little eggs could stand the winter, even though she could not. And she took extra care to place them safely under the blanket of winter snow.

Mrs. Grasshopper has a special tube for laying her eggs. It is called an ovipositor and it is at the tail end of her body. The ovipositor is tipped with prongs, two pointing up and two pointing down. This makes it just right for placing her eggs just where she wants to put them. It is also just right for digging a small pocket in the soil. When time comes to lay her eggs, she uses her ovipositor to scoop out a neat little hole in the dirt. Then she uses it again, this time to place her eggs into the tiny burrow, one by one.

The grasshopper eggs are smooth and white and the mother may place 20 of them in one earthy pocket. Then she squirts out a frothy foam that covers them like a blanket. Now they are safely sealed inside a cosy egg pod. Mrs. Grasshopper may lay 20 egg pods in different parts of the ground. Some of her pods may have 50 eggs and some may have as many as 100. When the job is done, Mrs. Grasshopper has finished her life work.

Molts His Skin

But the cosy eggs sleep on and on through the winter. When the first breath of spring warms the ground, they begin to hatch. The babies look like weird copies of their mother. They are pale and they have no wings and it takes a row of eight of them to measure an inch. But the sprightly midgets are hungry, oh so very hungry. They greedily gobble up all the grasses and other greenery in sight. And they grow. Soon they are too big for their tight little skins. So they burst. But no harm is done because new and bigger skins already have grown under the old ones. In six weeks, the growing grasshoppers molt their skins five times. After the last molt, they emerge with two pairs of wings. They are now grown-up grasshoppers just like their parents.

There are many kinds of grasshoppers and it is fun to learn all their names. Some kinds can make chirping sounds and we hear their cheerful choruses in the grass. Most grasshoppers can fly when they wish. They have an outer pair of stiff wings. Under them they have a gauzy pair of fan-shaped wings that can be unfolded in the air. But the grasshopper is a famous jumper and most of the time he prefers to travel in leaps and bounds. If you could equal his jumping acrobatics, you could leap right over your house.

Andy sends a 14" World Book Globe to Susan Tarnowski, age 12, of Hibbing, Minnesota, for her question:

Why do people call children "kids?"

Andy himself prefers to reserve the word "kid" for a baby goat, to whom it rightfully belongs. Many adults, however, refer to human children as kids and think nothing of it. The children themselves may feel somewhat insulted but Andy has lived long enough to see some of them grow up and refer to their own children as kids. If you feel insulted when someone calls you a kid, about the only thing you can do is to promise yourself that you will do better when your turn comes around.

There is another small ray of hope in the story. A kid, a real one, is a cute young animal. It is frisky and full of fun and pretty as a picture. And he is mischievous in such a charming manner that everyone smiles at his naughty pranks. He is loved by both adults and children. Maybe the little charmer reminds some parents of their own children. It could be that this is how the word became misplaced. In any case, it would be far more insulting to borrow the name of one of the cute kid's parents. If someone called you a goat you would have every right to feel offended in a big way.

Paris as Compromise May Break Deadlock

Hanoi Reply Secret

(Times News Services)

North Vietnam replied today to the latest United States proposals on the site for preliminary peace talks but the nature of the reply was not disclosed.

U.S. Ambassador William H. Sullivan was called to the North Vietnamese embassy in Vientiane, capital of Laos, to receive a formal note from the Hanoi government.

There were widespread rumors that both sides are approaching a compromise on Paris as the site for talks.

U.S. officials in Washington said however that North Vietnam appears to be mounting a major campaign aimed at getting the United States to accept Warsaw.

That was their assessment of Poland's reported appeal to six embassies in Warsaw to exert influence in bringing preliminary peace talks on ending the Vietnam war to the Communist nation's capital. In Ottawa, the Canadian government confirmed its embassy received the appeal.

President Johnson meanwhile was reported prepared to carry on prolonged, hard-nosed negotiations with North Vietnam over the site.

U.S. officials say North Vietnam believes that by manipulating public opinion pressures against the Johnson administration it can force the U.S. to agree to a place agreeable to Hanoi and painful to Washington.

SITE AS WEDGE

U.S. officiials also believe if the site is unfavorable enough to U.S. interest and disliked enough by South Vietnam the issue may be used to drive a wedge between the Washington and Saigon governments—which is one reason why the White House and state department have been nervous about the site selection process from the beginning.

A third motivation suggested by American officials is that North Vietnam feels it is important to determine at the outset how much power it can wield.

Reliable sources in Warsaw said Wednesday that the Polish government called in envoys of Canada, the Soviet Union, Japan, Britain, France and India and asked them to approach Washington about agreeing to Warsaw for initial U.S.-North Vietnamese talks.

Diplomatic sources in London said the Soviet Union has thrown its full weight behind Hanoi's demand that Warsaw be chosen.

Moscow's influence is strong in the Polish capital and the Kremlin would be able to keep a closer watch on Washington-Hanoi talks there than in any of the other sites suggested so far.

Johnson administration leaders stuck to their position that the city had to be a neutral place in respect to the war and a site which provided access for U.S. allies in the war, particularly the Saigon government, South Korea and Thailand.

Among foreign diplomats speculation continued to centre on Paris as a compromise city.

'NON-VIOLENT' SCUFFLE

Students Blocked By Demonstration

NEW YORK (UPI) — Graduate students trying to attend classes at Columbia University clashed today with a militant protest group laying siege to university buildings for a third day.

The student demonstrators permitted two professors to enter Fayerweather Hall, one of four university buildings taken over in the protest involving the Vietnam war and racial issues. The protesters had voted to allow students and faculty to enter the hall.

But when two graduate students in economics attempted to force their way through the demonstrators, a scuffle broke out and the students gave up and left.

Prof. Stanislaw Wellicz and a colleague were the first to arrive at the hall for 9 a.m. classes. After some discussion with the student demonstrators sitting across the entrance, both climbed over the demonstrators and entered the building.

"I don't think a dispute between the administration and the community should disrupt classes." Wellicz said.

Moments later, two students arrived to attend Wellicz's class in economic growth and development and found their way barred.

Robert Baker, 24, and Arthur Ganzolsi, 23, tried to push through the demonstrators but several of the protesters pushed back and both students gave up.

"You're interrupting my money," the red-haired Baker shouted angrily at the seated students and 10 pickets. "I'm not here to attend a . . . meeting. I want to attend class."

The demonstrators then took a new vote on allowing access to Fayerweather Hall and again decided not to block the way.

"They voted to let people in," David Epstein, 25, a graduate student in anthropology reported, "but they're keeping their bodies in the way. Anyone who wants to enter will have to climb over them."

NON-VIOLENT

Epstein, one of the demonstrators, said they were determined to keep their protest nonviolent.

University administrators and faculty members met most of the night or remained on call hoping for a break in the protest.

About 250 students spent most of the night in four of the university's building, including administration buildings for the graduate university and undergraduate college.

The students freed the acting dean of Columbia College, Henry S. Coleman, and two aids Wednesday after holding them captive in Coleman's office for 26 hours. They also temporarily barricaded themselves inside the office of university president Grayson Kirk Wednesday and wrecked it.

At issue in the Columbia protest—which involved only a few hundred of the 27,500 students enrolled — were the school's plans for a new gym in a nearby Harlem park and its work with the Institute for Defence Analysis.

Tour Off Tour Cut

OTTAWA (CP) — Governor-General Michener has cancelled official visits to six provinces because of the June 25 general election.

A Government House announcement today said the Governor-General "has regretfully decided . . . that it would be inadvisable to make official visits and accept public engagements while a general eelction is taking place."

Mr. Michener had planned visits to Manitoba, Saskatchewan and British Columbia in May and to New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia in June.

VETS ATTACK PROTESTERS AT CENOTAPH

LONDON (AP)—Australian and New Zealand war veterans clashed with anti-Vietnam war demonstrators today at a wreath-placing ceremony at London's Cenotaph, the national war memorial.

The veterans were commemorating Anzac Day, honoring the Australian and New Zealand dead in the two world wars.

The veterans surged up the steps of the Cenotaph and tried to destroy the anti-war group's wreath.

The veterans also grabbed the demonstrators' banners, ripping them and trampling on them.

Police arrested eight demonstrators.

Foreign Policy Key Issue

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau said Tuesday foreign policy will be an issue in the June 25 election campaign.

Just 26 hours later, Conservative Leader Stanfield took up the challenge in his opening shot of the campaign at London, Ont.

In the foreign policy field at least, the campaign may be the liveliest since acceptance of American nuclear weapons was an issue in the 1963 contest.

The external affairs issue really began April 7, the day after Mr. Trudeau was chosen Liberal leader, with Mr. Trudeau's call for a complete re-assessment of foreign policy.

He was replying to a question about the possibility of bringing Canadian troops home from Europe.

Mr. Stanfield termed this a casual and incomplete statement on foreign policy which Mr. Trudeau had made "off the top of his head."

On Wednesday night in a speech at London he went further.

"Rhetoric," he said of Mr. Trudeau's statement.

SUGGEST REVIEW

The prime minister had suggested a review of Canada's commitments. But the renewal of the North American Air Defence agreement with the U.S. for five years—signed before Mr. Trudeau became Liberal leader—suggested a foreign policy which would retain Canadian commitments.

Mr. Stanfield said NATO would deteriorate if Canada withdrew from the alliance.

Mr. Stanfield demanded an early and explicit statement by Mr. Trudeau on foreign policy.

The freshman prime minister said Wednesday that reshaping foreign policy is very important to him and that he will have ideas to present during the campaign. However, it would not be wise to introduce fundamental changes before the election.

He said he has a basic objection to the proliferation of nuclear weapons. The more countries which had such arms, the greater the danger of some trigger-happy nation starting a war.

The implication was that he may rid Canada of American nuclear weapons. In 1963, he called then Prime Minister Pearson the "unfrocked prince of peace" for accepting these weapons.

Defence Minister Cadieux returns today from a meeting of the NATO nuclear planning group, of which Canada is a permanent member. The group deals with how best to employ tactical nuclear weapons in the defence of Europe.

There are some 7,000 American tactical nuclear warheads in Europe, hundreds of which

Wider Divorce Law Explained At Annual Panel Discussion

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

Under Canada's new divorce legislation, sodomy, bestiality, rape or homosexuality will be grounds for divorce.

Victoria lawyer, Kenneth Murphy, gave this answer at the legal forum in the McPherson Playhouse Wednesday night, sponsored by the Victoria Daily Times, Radio Station CJVI and Victoria Bar Association.

More than 700 men and women, most of them in the middle-age group, attended the forum—the third of its kind since 1966.

A leading question addressed to the panel of four Victoria lawyers was: "When will the new divorce laws be in effect and what will be the grounds for divorce?"

Mr. Murphy replied:

"The basic ground for divorce for many years has been adultery and that still exists in the new divorce legislation, which has not yet been proclaimed.

"It was thought the new legislation would come into effect in May 1 of this year, but that is not so. It may not come in until perhaps June or July or even in the fall, because certain rules have to be made up in order to deal with this new legislation."

Mr. Murphy said the new divorce legislation provides that adultery will still be a ground for divorce. Other grounds will be sodomy, bestiality, rape or homosexuality.

There is also, he added, a new proviso that, where the petitioner has been treated with physical or mental cruelty of such kind as to make it impossible for the marriage to continue, a divorce may be granted.

Assassins Miss Mark In Algeria

ALGIERS (UPI) — Two men today machine gunned a car carrying Algerian President Houari Boumedienne but he escaped with a cut lip from flying glass. An official announcement said the two suspected assailants were killed.

The assassination attempt came minutes after a cabinet meeting presided over by Boumedienne who five months ago crushed an attempted military coup against his regime.

Police promptly surrounded the hilly, sun-baked area overlooking Algiers and announced an hour later the two suspected assailants had been killed. One of Boumedienne's body guards was reported killed in the shooting affray.

The government-controlled Algerian news agency APS reported the assassination attempt, the first since Boumedienne seized power on June 19, 1965.

Mystery Surrounds Russian Satellite

MOSCOW (Reuters) — The Soviet Union today launched an unmanned satellite of the kind that prompted former U.S. defence secretary Robert McNamara to say Russia was testing an orbiting bomb system.

The new craft was put into a low, partial orbit and was apparently returned to earth before making a complete rotation. The evidence for this is the lack in the official announcement of an orbiting time, normally given when conventional satellites are launched.

McNamara said Nov. 3 last year that a series of nine similar Soviet satellites appeared to be tests of a Fractional Orbital Bombardment System, in which bombs would be placed into a low orbit and then brought down over their targets.

Today's satellite, Cosmos 218, was the first of this type since McNamara made his announcement. Like the previous nine satellites, its minimum altitude was about 90 miles.

The Soviet Union also announced today that another unmanned satellite, Cosmos 217, had been launched Wednesday. The official announcement did not give precise details of its mission.

FEDERAL Fisheries Minister Hedard Robichaud announced today he will not seek re-election because of "personal reasons." Mr. Robichaud, 56, has represented the New Brunswick riding of Gloucester since 1953 and was named fisheries minister in 1963.

Saigon Warned Of Attack

SAIGON (AP) — The national police directorate warned the 3,000,000 residents of Saigon today that the Viet Cong plans another attack on the capital.

A communique was the first official warning, although the army was placed on full alert in Saigon and 11 outlying provinces earlier this week.

"The Viet Cong now are employing all means to transport arms, ammunition and explosives into Saigon, this with the goal of provoking trouble and outbursts of violence among the population and to assure the North Vietnamese Communists a favorable position in forthcoming negotiations," the communique said.

TAJ MAHAL SLOWLY SINKING IN THE EAST

Cracks Are Growing in Monument to Love

AGRA, India (AP) — The magnificent Taj Mahal, the peerless monument to love which is India's major tourist attraction, may be sinking ever so slowly into the sacred Jumna River.

Mogul Emperor Shah Jahan's memorial to his second wife is in no immediate danger of crumbling, but some experts in the department of archeology say prompt remedial action is needed.

The Taj first developed cracks in portions of its massive underground foundation several years after its completion, about 1654.

An Englishman, Capt. Joseph Taylor, made repairs in 1810. Additional repairs were logged in 1874.

A recent check showed the tilt of the Taj's four minarets has increased, with one leaning nearly nine inches. Cracks in upper reaches of the huge marble dome are reported enlarging as well.

BEAUTY WORLD-KNOWN

Whatever cracks there may be in the 300-year-old monument, it is still a work of art. Whether viewed at the break of dawn, in the glaring sun of mid-day or in the sheen of a full moon, the Taj lives up to every expectation of the tourist.

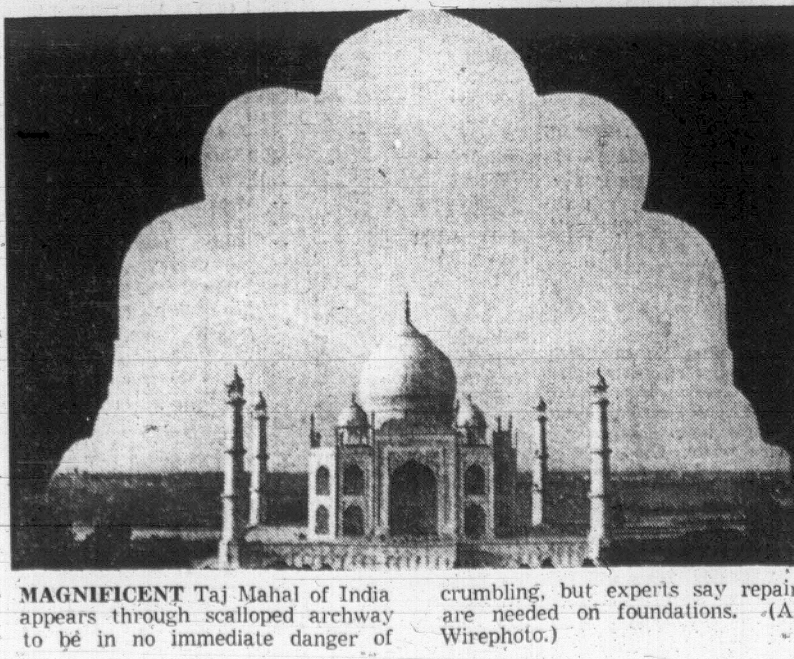
A good portion of the $33,600,000 in foreign exchange which India earned from tourists last year must be credited to the Taj.

Special air, rail and bus service is provided from New Delhi to Agra, a distance of 120 miles, and efficient guide service is readily available.

Shah Jahan had the Taj built as a sepulchre for his second—and favorite—wife, Mumtaz Mahal, Exalted of the Palace. She bore 14 of the emperor's children, dying while giving birth to his eighth son, in 1630 while the shah was waging a battle campaign nearby.

The shah invited designs for the monument and finally selected one by Ustad Isa, a Persian.

The emperor brought in skilled craftsmen from France, Italy, Persia and Turkey, and threw 20,000 laborers into the construction. It took about 22 years. One Indian government publication estimates the original cost at $70,000,000.



MAGNIFICENT Taj Mahal of India appears through scalloped archway to be in no immediate danger of crumbling, but experts say repairs are needed on foundations. (AP Wirephoto.)

T.C. Explorations Marks Up 30c Gain

A 30-cent increase in share values of T. C. Explorations featured active forenoon trading today on the Vancouver Stock Exchange.

The Vancouver-based company, which holds several mineral claims and oil and gas leases in Western Canada, had a turnover of 155,000 shares by noon and was trading at $2.32. It closed Wednesday at $2.02.

Other mining issues were also stronger with Silver City up .10 at $1.35, Northlode was up .05 at $1.60 and Atlas up .10 at $3.15.

Brenda was off 15 cents at $8.25, Granduc was off .10 at $6.90 while Interprovincial slipped .13 to $1.72.

Among oils, Central Del Rio gained .50 to $14.75, while Peace River, the most active issue, advanced .02 to 31.

First National Mortgage led industrial traders with a turnover of 15,600 shares and advanced .37 to $5.75. Captain International was off .12 at $5.

Gains were posted today on both the Toronto and New York markets in active trading.

AT TORONTO—In industrials, Canadian Goldale rose 3¾ to 14, Falconbridge 2⅛ to 103½ and Ontario Store Fixtures 1⅝ to 15⅛.

Imperial Oil was up 1⅞ to 65⅜ and Canadian Superior 1¾ to 45¼.

Among golds, Dome rose 2½ to 62½. Base metals were quiet.

Final volume 3,278,000 shares compared with 2,672,000 Wednesday.

AT NEW YORK Schenley, pacing the list on volume, dropped about 3 points on news that Lorillard had withdrawn from its contest with Glen Alden to acquire control of Schenley. Lorillard slipped about 1½ and Glen Alden took a fractional loss.

McDonnell-Douglas was up 2 points before trading was stopped in it as news came out that United Airlines had decided to buy that company's version of the 250-seat airbus. Boeing, an unsuccessful competitor, lost a fraction.

AT MONTREAL senior mines, oils and papers highlighted moderately active trading today.

Falconbridge Nickel climbed 2¼ to 104¼ on sales of 5,086 shares; Consolidated-Bathurst 1½ to 17½ on 1,095 shares and Imperial Oil 1 point to 64½ on 811 shares.

In the industrial list, Montreal Locomotive advanced a point to 14, Famous Players ¾ to 49 and DuPont ½ to 28½. CPR lost ¾ to 52¼.

AT LONDON the stock market was firm today but by close prices had slipped from their best levels of the day.

Gilts were quiet.

Dollar stocks were strong and the dollar premium advanced before easing slightly.

In Canadians, Inco and Imperial Oil rose 6 points at one stage and Noranda was up 4½.

Canadian banks were particularly strong with gains as high as 10 shillings.

Like many another Victorian, I have been waiting impatiently for a chance to help Montrealers avoid the cruel tax hike with which they are threatened. But to the best of my knowledge, the two-buck subscriptions to Montreal Mayor Jean Drapeau's non-lottery haven't yet reached our city.

Earlier this month, a spokesman for his bouncing worship announced that "application" forms were being mailed out in bundles to banks across Canada. But a Wednesday check of local main offices proved disappointing.

The Bank of Montreal seemed a logical place to start. There, I was referred to the officer in charge of foreign currency, who assured me that no non-lottery tickets had been received.

The Royal Bank of Canada had no tickets either, and held strong doubts that it would peddle the Drapeau tokens in any case. As for the Bank of Commerce and the Bank of Nova Scotia, they knew only what they'd read in the newspapers.

The Toronto-Dominion was in the same boat, but added that any decision on the matter would come from its head office. If they did undertake anything of the sort, the fact would certainly be advertised.

This is all very discouraging, but with a chance at instant riches—a possible $100,000 for a $2 investment—Canadians won't be baulked. Any day now, I expect to hear a gruff whisper in my ear: "What'll you have, the Irish or the Montreal?"

★

There is a limit to the amount of political snap, crackle and pop I can absorb in any year, and once the June 25 election is safely put to bed, I hope most heartily that Ottawa will settle down to calm, concentrated and productive work.

It was, I suppose, essential that an election be held. We have two untried and opposing party leaders, and until they have led their people into combat at the polls, the pecking order of Parliament will not be satisfactorily established.

I like Mr. Stanfield of the Conservatives. He is cool, shrewd, and gifted with the dry Bluenose humor that can be matched only in the New England that is so close in spirit to Nova Scotia.

But the high excitement, the hope of a new and effective approach to the problem of our national split identity, continues to ride with Mr. Trudeau, and I expect he will be returned as prime minister with a majority government.

In what strikes me as essentially a battle of images, I think his chances of achieving this result are better than good. I look for the non-crystallized voter who is neither dyed-in-the-wool Liberal nor firm Conservative to give Mr. Trudeau his majority.

Tragedy overtakes wild creatures as well as humans, and on the cove shingle a few days ago, we came on the remains of a duck that had pretty obviously furnished a meal for some night marauder.

Next day, walking the beach, we noticed a hen mallard swimming only a yard or so from shore in the shadow of a rock point. When we came near, she paddled out a few feet, but made no attempt to join the flock of freshwater ducks that put in several weeks ago.

Later, looking back from our beach stairs, we saw that the mallard had returned to her spot in the lee of the point.

She was there the next day, and the next after that, and when we went down early Wednesday morning, she was still on station.

Waiting for a mate that won't return? Perhaps. We only know that we'll be glad to come down some morning and find that corner empty.

Dots Pinpoint Scope of Health Menace

COMMUNITY DISGRACE in eyes of many health officials is the fact that Victoria in recent months has experienced outbreak of hepatitis which appears most dense in vicinity of beautiful but polluted inland waterway, the Gorge. Royal Jubilee pathologist, Dr. Kenneth Thornton recently said water-born human wastes in Gorge leave city "sitting on the edge of a volcano." Dots on map (compiled by Metropolitan Health officer Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread) indicate location of 246 cases within past year. There were 276 cases in 1967, double the number recorded in Toronto, Winnipeg or Vancouver despite our better water supply and stricter sanitation controls in restaurants. Dr. Whitbread has urged community support to regional sewer program to wipe out the disease. Entire Gorge, once a city playground, is now closed to swimming. Fever, loss of appetite, nausea and abdominal discomfort are early symptoms, often followed by jaundice. Infection may last several weeks and is passed from person to person. Severe and fatal cases can ensue from liver damage. Although most new cases are recorded in warmer months, there were 113 in the first quarter of 1968. Gorge beaches are being posted with no-swimming signs.

PUBLICITY SCHEME CHARGED

Victoria city health inspector Lloyd Smith is continuing his anti-pollution fight with the Greater Victoria Metropolitan Board of Health.

In a press release this morning Mr. Smith says he has examined several local beaches in recent days and discovered unmistakable evidence of sewage on Fleming, Foul Bay, Shoal Bay, Willows and Cadboro Bay beaches.

"There is no visible evidence of sewage in the Gorge at Kinsmen Park or near the Trans-Canada Highway," Mr. Smith stated.

'NOT PLACARDED'

He claimed that the beaches without visible signs of sewage were placarded as unfit for swimming while the beaches he listed were not placarded.

"I have written to the minister of health charging discrimination in the administration of health services in Greater Victoria," the statement read. "And I have written to the city manager asking for an interview to discuss severing my connection with the health department.

"I have no wish to be associated with a health department that has strayed so far from its scientific base."

Mr. Smith said that in his opinion the association of last year's outbreak of hepatitis with the Gorge, the flood of anti-Gorge publicity and "discriminatory" placarding were nothing more than a publicity scheme.

PAID BY CITY

Mr. Smith is a city employee, paid by the city but under the jurisdiction of senior health officer Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread.

Six months ago at a close-door session the health board voted unanimously to request the city to dismiss Mr. Smith from his post.

To date the city has not acted on the recommendation.

Old French Coin, Silver Dollars Taken From Home

A nineteenth century French 20 franc piece was taken by thieves who broke into a Rockland Avenue home Wednesday night.

The 1858 Napoleon III coin, now valued at $50, was among loot taken from the home of John Urbin, 1018 Rockland.

Police said the culprits, who entered through a side window, also took 35 silver dollars, $100 in smaller coins, two cameras and an electric razor.

Saanichton Remembers Race Days

There will be a historical note in the thunder of horses' hooves during the feature race at Sandown track Friday.

Sponsor will be the North and South Saanich Agricultural Society and it will be known as the Saanichton Fair Centennial Race.

The society will thus mark not only its 100th year of operating the Saanichton Fair but pay tribute to the role it has had in local racing, vice-president Doug McHattie said today.

●

For it was the Saanichton Fair which had the first race track on the Saanich Peninsula just after the turn of the century.

Records show that the contract to build the track was let to a "Mr. Thompson" and the necessary money was borrowed at 1 per cent interest.

The fair's race program was discontinued on a sour note in 1913. It seems that disputes between Indian and white riders became so frequent it was decided to call a halt to the races.

●

Mr. McHattie said the agricultural society is also sponsoring a mural competition in junior high schools on the Saanich Peninsula to mark the fair's centennial.

The murals will depict the fair's history and agricultural progress on the peninsula over the past century.

A winner will be picked in June and it will hang as a permanent exhibit in the main hall of the fair grounds at Saanichton.

DAYLIGHT SAVING TIME STARTS SUNDAY

You Lose An Hour of Shut-Eye

Pursuant to the act, it shall be reckoned that Saturday will be a shorter night than usual.

That's a loose translation of the order-in-council approved last January 15 stipulating that by order of the cabinet, Daylight Saving Time begins at 2 a.m. Sunday.

King Canute may not have rolled back the sea, but modern government has more power over these things.

Provincial Secretary W. D. Black signed the order and accordingly on Saturday night before going beddy-bye we'll all be climbing on chairs to reach clocks.

Then everyone pauses, teeters and shouts to the rest of the family, "Do I set the hands ahead or back?" And then the fight starts.

Clip this out. The rule is move them ahead an hour. If you turn in at midnight make the clock read 1 a.m.

That's when we all realize we're going to be an hour short of sack time.

Please don't phone Mr. Black. He's probably teetering on a chair too.

General Rate Up Two Mills In Esquimalt

Taxes in Esquimalt will increase $2 to $7 this year on better-class homes and will drop $4 on the average family residence.

Mayor Ray Bryant said this morning that his council had struck the final general mill rate at 30.6 mills, an increase of two mills over the rate last year.

In Esquimalt the mill is valued at $24,000 for budget purposes.

"We are very pleased with our efforts to hold costs in line while maintaining an outstanding level of services," Mayor Bryant said. "The two mill increase will mean that the owner of a $22,000 home will be paying about $7 more in taxes, the owner of a $15,000 home some $2 more while the owner of an $8,500 home will actually pay four dollars less than last year."

Some of the highlights of the 1968 budget are a boulevard improvement and tree planting program for $66,000 and parks and playground development and maintenance, $63,000.

PAY INCREASED

Also included in the budget are pay boosts for the mayor and aldermen.

Mayor Bryant gets a $600 a year increase from $3,600 to $4,200 while the aldermen jump from $1,200 to $1,500 a year.

The mayor said he was particularly pleased that in a year where some 80 per cent of the budget costs were already fixed taxes would reflect such a low increase.

"Increse in wages as a result of new collective agreements amounted to $54,000," the mayor noted. "That in itself is in excess of the two mill increase amounting to $48,000."

CLINIC GETS 'FOLDING MONEY'

A Victoria social club fading out of existence turned over a bank balance of about $5,000 to the Handicapped Children's Clinic campaign fund today.

A campaign official said the Mount Tolmie Social Club, active for many years, was depleted in membership, and it had been decided to disband.

Remaining members agreed to leave what money they had left to the clinic, he said.

The donation will bring the building fund to about $145,000. Campaigners are hoping to raise $250,000.

Armed Forces Open Doors On June 1

The armed forces will go public for a day June 1.

West coast military authorities have planned an airshow and displays for Armed Forces Day, to be held at Patricia Bay airport.

The day's activities at VU-33, the navy air squadron, will begin in the afternoon after the official opening by Rear-Admiral John Charles, Commander, Maritime Forces Pacific.

Events ranging from the airshow and rides in armored personnel carriers to static displays to emphasize assorted training commitments of the forces will be set up, a spokesman said.

The military set this one day a year open house to the public in 1965 to familiarize anyone who is interested with the roles and missions of the armed forces.

Last year, more than 10,000 persons took advantage of the day in the Victoria area.

ENVOY SEES BENNETT

'Czech Upheaval May Spur Trade'

By BRUCE YEMEN

A Czechoslovakian effort to join the British Columbia mining boom in a big way will be aided by "far-reaching" political changes at home, Ambassador Miroslav Zemla said here today.

Dr. Zemla and his trade commissioner, Vladimir Matecka, were to meet Premier W. A. C. Bennett and industry department officials today in a bid to pave the way for Czech-Canadian partnership in mine development.

Dr. Zemla said his country would like to provide machinery and technical aid in B.C. mine exploration and would offer an excellent market for base metals such as copper, zinc and molybdenum. (See story Page 9).

But Czechs sympathize with Canada's need and desire for a more diversified economy and would be glad to trade in a wide range of products, he added.

FAST-GROWING MARKET

A B.C. trade mission — in fact, any B.C. citizen — would be welcomed in Czechoslovakia, the 42-year-old ambassador said, pointing out that Canada does not have a trade commissioner there.

Mr. Matecka, who works out of Montreal, said he has a staff of six to boost Czech exports to Canada, which could do more than it has to penetrate the fast-growing Czech market.

The ambassador said there has been a lot of Canadian interest in recent Czech political changes which he termed "far-reaching."

'FULL DEMOCRACY'

The fall from power of the old leadership does not alter the basic socialist society but it is an attempt" to combine socialism with full democracy," a situation unparalleled in any other East European country, Dr. Zemla said.

"We hope it will be possible to succeed," he said, expressing approval of "very important measures" to guarantee freedom of the individual.

He said the measures included the lifting of press, radio and TV censorship, guarantees of freedom of assembly, religious belief and the right to leave the country and return later without being branded as a political emigre.

At various times all societies reach critical moments when reforms must be made, the ambassador said.

The coming to power of Prime Minister Trudeau and the change in Conservative party leadership demonstrate that Canada has also faced a similar moment, Dr. Zemla said.

NEVER AN OPPOSITION

But while Czech reforms are profound and of possible major influence on other East European nations in the future, Dr. Zemla cautioned against blurring the distinctions between the Canadian and the Czech political systems.

"We shall probably not have what you call Her Majesty's Loyal Opposition," he smiled.

The Czech society is socialistic and classless while the capitalist society retains the conflict of the classes, he said.

One of the major economic effects of the political change in Czechoslovakia should be the full implementation of the efficiency-geared economic reforms that were conceived several years ago but not introduced fast enough to satisfy many Czechs, he said.

The modified acceptance of the profit motive plus the access of Czech industry to foreign capital should increase both efficiency and international trade links, he said.

Czech exports to Canada were about $28 million last year while Canada sent $21 million in products ($8 million in wheat) there, Mr. Matecka said.

About $1.6 million of that trade went through B.C. ports, he said, indicating the figure could be much increased in the future.

The two were "very encouraged" about talks they had with Prairie premiers and trade officials.

Dr. Zemla spoke openly on the political struggle at home, calling it "a very serious and open struggle of minds."

He said the political result of that struggle is properly described as an experiment but "very probably" it would be emulated in time by other Communist European nations.

Big Job At Sooke Dam Site

$1.5 Million Project To Increase Storage Pond

Work will commence this year on a $1.5 million dam for the head of Sooke Lake.

The Greater Victoria Water District Board this morning agreed to approve preliminary work on the raising of the existing dam by 22 feet.

Major excavating and construction will start in 1969 with the work scheduled for completion in late 1970 or early 1971.

By raising the height of the dam the water storage area will be increaser to hold 11.4 billion gallons, enough to serve a population of 330,000, the area's estimated population by the year 2001.

Ker, Priestman and Graeme will be in charge of the preliminary work and of the dam design.

In addition to raising the height of the dam the water district will also undertake a major road location project.

Chief water commissioner Ron Upward told the board that a provincial road located on the east side of Sooke Lake would have to be re-built to present standards above the new water level.

Estimated cost of the road project is between $75,000 and $125,000.

Mr. Upward said he had asked the provincial government to consider abandoning the road to save the cost but that to date he had met with a negative response.

Mayor Hugh Curtis suggested that board chairman Mayor Hugh Stephen also make representation to the provincial authorities.

Grits to Rule On Nomination Of Taximan

The nomination Monday of city taxi operator James Gorst as Liberal candidate for Esquimalt-Saanich has been formally protested.

A provincial executive committee of the party will rule tonight upon whether his nomination will be declared null and void.

The move was announced this morning by Liberal provincial president Lawrence Jolivet of Vancouver in a Times interview.

He said the formal appeal against Mr. Gorst's nomination was "signed by more than one person." He has also received more than a dozen telephone calls and seven letters protesting Mr. Gorst's candidacy.

MAY BE VOIDED

The probability that the nomination might be voided was voiced here Tuesday by Kenneth Cox, local area director and provincial executive member, following a stormy nominating convention at St. Christopher's Church hall.

Mr. Gorst, as constituency president had called the nominating convention, acted as meeting chairman and vote counter, and was the only nominee by the local executive. There were no nominations from the floor.

He had called the convention March 26, the local constitution requiring only 21 days advance notice. Several persons present noted that the provincial constitution calls for 60 days notice.

In the ensuing uproar about half of the 110 persons present stalked from the meeting, some of them turning in their membership cards first.

'OTHERS IGNORED RULE'

Mr. Gorst had set the meeting in defiance of a request for delay from Mr. Jolivet and had argued that several other constituencies had ignored the 60-day provincial rule.

Mr. Gorst, who came third in the 1965 federal election race in the same riding, said this morning he will go to Vancouver to attend the executive committee meeting tonight.

Ask The Times

Q. Please tell me how to apply for a grant from the Canada Council and are there similar organizations? C.F.

A. The council is a government-sponsored organization, the only one of its kind in Canada, set up in 1957 by act of Parliament with 19 members, a chairman and vice-chairman to dole out grants in support of the arts, humanities and social sciences. Members meet about three times a year to disburse grants from two $50 million funds, one for private grants, the other for universities. The money came from a surplus in the St. Laurent budget of 1956-57, from succession duties on the estates of financier I. W. Killam and steel magnate Sir James Dunn. Ten types of scholarship are awarded, nine competitively. Apply to Secretary, Canada Council, 140 Wellington Street, Ottawa.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

65 MOTORCYCLES

"CYCLE" Magazine road-tested the 350 Honda. . . THIS is what they had to say:

- —Probably the most technically advanced motorcycle built to date.
- —The 350 engine (racing mills excepted.) is the most sophisticated power plant that has been produced to date.
- —A lower end that a Chrysler Hemi would be proud of.
- —The 350s are among the smoothest four stroke motorcycles we have tested.
- —Cornered with razor sharp precision regardless of the angle at which they were heeled over.
- —They've got plenty of punch and are easily capable of cruising speeds in the 80-85 m.p.h. range.
- —Everywhere you look, mechanical perfection. The 350s are without flaw.

Come in and test ride the 350 Honda now at

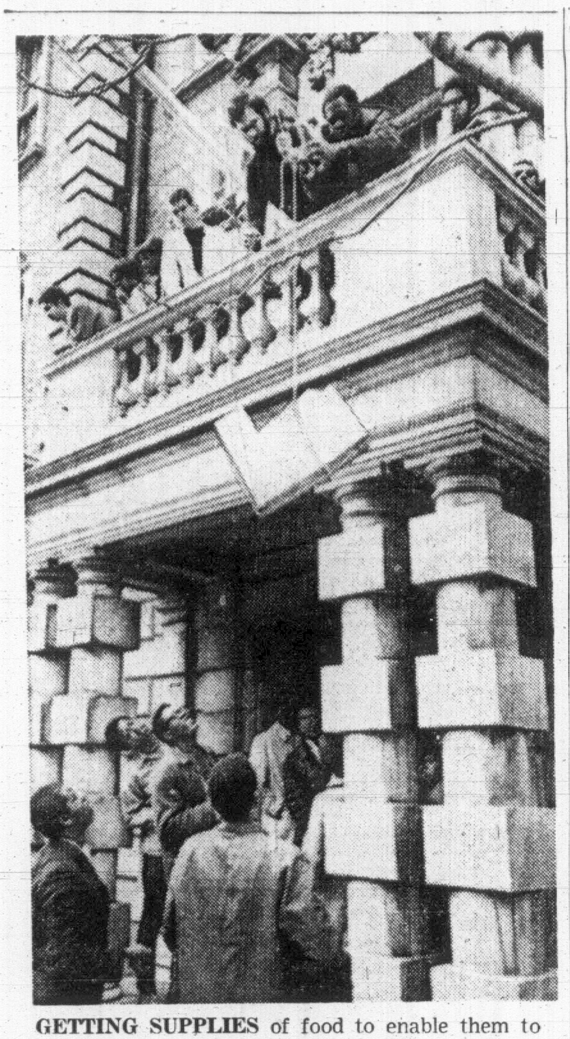
Paris as Compromise May Break Deadlock



GETTING SUPPLIES of food to enable them to continue siege of administration building are group of students at Boston University. Similar demonstration was being carried out in New York. (AP Wirephoto.)

'NON-VIOLENT' SCUFFLE

Students Blocked By Demonstration

NEW YORK (UPI) — Graduate students trying to attend classes at Columbia University clashed today with a militant protest group laying siege to university buildings for a third day.

The student demonstrators permitted two professors to enter Fayerweather Hall, one of four university buildings taken over in the protest involving the Vietnam war and racial issues. The protesters had voted to allow students and faculty to enter the hall.

But when two graduate students in economics attempted to force their way through the demonstrators, a scuffle broke out and the students gave up and left.

Prof. Stanislaw Wellicz and a colleague were the first to arrive at the hall for 9 a.m. classes. After some discussion with the student demonstrators sitting across the entrance, both climbed over the demonstrators and entered the building.

"I don't think a dispute between the administration and the community should disrupt classes." Wellicz said.

Moments later, two students arrived to attend Wellicz's class in economic growth and development and found their way barred.

Robert Baker, 24, and Arthur Ganzolsi, 23, tried to push through the demonstrators but several of the protesters pushed back and both students gave up.

"You're interrupting my money," the red-haired Baker shouted angrily at the seated students and 10 pickets. "I'm not here to attend a ... meeting. I want to attend class."

The demonstrators then took a new vote on allowing access to Fayerweather Hall and again decided not to block the way.

"They voted to let people in," David Epstein, 25, a graduate student in anthropology reported, "but they're keeping their bodies in the way. Anyone who wants to enter will have to climb over them."

NON-VIOLENT

Epstein, one of the demonstrators, said they were determined to keep their protest nonviolent.

University administrators and faculty members met most of the night or remained on call hoping for a break in the protest.

About 250 students spent most of the night in four of the university's building, including administration buildings for the graduate university and undergraduate college.

The students freed the acting dean of Columbia College, Henry S. Coleman, and two aids Wednesday after holding them captive in Coleman's office for 26 hours. They also temporarily barricaded themselves inside the office of university president Grayson Kirk Wednesday and wrecked it.

At issue in the Columbia protest—which involved only a few hundred of the 27,500 students enrolled — were the school's plans for a new gym in a nearby Harlem park and its work with the Institute for Defence Analysis.

Tour Off Tour Cut

OTTAWA (CP) — Governor-General Michener has cancelled official visits to six provinces because of the June 25 general election.

A Government House announcement today said the Governor-General "has regretfully decided . . . that it would be inadvisable to make official visits and accept public engagements while a general eelction is taking place."

Mr. Michener had planned visits to Manitoba, Saskatchewan and British Columbia in May and to New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia in June.

VETS ATTACK PROTESTERS AT CENOTAPH

LONDON (AP)—Australian and New Zealand war veterans clashed with anti-Vietnam war demonstrators today at a wreath-placing ceremony at London's Cenotaph, the national war memorial.

The veterans were commemorating Anzac Day, honoring the Australian and New Zealand dead in the two world wars.

The veterans surged up the steps of the Cenotaph and tried to destroy the anti-war group's wreath.

The veterans also grabbed the demonstrators' banners, ripping them and trampling on them.

Police arrested eight demonstrators.

Foreign Policy Key Issue

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau said Tuesday foreign policy will be an issue in the June 25 election campaign.

Just 26 hours later, Conservative Leader Stanfield took up the challenge in his opening shot of the campaign at London, Ont.

In the foreign policy field at least, the campaign may be the liveliest since acceptance of American nuclear weapons was an issue in the 1963 contest.

The external affairs issue really began April 7, the day after Mr. Trudeau was chosen Liberal leader, with Mr. Trudeau's call for a complete re-assessment of foreign policy.

He was replying to a question about the possibility of bringing Canadian troops home from Europe.

Mr. Stanfield termed this a casual and incomplete statement on foreign policy which Mr. Trudeau had made "off the top of his head."

On Wednesday night in a speech at London he went further.

"Rhetoric," he said of Mr. Trudeau's statement.

SUGGEST REVIEW

The prime minister had suggested a review of Canada's commitments. But the renewal of the North American Air Defence agreeent with the U.S. for five years—signed before Mr. Trudeau became Liberal leader—suggested a foreign policy which would retain Canadian commitments.

Mr. Stanfield said NATO would deteriorate if Canada withdrew from the alliance.

Mr. Stanfield demanded an early and explicit statement by Mr. Trudeau on foreign policy.

The freshman prime minister said Wednesday that reshaping foreign policy is very important to him and that he will have ideas to present during the campaign. However, it would not be wise to introduce fundamental changes before the election.

He said he has a basic objection to the proliferation of nuclear weapons. The more countries which had such arms, the greater the danger of some trigger-happy nation starting a war.

The implication was that he may rid Canada of American nuclear weapons. In 1963, he called then Prime Minister Pearson the "unfrocked prince of peace" for accepting these weapons.

Defence Minister Cadieux returns today from a meeting of the NATO nuclear planning group, of which Canada is a permanent member. The group deals with how best to employ tactical nuclear weapons in the defence of Europe.

There are some 7,000 American tactical nuclear warheads in Europe, hundreds of which

Wider Divorce Law Explained At Annual Panel Discussion

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

Under Canada's new divorce legislation, sodomy, bestiality, rape or homosexuality will be grounds for divorce.

Victoria lawyer, Kenneth Murphy, gave this answer at the legal forum in the McPherson Playhouse Wednesday night, sponsored by the Victoria Daily Times, Radio Station CJVI and Victoria Bar Association.

More than 700 men and women, most of them in the middle-age group, attended the forum—the third of its kind since 1966.

A leading question addressed to the panel of four Victoria lawyers was: "When will the new divorce laws be in effect and what will be the grounds for divorce?"

QUESTIONS, ANSWERS ON PAGES 18, 19

Mr. Murphy replied:

"The basic ground for divorce for many years has been adultery and that still exists in the new divorce legislation, which has not yet been proclaimed.

"It was thought the new legislation would come into effect in May 1 of this year, but that is not so. It may not come in until perhaps June or July or even in the fall, because certain rules have to be made up in order to deal with this new legislation."

Mr. Murphy said the new divorce legislation provides that adultery will still be a ground for divorce. Other grounds will be sodomy, bestiality, rape or homosexuality.

There is also, he added, a new proviso that, where the petitioner has been treated with physical or mental cruelty of such kind as to make it impossible for the marriage to continue, a divorce may be granted.

BOUMEDIENNE
... cut lip

Assassins Miss Mark In Algeria

ALGIERS (UPI) — Two men today machine gunned a car carrying Algerian President Houari Boumedienne but he escaped with a cut lip from flying glass. An official announcement said the two suspected assailants were killed.

The assassination attempt came minutes after a cabinet meeting presided over by Boumedienne who five months ago crushed an attempted military coup against his regime.

Police promptly surrounded the hilly, sun-baked area overlooking Algiers and announced an hour later the two suspected assailants had been killed. One of Boumedienne's body guards was reported killed in the shooting affray.

The government-controlled Algerian news agency APS reported the assassination attempt, the first since Boumedienne seized power on June 19, 1965.

Mystery Surrounds Russian Satellite

MOSCOW (Reuters) — The Soviet Union today launched an unmanned satellite of the kind that prompted former U.S. defence secretary Robert McNamara to say Russia was testing an orbiting bomb system.

The new craft was put into a low, partial orbit and was apparently returned to earth before making a complete rotation. The evidence for this is the lack in the official announcement of an orbiting time, normally given when conventional satellites are launched.

McNamara said Nov. 3 last year that a series of nine similar Soviet satellites appeared to be tests of a Fractional Orbital Bombardment System, in which bombs would be placed into a low orbit and then brought down over their targets.

Today's satellite, Cosmos 218, was the first of this type since McNamara made his announcement. Like the previous nine satellites, its minimum altitude was about 90 miles.

The Soviet Union also announced today that another unmanned satellite, Cosmos 217, had been launched Wednesday. The official announcement did not give precise details of its mission.

FEDERAL Fisheries Minister Hedard Robichaud announced today he will not seek re-election because of "personal reasons." Mr. Robichaud, 56, has represented the New Brunswick riding of Gloucester since 1953 and was named fisheries minister in 1963.

Saigon Warned Of Attack

SAIGON (AP) — The national police directorate warned the 3,000,000 residents of Saigon today that the Viet Cong plans another attack on the capital.

A communique was the first official warning, although the army was placed on full alert in Saigon and 11 outlying provinces earlier this week.

"The Viet Cong now are employing all means to transport arms, ammunition and explosives into Saigon, this with the goal of provoking trouble and outbursts of violence among the population and to assure the North Vietnamese Communists a favorable position in forthcoming negotiations," the communique said.

Hanoi Reply Secret

(Times News Services)

North Vietnam replied today to the latest United States proposals on the site for preliminary peace talks but the nature of the reply was not disclosed.

U.S. Ambassador William H. Sullivan was called to the North Vietnamese embassy in Vientiane, capital of Laos, to receive a formal note from the Hanoi government.

There were widespread rumors that both sides are approaching a compromise on Paris as the site for talks.

U.S. officials in Washington said however that North Vietnam appears to be mounting a major campaign aimed at getting the United States to accept Warsaw.

That was their assessment of Poland's reported appeal to six embassies in Warsaw to exert influence in bringing preliminary peace talks on ending the Vietnam war to the Communist nation's capital. In Ottawa, the Canadian government confirmed its embassy received the appeal.

President Johnson meanwhile was reported prepared to carry on prolonged, hard-nosed negotiations with North Vietnam over the site.

U.S. officials say North Vietnam believes that by manipulating public opinion pressures against the Johnson administration it can force the U.S. to agree to a place agreeable to Hanoi and painful to Washington.

SITE AS WEDGE

U.S. officiials also believe if the site is unfavorable enough to U.S. interest and disliked enough by South Vietnam the issue may be used to drive a wedge between the Washington and Saigon governments—which is one reason why the White House and state department have been nervous about the site selection process from the beginning.

A third motivation suggested by American officials is that North Vietnam feels it is important to determine at the outset how much power it can wield.

Reliable sources in Warsaw said Wednesday that the Polish government called in envoys of Canada, the Soviet Union, Japan, Britain, France and India and asked them to approach Washington about agreeing to Warsaw for initial U.S.-North Vietnamese talks.

Diplomatic sources in London said the Soviet Union has thrown its full weight behind Hanoi's demand that Warsaw be chosen.

Moscow's influence is strong in the Polish capital and the Kremlin would be able to keep a closer watch on Washington-Hanoi talks there than in any of the other sites suggested so far.

Johnson administration leaders stuck to their position that the city had to be a neutral place in respect to the war and a site which provided access for U.S. allies in the war, particularly the Saigon government, South Korea and Thailand.

Among foreign diplomats speculation continued to centre on Paris as a compromise city.

LOSING FACE?

Some U.S. officials acknowledge privately that in the propaganda battle that has been waged in the three weeks since

TAJ MAHAL SLOWLY SINKING IN THE EAST

Cracks Are Growing in Monument to Love

AGRA, India (AP) — The magnificent Taj Mahal, the peerless monument to love which is India's major tourist attraction, may be sinking ever so slowly into the sacred Jumna River.

Mogul Emperor Shah Jahan's memorial to his second wife is in no immediate danger of crumbling, but some experts in the department of archeology say prompt remedial action is needed.

The Taj first developed cracks in portions of its massive underground foundation several years after its completion, about 1654.

An Englishman, Capt. Joseph Taylor, made repairs in 1810. Additional repairs were logged in 1874.

BEAUTY WORLD-KNOWN

Whatever cracks there may be in the 300-year-old monument, it is still a work of art. Whether viewed at the break of dawn, in the glaring sun of mid-day or in the sheen of a full moon, the Taj lives up to every expectation of the tourist.

A good portion of the $33,600,000 in foreign exchange which India earned from tourists last year must be credited to the Taj.

Special air, rail and bus service is provided from New Delhi to Agra, a distance of 120 miles, and efficient guide service is readily available.

Shah Jahan had the Taj built as a sepulchre for his second—and favorite—wife, Mumtaz Mahal, Exalted of the Palace. She bore 14 of the emperor's children, dying while giving birth to his eighth son, in 1630 while the shah was waging a battle campaign nearby.

The shah invited designs for the monument and finally selected one by Ustad Isa, a Persian.

The emperor brought in skilled craftsmen from France, Italy, Persia and Turkey, and threw 20,000 laborers into the construction. It took about 22 years. One Indian government publication estimates the original cost at $70,000,000.

MAGNIFICENT Taj Mahal of India appears through scalloped archway to be in no immediate danger of crumbling, but experts say repairs are needed on foundations. (AP Wirephoto.)
